So He Gave $6,000. Sad Copper, Sad Oil. Wanted a King, Got One. Mussolini Wears Cotton.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

A FEW EARNEST "drys" will be surprised, others won't be surprised, to hear that the intelligent head of a bootleg ring in Seattle contributed $6,000 to Senator Jones' 1926 campaign for re-election.

Senator Jones is drier than dry. He invented the Jones law, which, if it was really a law instead of being a joke, would send 50 per cent of our most "respectable" customers of bootleggers to jail.

The bootlegger contributing $6,000 to a dry senator's campaign must think that prohibition is good for bootlegging.

SENATOR JONES says he didn't know anything about the $6,000 contributed to his dry campaign by a bootlegger. His friends fear that the contribution may injure Senator Jones' chances when he runs for the Senate again in 1932.

WALL STREET felt very cheerful yesterday, except coppers and oils. They were gloomy, and they ought to be cheerful always. Copper and oil represent two of the nation's greatest sources of wealth.

Our situation is strange. We suffer because we have TOO MUCH of the things that nations need.

Too much wheat makes the farmer poor; too much oil hurts the oil business; too much copper cuts the price below the cost of production in many mines.

It is hard to think of anything you can do for a little rich boy bored to tears with too many toys in his nursery. It is hard to plan anything for a country that has nothing to complain of except that it has too much.

ONE THING is certain. It will be necessary for the government, in its spending, to recognize, sooner or later, the fact that there has been a slump and that American prosperity is not the vigorous creature that it was a little while ago.

Perhaps Secretary Mellon and President Hoover will decide: "Is it really necessary to pay all the war debts in a hurry?"

Why not let another patriotic generation pay part?

"SHELL UNION," big British-Dutch oil company, that has been like a railroad spike in the side of American oil concerns, decided yesterday to pass its dividend. No 35 cents a share on the common stock this quarter.

Nobody can imagine how badly Standard Oil, Texaco, Sinclair, and other American concerns will feel about that.

AND IN WALL STREET nobody seems eager to borrow any money. It was offered yesterday at 2 per cent "on call." And some unofficially sent money as low as 1½ per cent. Time money was borrowed as low as 3 per cent. This is very sad for banks that were lending loose money at 15 and 20 per cent not long ago.

That golden goose, for the time being, was butchered very thoroughly. For details apply to the Federal Reserve. It knows.

DISPATCHES FROM Bucharest say the new King Carol, who decided to come back, an put his little boy out of the royal job, plans to get a brand new wife. He was divorced from his first wife, Queen Helen, after he had departed with a charming lady, making no secret of it.

When he returned from Paris, looking "royal," it was said the divorce would be canceled. Now it is planned to let the divorce stand and get another queen.

He may marry the lady with whom he departed, but if so, it must be a "morganatic" marriage. A king cannot marry, in the regular way, anything that is not "royalty."

Rumanians thought they needed a king and they have got one.

IT IS HOT IN Rome and Mussolini sets a good example, appearing in public wearing a suit of white cotton, a soft collar, white canvas shoes made of cotton, a white yachting cap also of cotton.

If men here would adopt the idea, wearing cotton in summer, they would be more comfortable and the cotton farmers more prosperous.

For those that can't afford too much "dry cleaning," the cotton suits could be dyed gray, brown, black.

LAWYERS GATHERED at the solemn Bar Association meeting decide to poll the bar of the country and learn what it thinks of prohibition.

Some lawyers objected, saw a "lack of propriety," in such a poll. But a vote, 10 to 1, decides to ask lawyers, "Is prohibition a success or a failure, a blessing or a curse?"

Since the laws are made 90 per cent by lawyers, and interpreted 100 per cent by other lawyers on the bench, the lawyers' opinion is important.

IT IS DIFFICULT to think of anything in the way of murderous violence that our prohibition-bootleg-racketeer crime wave has not produced. But somebody in Portland, Me., thought of something new. This person, unknown, overcame Policeman Michael T. Connoly, tied his wrists together with his own handcuffs, threw him in the water and drowned him.

The police are looking for a former middleweight boxing champion, suspected of the crime.

RIVAL FIRM SUGGESTS RENTAL

Willing to Lease Equipment For November Election Should Deliveries Fail

Allegheny County can be sure of voting machines in the November election even if the Poole Manufacturing Company of Baltimore should not deliver voting machines in time, The Automatic Voting Machine Company of Jamestown, N. Y., is ready to sell or rent voting machines to the county in time for the election, it was learned yesterday.

MEETS ARMSTRONG

Russell F. Griffen, vice president of the Jamestown concern, conferred with County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong yesterday afternon. He would not disclose what he had discussed with the chairman of the board, but when asked if his company would be willing to furnish voting machines to the county in an emergency, he said:

"If the occasion arises that the County Commissioners are not able to get delivery of machines in time for the general election, my company will be able and glad to furnish the machines either by sale or rental to the county."

'NO TIME FOR TALKING'

Commissioner Armstrong, interviewed after Griffen's visit, said:

"I personally have no prejudice in this voting machine business. I had wanted to take a little time to talk it over be-

MICHAEL M'DERMOTT LEE ALLEN, 57

The big, part-Indian from Mifflin Township, held by county detectives in the slaying of Daniel McConeghy, 34, Curry Hollow, who last July eloped and married Allen's daughter, Edith, teacher.

ELOPER KILLED, WIFE'S FATHER IN CUSTODY

Confessed, Detectives Say, He Shot Down Mifflin Man As Result of Altercation

Lee Allen, 57, part Indian, of Mifflin Township, today admitted killing the man who had eloped last July with Allen's 22-year-old daughter, county detectives say.

The murdered son-in-law, Daniel McConeghy, 34, of Curry Hollow, was shot five times on the porch of the Allen home, last night.

Detective Michael McDermott, seeking a motive, quoted Allen as blaming his daughter's poor health on her husband.

SHOTS FOLLOW QUARREL

Allan met McConeghy outside the Allen home as McConeghy was returning from work. There was an altercation, according to Deputy Coroner Mullen Jackson. Allen ran to the house and as his son-in-law reached the steps, the shots were fired, detectives were told.

McDermott reported that Allen then went to the neighboring home of Robert T. Ketler, handed Ketler the revolver and said:

"Keep this. If I hang, give it to my son."

WAS SCHOOL TEACHER

Allen's daughter, Edith, was a school teacher before she eloped with McConeghy, who worked with a construction gang at Lock No. 1 on the Monongahela River. They lived with her father.

Allen was to be turned over to the coroner today. A murder charge probably will be brought against him. Detectives showed him the revolver they had recovered from the Ketler home and, they say, he readily admitted it was his.

McDermott told of learning that Allen is a former game warden and was once arrested at Duquesne in an extortion case.

AIMEE PLANS SUING 'MA' FOR TALK

Evangelist, Recovering at Beach, Demands Mother Forget Her Broken Nose

By LYLE ABBOTT,
International News Service.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 21.—The "tantrum drama" of Aimee Semple McPherson, evangelist, and her pastor mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, today threatened to include a courtroom act, as Mrs. McPherson was quoted as saying she was considering filing suit against her mother as well as planning to occupy her Angelus Temple pulpit again Sunday.

At the evangelist's bedside it was said Mrs. McPherson was preparing to issue an ultimatum to "Ma" if the latter does not stop attacking her and Temple policies.

It was said Aimee's personal representative would call upon her mother and warn her that if she does not cease talking about her "broken nose," suit for slander will be filed immediately.

The woman evangelist, terming herself "just a sick girl," has emphatically denied her mother's repeated assertions that she suffered a broken nose in a fistic encounter with her daughter.

Mrs. Kennedy announced she would leave for the mountains as soon as discharged from the sanitarium where she is under treatment.

LEAVING TEMPLE

The evangelist's mother said she might go to Olympia, Wash., where she recently dedicated a MUNICIPAL AIRPORT, Los Angeles, Aug. 21.—(AP.)—Eddie Schneider, east-west junior transcontinental speed king, took off at 10:17 a. m., Pittsburgh time, today in an effort to establish a new west-east junior transcontinental air record.

Schneider recently covered the distance from Westfield, N. J., to Los Angeles in 28 hours 55 minutes flying time, bettering the record of 29 hours 41 minutes set last spring by the late Frank Goldsborough.

EX-OFFICER ADMITS HE REMOVED WEAPON

Discovered in Man's Home As Detectives Insisted It Had Not Disappeared

In the home of Orville Mills, former police operator and motorcycle patrolman, police today reported they found the Pittsburgh Police Department's missing machine gun.

Police had continued to deny that the gun was missing. However, it disappeared from the city detectives' car, and had not been seen elsewhere. Police have refused to discuss the incident.

Mills, who is 27 and lives at 506 McClintock street, is under arrest at the Detective Bureau, and admitted, police say, he took the machine gun from the city detectives armored car on August 8.

MILLS SILENT

Other than the fact that he removed the gun while he was intoxicated, Mills refused to discuss the incident with Police Supt. Peter P. Walsh in the lattter's office.

An expert radio repairman, and having on several instances worked on the radio in the detectives' car, Mills has been under suspicion since the gun was stolen. Today Lieut. Detective Frank Ferris received a tip that the machine gun could be found in the former police operator's home.

RESIGNED POST

Mills will be arraigned tomorrow morning before Magistrate Leo Rothenburg in Central Police Court. He resigned his post as assistant police operator two weeks ago to take a position September 1 as radio operator on an ocean liner. He is a cripple, having been injured while a member of the motorcycle squad.

PINCHOT READY FOR CAMPAIGN

The Supreme Court's verification of Gifford Pinchot's Republican nomination for governor through rejection of Francis Shunk Brown's plea in the Luzerne County perforated ballot case has not lulled Pinchot supporters into the dangerous conviction that Republican success at the general election is inevitable.

Instead, they are girding for a bitter fight with the Democrats, whose gubernatorial candidate, John M. Hemphill, is intensely anti-dry, and has indicated he will attempt to focus attention on Pinchot's leaning toward enforcement of prohibition laws.

Hemphill's success in that particular is not expected by astute political observers, who point to Pinchot's evident intention to make paramount in the campaign plans for relief from the servility of the Police Service Commission to corporations at the expense of

Ohio Prison Fire Suspect Hangs Self

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 21.—(AP.)—Warden Preston E. Thomas, of the Ohio Penitentiary, began an official investigation today in the suicide, a few hours earlier, of James Raymond, 30, a convict, on the strength of unconfirmed reprts that Raymnd was cnnected in some way with the Easter Monday prison fire, which cost 320 lives.

Raymond's body was found in a solitary cell, hanging from a rope he had made from strips of blanket.

Yesterday he had requested the solitary confinement because, it was believed, he feared other prisoners. An unconfirmed report is that he was held by fellow convicts to be an informer in the prison fire investigation. Another is that he refused to participate in a plot to escape, during the confusion, accompanying the fire.

SHOWERS BRING CROP RELIEF

Heavy showers, which began falling early this afternoon, brought relief to blighted lawns and crops in the Pittsburgh district, partly refreshed by rainfall last week.

The downpour was general throughout Western Pennsylvania, the local weather bureau reported, and gave indications of continuing throughout tonight and early tomorrow.

Heavy rain also fell today in Cleveland, Columbus and Cincinnati, according to the weather bureau.

$25,000 HORSES PERISH IN FIRE

Eleven riding horses owned by Mrs. A. Rex Flinn and Mrs. Simon T. Patterson, prominent in society here, perished early today when fire destroyed a barn on the property of Attorney George Calvert, on Middle road, Glenshaw. The horses were valued at $25,000, according to Albert Lorch, chief of the Hampton Township firemen.

Lorch said the damage to the barn was $35,000. In addition to the horses, saddles and equipment worth $5,000 was lost. The blaze started soon after midnight from an undetermined cause, sweeping with great rapidity through the large barn, a two-story concrete and steel structure.

Hampton Township firemen were first on the scene. A call for assistance was sent to the Undercliff department. It was impossible to rescue the horses, Lorch said, as the flames had too great a headway when discovered. The barn was a mile from the Calvert residence.

BLACK QUIZ HITS COAST GUARD

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—(INS.)—Testifying today at the investigation by the United States steamboat inspection service into the disappearance of Van Lear Black, newspaper publisher, internationally famous aviator and financier of Baltimore, who fell from his yacht, Sabola, Monday night 18 miles south of Ambrose Channel, Capt. John N. Kelley, skipper of the yacht, declared that after Black toppled off the rail into the rolling sea a Coast Guard boat ignored his (Kelley's) request to whistle for assistance and aid in the search. Kelley said:

"While we were searching for Mr. Black flashlights were put on us three times. I supposed they were Coast Guard boats. Finally one of the Coast Guard vessels hailed us and asked me what I was doing with my searchlights. I told them I was looking for a man overboard and asked if they would blow four whistles to summon assistance, but they simply snapped off their lights and faded out of the picture."

Search was at an end today for the body of Black and all hope that he might have survived was abandoned here.

Filing of his will is expected to be delayed a week or more. The instrument will dispose of an estate estimated at from $15,000,000 to $40,000,000, it is believed.

Lord Birkenhead Reported Improved

LONDON, Aug. 21.—(AP.)—The famous British statesman, Lord Birkenhead, who has been through a serious attack of bronchial pneumonia, is no longer so critically ill. His physician's bulletin today said that Lord Birkenhead's heart had been affected, which ailment could be expected to pass off gradually.

Coolidge Sees Insurance Gain as Blow to Poverty

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Aug. 21.

To the Editor of the Sun-Telegraph:

When sales in so many other directions have been decreasing, an increase of one and one-half per cent in the sales of life insurance for the first seven months of the year is wonderfully encouraging. It becomes all the more so when the stupendous amount involved, of seven and three-quarter billions of dollars, is considered. That means that the people of the United States, already having over one hundred billions of insurance, are purchasing additional protection of over one billion dollars each month.

Calvin Coolidge

The number of policies issued considerably increased, showing that this is not confined to a few of the rich, but represents a movement of the people on an unprecedented scale.

This is a factor of the first magnitude and of far-reaching consequences in the advancement of economic democracy. Seventy million people on a sound insured basis have a financial and moral effect that cannot be estimated. It is a demonstration of physical, mental and material health. These people are committed to self support, self government, prudent investment and sound business through the increase and equitable distribution of capital. It is a long step toward abolishing poverty.

CALVIN COOLIDGE.

City Threatens to Impeach Mayor 63 Who Wed Girl, 16

PARIS, Tenn., Aug. 21.—(INS.)—Firmly intrenched in their home here, Mayor Frank B. McNeill, 63, and his 16-year-old schoolgirl bride today faced an aroused citizenry that threatened the Mayor's removal from office because of the marriage.

Defying a citizens' committee that advised him not to marry the girl, but to continue as her benefactor, Mayor McNeill, one of the county's wealthiest men, was married to Miss Myrtle Pauline Clark, 16, orphan, yesterday. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Judge Sturgon, better known as "Chief Rainwater," a Canadian Indian.

Shortly before the wedding a citizens' committee visited the mayor and vigorously objected to the marriage because of the difference in ages and their stations in life. Open threats to impeach the official were made by several members of the committee.

The marriage took place quietly, however, and the principals postponed a planned honeymoon trip because of the disturbance created by the nuptials.

EATON, ON STAND, QUIZZED IN STEEL MERGER HEARING

OWNS 50,000 SHARES OF STOCK

Financier Admits Holding Big Block of Sheet and Tube Securities; Court Crowded

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Aug. 21.—(AP.)—Cyrus S. Eaton, leader of the opposition to the merger of Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company with Bethlehem Steel Corporation, took the witness stand here today in the suit brought by his interests to enjoin the merger.

Eaton, gray-haired and wearing a dark tour suit and dark tie contrasting with his ruddy complexion, stepped smartly to the witness chair to put his testimony into the voluminous record of the trial.

It was the moment for which a crowded court had waited since yesterday morning a moment delayed by long cross-examination of A. C. Ernst, managing partner of Ernst and Ernst an investigator auditors and associated with Eaton in some of the latter's enterprises.

WOMEN IN COURT

More women were in court today than at any time since the trial began June 25 and many persons unable to gain admittance to the court room waited in the corridors for a chance to enter.

Eaton's first testimony was to list his holdings in Sheet and Tube International Shares Corporation, a co-plaintiff in the suit, and other enterprises. Asked if he were interested in Bethlehem, the witness answered:

"No—not yet."

A laugh swept the court room.

The witness listed the entire holdings of himself, members of his family and his business enterprises at 226,000 shares of Sheet and Tube. He said he personally owns 50,000 shares, members of his family own an equal amount. Cliffs Corporation and other enterprises 126,000 shares and International Shares, 3,000.

RECOUNTS DETAILS

Eaton recounted some intimate details of the merger agreement between Sheet and Tube and Inland Steel, of which he is a director, the agreement having fallen through some months after it was consummated in 1927.

NOT PRACTICAL STEEL MAN

The witness said he never had been a practical steel man, but through his connection with Otis and Company had made an intensive study of the steel industry since 1923. In that year, he said, Otis and Company created a separate department to study the steel business. Believing that there was considerable possibility for substantial profits through wise investments.

The first venture, he testified, was the rehabilitation of the Trumbull Steel Company, which encountered financial troubles in 1925.

From that time on he traced his intimate contact with executives of steel concerns and his connection with Republic Iron and Steel, which he later consolidated with four other companies into a concern now known as Republic Steel.

Samuel B. Rambo Dies at Harrisburg

HARRISBURG, Aug. 21.—(AP.)—Samuel Bass Rambo, deputy secretary of the Department of Property and Supplies, died here this morning after a long illness. He was 67.

Coming here from Philadelphia during the construction of the Capitol, Rambo was appointed by Gov. Stuart to be superintendent of public grounds and buildings in 1907.

Sixteen years later, Gov. Pinchot named him deputy secretary of property and supplies, a post which he held until his recent retirement on account of poor health.

Cigaret Prices Up In Move to End War

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—(AP.)—In what some newspapers called an effort to end the cigaret price war among tobacco and grocery chain stores, the United Cigar Stores Company, the Schulte Retail stores, Inc., and the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company, have slightly increased the price of four popular brands.

While the increase is not nation-wide, it is expected to be if sales prove satisfactory.

Pommer Denies Saying Harris Had Vote Machine Interest

In no uncertain terms Councilman Charles J. Pommer, of Philadelphia, in a letter made public today by State Senator Frank Harris, of Pittsburgh, denied he had accused Harris of any personal or financial interest in voting machine legislation.

Pommer drew the fire of the local legislator after a statement appeared, purporting to have been made by him, that Harris "was financially interested" in the company whose vote machines Allegheny County Commissioners refused to purchase when the matter came up for discussion.

MISQUOTED, HE SAYS

The letter read in part:

"I have been misquoted. I have no personal acquaintance with any person interested in the manufacture or sale of any type of voting machine.

"So that you may be satisfied that I have been misquoted and deny having used your name as alleged, I reiterate my previous denial (in a Philadelphia newspaper) of the misquoted portion of the article . . .and I am giving copies of this letter to the public press in the hope that it will at least put a stop to loose talk and idle gossip and the misquoting of public officials.

"I trust that this explanation will suffice to stop any further controversy."

INTERVIEW CITED

In an interview with a Philadelphia newspaperman, discussing voting machines throughout the state and in Philadelphia, the following appeared:

"Pommer also declared that the fact that Senator Harris, of Allegheny County, represented the Jamestown voting machine concern had not entered into his consideration of the matter."

Harris is the father of voting machine legislation in Pennsylvania.

Weather Conditions.

High pressure, central in the lake region, developed eastward over the St. Lawrence Valley and southward over the Eastern plains and Mississippi Valley during the past 24 hours. Pressure is also high over Montana and the North Pacific Coast.

The disturbance, yesterday off the East Florida Coast, moved northeastward, and is now central off the North Carolina Coast, Hatteras, 29.80. A secondary, developing over Eastern Tennessee, has caused thundershowers over Ohio and Northern West Virginia during last night.

This center will probably advance northeastward over Pennsylvania during the next 24 hours. The southwestern low has an extension northward to Western North Dakota, and is accompanied by rain in the plains.

Slight further falls in temperatures occurred in the Mississippi Valley, along the Middle Atlantic Coast and in Montana and the Canadian Northwest.

River Conditions.

The rivers are stationary. Stage at Franklin is —0.3 foot; Lock No. 7, 9.5; Pittsburgh, 9.5; Dam No. 4, 9.1; Dam No. 6, 7.1; Dam No. 9, 8.0, and Dam No. 12, 5.9. The dams are up.

Aviation Bulletin.

Ceilings are low over the mountains, 600 feet at Greenwood, are higher west of the mountains in Western Pennsylvania and Ohio, and are generally unlimited over Northern Indiana and Illinois. Visibilities are two miles or over except at Cleveland one and a half miles, due to light ground fog. Winds are mostly northeast or east over entire route between Chicago and Hadley, and are light except moderate over Northern Ohio and Indiana. Temperatures are in the lower sixties.

Overcast weather will continue over the eastern portion of the district, with a probability of showers this afternoon; ceilings will be between 1,500 and 2,500 feet over most of this district this afternoon and tonight, and between 2,500 and unlimited over the western portion; visibilities will be good except over the mountains, where fog may prevail tonight. Winds will continue mostly east to northeast and light.

BUS AIR BRAKES FAIL, 1 HURT

A woman was slightly injured and 27 other passengers were shaken this morning when the air line and universal joint of a Detroit-bound Jackrabbit bus broke, causing the bus to drift backwards 75 feet into an electric light pole in California avenue, near Baldridge street.

The injured woman is Mrs. William Anderson, 41, of 4111 Lydia street. She was attended at the scene for bruises and lacerations of the right leg and shoulder, and later removed to St. John's Hospital.

The driver of the bus, William Kunkelman, of 607 Union avenue, told police he lost control of the bus when the air line controlling his brakes refused to function. The line, he said, was damaged when the universal joint broke. Control was lost when the bus was ascending a slight grade, and the driver said he was unable to prevent the vehicle from rolling backwards.

At the hospital the woman told a story of panic aboard the bus. She said passengers, fearing injury, attempted to leave by the doors and windows. She said she was trampled while attempting to shield her 9-year-old daughter, Betty.

QUIZ FORESEEN ON AIR MAIL LINE BIDS

Capital Discerns Attempt By 'Trust' to Exclude All But Certain Favored Firms

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—With aviation men from all over the country gathering here for the opening of bids on the two new trans-continental air mail routes Monday, reports of what may develop into a far-reaching investigation of the Postoffice Department, and even cause considerable embarrassment at the White House, are being heard here today.

The charges being bandied about, it is said, may bring requests that the Department of Justice take action against several of the leading aviation companies for violation of the Sherman anti-trust law, in that it is reported a combination has been formed which would put many of the smaller companies out of business, and constitute a combine in the restraint of trade.

The White House angle comes through the fact one of the most important companies concerned is the Western Air Express, of which Herbert Hoover, Jr., is chief engineer and assistant general manager, being represented here by Attorney William P. McCracken, Jr., until about a year ago assistant secretary for aeronautics of the Department of Commerce.

The trouble has arisen over advertisements for bids on the two new trans-continental air lines, one starting from New York and running west by way of Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, St. Louis, Tulsa and Texas cities to Los Angeles, the other starting at Atlanta, Ga., and going through Burmingham, Ala., and Texas to the same destination.

EXCLUDE MANY FIRMS

It is charged that these advertisements have been drawn, in some cases, in violation of the spirit if not the letter, of the Watres act, passed at the recent session of Congress, so as to give complete control of the bidding to a combination of the Western Air Express and the Trans-continental Air Transport Companies, in the first case, and the Aviation Corporation and its subsidaries in the second.

The main provision in the call for bids, which is held to have this effect, is that which provides that any bidder must show proof that it has had at least six months' experience in night flying over a route at least 250 miles in length. Since the many passenger companies throughout the country, which are anxious to bid on these two contracts do not fly by night, it leaves only six firms eligible to bid if this provision is insisted upon.

LIGHTENED SOMEWHAT

The clause mentioned, however, is lightened to some extent by permitting two or more companies to bid together, the experience in regard to night flying of any one of the companies being enough to qualify for the others.

The matter became more complicated through an order issued by Postmaster General Walter F. Brown, July 28, which limited bidders on all air mail contracts, in excess of 2,000 miles in length, to those which could show six months' experience in night flying. Since the Atlantic-Los Angeles route is 2,008 miles in length and the New York-Los Angeles route even longer, it seems evident that these routes, for which the bids will be opened Monday, were directly in mind when the order was issued.

WALKER PROBE DEMANDED IN EWALD CASE

Not to Include Mayor Would 'Cast Suspicion,' Says Request to Roosevelt

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN,
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—Investigation of Mayor James J. Walker and his office in connection with the state inquiry into "the Ewald case," New York City's latest political scandal, was suggested to Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt in a letter sent to him by Alderman Joseph Clark Baldwin and made public today.

This development in the case of former Magistrate George F. Ewald, who is accused of having bought his seat on the bench for $10,000, came coincident with the announcement by Roosevelt in Albany that he has asked the appellate division to make a sweeping investigation of the fitness of all New York City magistrates.

CHALLENGES GOVERNOR

Baldwin, Republican minority leader in the board of aldermen, wrote Roosevelt that not to include the mayor's office in the investigation would be to "cast suspicion on the state's chief executive of being a party to a sinister situation." Baldwin listed a number of alleged wrongdoings which he laid at the door of the mayor's office.

Already out as first deputy commissioner of plant and structures, Martin J. Healy, Tammany leader mentioned in the Ewald case, today was reported as ready to quit his Tammany berth.

RESIGNATION SIGNED

Healy's resignation from the city forces was signed just before the Tammany leader appeared before the federal grand jury and refused again to answer questions concerning the $10,000 sent to him by Mrs. Bertha Ewald four days before her husband, George F. Ewald, was sworn in as magistrate by Mayor Walker in April, 1927.

Mrs. Ewald also refused to answer questions and Thomas T. Tommaney, chief clerk to the sheriff of New York, took the same stand, saying that to reply would tend to incriminate him.

THORNE TO PAY WIFE $150,000

CHICAGO, Aug. 21.—(INS.)—She gets $150,000 and he gets a lot of peace. Such, in brief, is the settlement which promises to end the marital-legal-financial entanglements of Gordon Thorne, millionaire clubman, and his first wife, Virginia Milner Thorne, of New York.

Judge Charles A. Williams today received an agreement, signed by Gordon and Virginia and their attorneys, whereby she agrees to accept $150,000 in lieu of further alimony payments and those which are past due.

Virginia was divorced from Thorne in 1921 on charges of drunkenness and secured an alimony award of $750 monthly until she should marry.

Thorne's attorney contended that Virginia was not a wife, but merely another creditor, and could not be paid from the $1,500,000 trust fund created for Thorne by his mother, the late Mrs. Katherine Thorne.

Thorne is now married to his fourth wife.

MISS HELEN SOBCZAK, 20

SCREAMS ROUT KISS BURGLAR

Demands for a kiss by an intruder standing over her bed and threatening her with a butcher knife failed to subdue Miss Helen Sobczak, 18, of 169 South Sixteenth street, who screamed and caused the man to flee early today.

Harry Marks, 21, of 2816 Larkins way, arrested a short time later, was identified in Morals Court by Miss Sobczak as the intruder and was fined $25 or 30 days in jail.

Entrance was gained to the house by jimmying a kitchen window, police said. Marks testified he had met Helen's sister and a girl friend some time ago and being under the influence of liquor had sought Helen to ask the address of her sister.

THE PENNSYLVANIA Supreme Court confirms Gifford Pinchot's nomination for governor on the Republican ticket.

This guarantees an interesting election in Pennsylvania, with at least one candidate honest and of high character.

A few of the "best minds" in Pennsylvania don't want Pinchot for governor, but will probably have to take him.

GERARD LISTS 59 'RULERS' OF U. S.

Mellon Near Top of Roster, Which Includes Financiers, Manufacturers, Publishers

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—(AP.)—In the opinion of James W. Gerard, former ambassador to Germany, 59 men rule the United States.

Mr. Gerard compiled a list of these men for today's New York Times, which had asked him to amplify a sentence in a pamphlet he wrote indorsing the crusade of Viscount Rothermere and Lord Beaverbro k for British Empire free trade and high protection. In that pamphlet, he wrote:

"Give the 40 men who rule the United States 10 years for the development of this industrial empire (the British Empire) and no country on earth could approach it in per capita wealth."

GIVES REASON FOR VIEWS

Explaining why he, an American, should write on the subject, Gerard wrote:

"I offer as my excuse the interest that America, in common with all the world, has in the preservation of British prosperity."

The list includes leaders in American finance, industry, the amusement field and journalism, but omits President Hoover and all others holding state and national offices, save Secretary Mellon.

Gerard explains that the actual "power behind the throne" is wielded by men whose wealth and important industrial positions in the nation give them a permanent influence in American life. Statesmen, he said, are usually shorn of most of their power when they retire.

HIS LIST OF RULERS

The list, in the order given by Gerard, follows:

John D. Rockefeller, Jr.
Andrew W. Mellon.
J. P. Morgan.
George F. Baker, banker.
John D. Ryan, copper magnate.
Walter C. Tagle, president of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey.
Henry Ford.
Frederick E. Weyerhaeuser, lumber magnate.
Myron C. Taylor, chairman of the finance committee, United States Steel Corporation.
James A. Farrell, president, United States Steel Corporation.
Charles M. Schwab, chairman, Bethlehem Steel Corporation.
Eugene G. Grace, president, Bethlehem Steel Corporation.
H. M. Warner and Adolph Zukor, motion picture magnates.
William H. Crocker, banker.
O. P. and M. J. Van Sweringen, railroad magnates.
W. W. Atterbury, president, Pennsylvania Railroad.
Arthur Curtiss James, large holder of railroad securities.
Charles Hayden, financier.
Daniel O. Jackling, president, Utah Copper Company.
Arthur V. Davis, president, Aluminum Company of America.
P. M. Gossler, president, Columbia Gas and Electric Corporation.
R. C. Holmes, president, Texas Corporation, oil producer.
John J. Raskob.
The DuPont family (seven members).
Edward J. Berwind, financier.
Daniel Willard, president, Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.
Sosthenes Behn, chairman, International Telephone and Telegraph Corporation.
Walter S. Gifford, chairman, American Telephone and Telegraph Company.
Owen D. Young, chairman, General Electric Company.
Gerard Swope, president, General Electric Company.
Thomas W. Lamont, of J. P. Morgan & Co.
Albert H. Wiggin, banker.
Charles E. Mitchell, banker.
Samuel Insull, electric power magnate.
The seven Fisher brothers, motor magnates.
Daniel Guggenheim and William Loeb, mining magnates.
G. W. Hill, president, American Tobacco Company.
Adolph S. Ochs, publisher.
William Randolph Hearst, publisher.
Robert R. McCormick and Joseph Medill Patterson, publishers.
Julius Rosenwald, merchant.
Cyrus H. K. Curtis, publisher.
Roy W. Howard, publisher.

BANKERS PUT FIRST

No attempt was made by Gerard to rank his selections according to his opinion of their importance, but he expressed the belief that as a class, the bankers exert the greatest influence because they control the purse strings of the nation.

He declared that while all these men are too busy to run for political office, their influence, financial, industrial and semi-political, determines the men who shall go into office.

Wales Gives Woman Statue To Replace Broken Vase

LONDON, Aug. 21.—(AP.)—Miss Raymond, an elderly and humble resident of the south of London, has been made happy by a kindly act of the Prince of Wales. She lives in a hotel in the neighborhood of the cricket ground where the Prince went Tuesday to attend the England-Australia match.

During an interval in the play the Prince and a party of friends visited the hotel and one of the old lady's vases accidentally was overthrown and broken.

The next day the Prince sent a colored statuette of himself in hunting costume, accompanied by a letter regretting the breakage and hoping she would accept the substitute.

Ford's Pet Bear AWOL, Leads Posse Merry Chase

DEARBORN, Mich., Aug. 21.—(AP.)—There was a bear hunt on Henry Ford's estate yesterday, but neither the bear nor the 50 employes who hunted him looked upon it as a sporting event.

The lone specimen of the bruin tribe owned by the manufacturer, broke out of his pen about 9 a. m. and for the next eight and a half hours there was considerable beating of bushes. The bear had several narrow escapes, but kept a jump ahead until, wearied by the unusual exertion, he dozed off under a tree. The animal was tied and taken to a newer and stronger pen.

Word of the escape of the bear was sent out to police of neighboring villages during the morning, but Ford's representatives asked them not to shoot him if they could help it.

KING BLAMES HELEN FOR DIVORCE

Rift Between Royal Couple Only Obstacle Preventing Coronation Ceremonies

VIENNA, Aug. 21.—(AP.)—A Rumanian statesman with the closest connections with the court at Bucharest but who, for political reasons, could not be quoted, today said the reason for postponement of the coronation of King Carol, despite pressure brought to bear upon him by Premier Maniu and other leaders, was the obstinate attitude of the King against reconciliation.

King Carol, the Rumanian statesman said, based his attitude against reconciliation upon the following argument:

"When I left Rumania and abandoned all of my rights it was the duty of my wife to follow me. The whole world, including my parents, were perhaps justified in opposing me but my wife was not. Despite all, she left me and went over to my enemies' camp and allowed herself to be used by them against me and she herself demanded a divorce notwithstanding my lawyers' protest.

HELPED IN REVENGE

"My sentimental wanderings had nothing to do with my departure from Rumania, which was of a purely political character. I opposed the dictatorship of M. Bratianu, which I regarded as injurious to both the nation and the dynasty.

"The Bratianus have avenged themselves severely on me and my own wife has played some part in this unworthy gain.

"I can forgive all of my former opponents but can never become reconciled with my wife."

AWAIT CAROL'S REPLY

BUCHAREST, Aug. 21.—(INS.)—Political circles here awaited with undisguised interest today King Carol's reply to the ultimatum of Premier Julin Maniu, threatening the resignation of the cabinet unless reconciliation with his former wife, Princess Helen, precedes Carol's coronation.

Maniu, as much as the Dowager Queen Marie, is near the end of his patience at the continual embroilment in the royal family, which has proved a serious handicap to the smooth operation of normal state functions.

Marie remained a guest of Jugoslavia today after she had departed from Bucharest completely discouraged with the role of peacemaker in her son's household.

HELEN ALSO QUITS CITY

This again left the King in bachelor quarters, as Helen also has gone from the capital, taking with her Crown Prince Michael. Magda Lupescu, the Rumanian beauty for whom Carol renounced his throne five years ago and accepted exile, was at her mansion near Bucharest, undisturbed by current rumors that the King was planning to contract a morganatic marriage with her after establishing a dictatorship.

Late reports have involved Carol with Princess De Guise, daughter of the pretender to the French throne. These originating in court circles, state that Carol intends to marry the French princess.

HEIRESS DIES IN UNHAPPY ROMANCE

Titled Fiance Weds Another After Spurned Sweetheart Pays His Debts and Waits

International News Service.

CHICAGO, Aug. 21.—Miss Margie Angermeier, believed to be a member of a wealthy New York family, died here today from poison she swallowed because, it is said, of disappointment over a love affair with a European nobleman.

Details of the unhappy romance were given by a physician who attended the girl after she tried to kill herself Monday in the Stevens Hotel. The stricken girl did not name the nobleman to whom she had been engaged, the doctor declared. He continued:

"Miss Angermeier said she had been in Europe and had become the fiancee of a nobleman. She did not mention his nationality. She spoke of paying all his debts and of coming back to America to wait for him. But when he did cross the sea, she said, he did not come to her home in New York, but went to Canada instead, and the next thing she heard of him was an announcement of his marriage to another girl."

Two sisters of the stricken girl, Lillian and Edna, reached Chicago yesterday and took a room adjacent to hers in the hospital. They refused to discuss their sister's case and posted a special nurse at the door to keep away undesired visitors.

WOMEN FLIERS OFF TO TEXAS

ROSWELL, N. M., Aug. 21.—(INS.)—Mrs. Gladys O'Donnel, Long Beach (Cal.), pacesetter in the national women's air derby, was the first to take off from Roswell on the hop from Lubbock, Tex., today. She nosed her plane into the air at 9:01 a. m. (Mountain time).

The other contestants left at one-minute intervals in the following order:

Miss Margery Doig, of Danbury, Conn. Miss Ruth Barron, of Hollywood, Cal. Miss Jean La Rene, of Kansas City. Miss Mildred Morgan, of Beverly Hills, Cal., and Miss Ruth Stewart, of St. Louis.

From Lubbock, the women fliers will race to Armillo, Tex., there to remain overnight. Their objective is Chicago.

Churchill Attacks Labor Government

LONDON, Aug. 21.—(INS.)—The political waters of Britain rippled today under a challenge hurled at the Labor government by Winston Churchill, Conservative leader.

Demanding defeat of this "wretched Socialist party" to restore world confidence in Great Britain, Churchill warned against further encouragement in the minds of Indian leaders of the possibility of being granted dominion status for their country.

Postpone Governor Death Plot Hearing

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Aug. 21. (AP.)—Investigation into an alleged plot to assassinate Gov. Doyle E. Carlton went forward slowly today as county authorities concentrated on preparing evidence for presentation at a preliminary hearing for three men charged with conspiracy.

The hearing, originally set for Monday was postponed today until Wednesday by County Solicitor L. D. Howell.

Fewer Clothes For Men Advised

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—(AP.)—Dr. Thomas Darlington, former city health commissioner, believes men must wear fewer clothes to compete with women.

Man's vitality and mentality have not greatly improved in the last 25 years, he says, whereas the average woman is taller, stronger, more vigorous and mentally alert.

HILL POOLS PAY OLD RATIO

After a one-day trial of the reduced payoff scale the Hill racketeers have cast it aside. A meeting of all Hill "numbers" men and their bookies was held last night and orders to payoff on a straight 600-to-1 basis were issued.

This move was made after yesterday's receipts revealed a marked decrease over preceding days.

Yesterday was a bad day for operators throughout the city. The day being one of the "hunch" variety, the regular players deserted the pools. The "hunch" was that a "double" would come through. Since only 300-to-1 was then paid for a "double," the play was light.

McLeod, U. S. Yacht Leader, Dies at 78

ALGONAC, Mich., Aug. 21.—(AP.)—Alexander Irving McLeod, 78, internationally known yachtsman and former vice commander of the Yachtsmen' Association of America, died at his home here last night.

Mr. McLeod was a former newspaper man in Detroit and held several public offices there. He was the son of a shipbuilder and took an interest in nautical affairs throughout life.

SLEEP BROKEN, ASK $100,000

CHICAGO, Aug. 21.—(AP.)—Peaceful sleep in the early morning hours is worth an even $100,000 to Cyrena Van Gordon, civic opera star, and her husband, Dr. Shirley B. Munns, who filed suits for damages totaling that amount against the Edgewater Beach Hotel today.

The suits are an aftermath of the arrest of Dr. Munns on the complaint of James McAlvaney, assistant manager of the hotel, who charged that the physician had kicked in a glass door at the hotel. The opera singer and her husband complained that McAlvaney and two policemen came to their home early the morning of August 10, awakened them, demanded $40 for the broken door and created a disturbance lasting three hours and ending when they took Munns to a police station.

Charges against Munns were dismissed three days later. Aside from the discomfort of being disturbed, Miss Van Gordon alleged her reputation and standing were damaged by the affair and the physician charged false arrest.

Baltimore Bank Officer Indicted

BALTIMORE, Aug. 21.—(AP.)—William E. Waldman, 34, defaulting officer of the Maryland Trust Company, was indicted for alleged larceny of $63,116 from the institution for which he was chief of the loan department. He is said to have admitted juggling his accounts to play the stock market.

Former Prisoner Wants Pay for Time in Jail

HARRISBURG, Aug. 24.—(AP.)—Jesse Geson of Safe Harbor doesn't appreciate the hospitality extended to him last June.

In a letter to Mr. Chief Police" reimbursement is asked for 10 days spent in the local jail. It said:

"I have my children to feed and will like to have pay because I make 40 cents an hour here."

YORK AFIELD, STORK ALOOF

GLAMIS, Scotland, Aug. 21.—(AP.)—Home Secretary Clynes is conducting his duties as cabinet minister from Airlie castle while waiting for the arrival of the Duchess of York's second child, now expected for nearly three weeks.

The Duke of York continues to participate in local festivals and sports events and today he and his father-in-law, the Earl of Strathmore, attended a shooting party in the Glen of Denoon where the local unemployed were engaged as game beaters.

Sightseers every day climb to the top of Hunters Hill to view the beacon of faggots and logs which will be lit to announce the birth of the child. A tarpaulin has been placed over the wood to protect it from rain and souvenir hunters.

IRENE'S APPEAL READY TO FILE

MERCER, Pa., Aug. 21.—Senator Ben Jarrett, of the county bar who, with Attorney Dickey, of New Castle, represents Irene Schroeder and Glen Dague says the appeal for the condemned pair is about ready for filling in the Supreme Court.

"If that tribunal refuses we will go to the Pardon Board and if refused there to the governor," he announces.

Jarrett is of the opinion there is enough doubt about the killing of Corp. Brady Paul to warrant a new trial.

Hearing Scheduled On Manganese Issue

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—(AP.)—A hearing next Friday was set by Assistant Secretary Lowman on the complaint of the American Manganese Producers' Association against alleged dumping of manganese in this country from Russia.

Lowman intends to determine if the manganese producers have made a presumptive case. If so, further hearings will be ordered to determine if the duty shall be raised 50 per cent in accordance with tariff law provisions against dumping.

church. She declared she never would return to the temple as Mrs. McPherson's secretary, Mae Waldron, remained.

Dr. Edward H. Williams, treating Mrs. McPherson, said she probably would be able to return to her pulpit Sunday, in accordance with her expressed desire.

Recovering at a Malibou cottage from a mysterious illness, Mrs. McPherson, builder of the Angelus Temple, revealed her present attitude toward her mother, who accused her of smashing her nose. Mrs. McPherson said:

"All I ask of mother is that she go away and let me alone. She talks about coming back to the temple, but I don't want her there. She can always come back if she needs me, but not to interfere and start trouble."

Reminded of "Ma's" accusation that her daughter had had her face "lifted" and that she intimated the illness was due to the plastic surgery rather than shattered nerves, Mrs. McPherson became indignant. She said:

"Why all this talk of plastic beauty? Why this consternation and much ado over nothing? All I have to say to mother is, 'Go and sin no more. Keep your face and do anything you want with your nose—give me in return only a chance to go in my own, helpful, humble way.'"

"MA" IN SANITARIUM

"Ma" Kennedy, still a patient in a sanitarium, charged that her nose had been broken in a scuffle with her daughter.

A new version of the quarrel was given by Miss Waldron, who is also vice president of the Echo Park Evangelistic Association and prominent member of Angelus Temple. She said she had to lock Mrs. Kennedy in a clothing closet in the temple to keep her quiet during the "big fight" a few weeks ago.

The split between the evangelist and her mother was caused by the forced imprisonment, Miss Waldron said.

The "snake throwing" which was said to have brought about Mrs. McPherson's nervous illness still went unexplained, Mrs. Kennedy denying the episode.

Gangster Accuses Foe on Death Bed

CLEVELAND, Aug. 21.—(INS.)—Frank Alessi, reputed gambler and bootlegger, died in Charity Hospital here today from bullet wounds received last Tuesday morning when he was shot down as a result of an argument over money, according to detectives.

Breaking the underworld code of silence before his death, Alessi named Frank Brancato, alleged gangster, as his assailant. Alessi later identified Brancato to police.

Rankins Again Seek Endurance Mark

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 21.—(AP)—Tex and Dick Rankin took off from the Rankin airport at 11:05 p. m. Pittsburgh time last night in the monoplane "On to Oregon" in their second attempt to break the refueling endurance record established by Dale Jackson and Forest O'Brine, St. Louis aviators. The Rankins were forced down after a few hours in the air on their previous attempt.

NEW GASOLINE INTRODUCED

An automobile parade while an airplane flies overhead, inspection of filling stations and a banquet tonight in the William Penn Hotel will introduce a new gasoline to be distributed by the Lighthouse Oil Company, Inc., a merger of five local firms.

The banquet will be attended by city and county officials and officers of the Vacuum Oil Company, refiners of the new fuel which is suitable for both aviation and motoring.

The two-hour parade and inspection tour was made this afternoon while Kenneth Matheson, Vacuum Oil Company pilot, flew his plane overhead.

Mobilgas makes its debut here tomorrow. Heading the Lighthouse organization is A. G. Bishoff, board chairman, and F. L. Aiken, Jr., president and general manager.

HOLDUP VICTIM BEATEN

Thomas Zelvy, 2348 California avenue, is in Allegheny General Hospital in delirious condition as the result of being attacked and robbed of about $25 by three unidentified men at Brighton road and Jacksonia street early this morning.

Zelvy was found by Patrolman Thomas Hoshinson, who took him to the hospital where eight stitches were put in his tongue.

Later Hoshinson arrested three men: John Gray, 22, of 1803 Brighton road; George Thomas, 32, of 1317 Allegheny avenue, and Edward McHugh, 30, of 2454 Carson street, at Federal and North streets. They are being held on suspicious person charges and will be given a hearing when Zelvy recovers.

$30,000 Sought For Auto Collision

A suit for $30,000 damages was filed in Federal Court against George F. Jones, of Jeannette, by Carl L. Elofson and his wife, Mrs. Nellie Elofson, of Evanston, Ill. The action grew out of an automobile collision January 10, 1929, on the William Penn highway near Cresson. The plaintiffs charged in their bill of complaint that Jones drove his automobile at a high rate of speed around a curve on an icy road, and skidded into the machine in which Elofson and his wife were riding.

ASKS MILLION OF EX-WIFE

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—(AP.)—Frederick L. Thompson, artist and designer, has filed suit in Supreme Court for $1,000,000 damages against his former wife, Mrs. Caroline G. Thompson, and Col. Horace J. Brooks, of Martha's Vineyard, Mass. The suit results from his arrest on charges of attempted murder of Mrs. Thompson last fall.

Thompson said he was acquitted of the charge by a jury in Edgartown, Mass., after he had spent two months under observation in the Massachusetts Hospital for the Criminally Insane at Bridgewater.

Thompson's attorneys filed a motion to strike out Mrs. Thompson's answer, in which she denied the charges and filed counterclaim for $1,000,000 on the grounds that he approached her on a New York street last June and threatened her life unless she would pay him $100,000.

The artist alleged Brookes threatened to put him in jail for life unless he discontinued a suit for $500,000 damages, allegedly alienation of affections on the part of Brookes.

FORTUNE GIVEN AWAY BY HOW

CINCINNATI, Aug. 21.—(AP.)—The fortune James Eads How, "millionaire" hobo, inherited from his mother in St. Louis, had been given away before his recent death except for $150,000 which the foresighted mother left in a trust fund because of her son's philanthropic tendencies.

Nicholas Klein, attorney for How, who died in poverty recently, said all that remained of his mother's original bequest of $300,000 were $4,000 in cash, a $18,000 home in Los Angeles and a $600 interest in two empty factory buildings.

Klein said he had resigned as an executor of How's estate in order to secure annulment of How's adoption of his divorced wife's son. The boy, Holger, 11, was adopted last year. Mrs. Ingeborg S. How divorced How four days before his recent death.

PINCHOT READY FOR CAMPAIGN

the people unemployment, abolition of the coal and iron police and social welfare legislation.

While certain residents in Philadelphia, Erie, Chester and Delaware counties are expected to help the anti-dry Hemphill, they will have to do so surreptitiously in order to maintain their Republican prestige for future campaigns and such support is conspicuously ineffective particularly when attempts are made to induce voters to leave their party.

All of the Philadelphia leaders including William S. Vare have refused to discuss the probable stand of the organization but several influential Republican workers have intimated they will support Hemphill.

For the last two weeks many organization workers have been circulating nominating petitions to place Hemphill's name on the Liberal party ticket that name having been pre-empted by anti-dry Republicans.

LEADERS SILENT

James W. Harkett, chairman of the city committee, said:

"I don't want to make any comment on Supreme Court decision in Luzerne ballot case until I have an opportunity to talk with all members of the committee."

Harkett indicated that the meeting of committee would be held early in September to determine the organization's policy.

Brown left on a yachting trip without commenting on the decision, and Vare said:

"I have no comment to make. That is a matter up to Mr. Brown if he wants to say anything."

Charles B. Hall and other influential ward leaders are absent from the city on vacation.

DROUGHT RELIEF SET IN MOTION

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—(INS.)—Spurred by reports of acute distress in a score of "drought" states, President Hoover's drought relief committee and governmental agencies today had set in motion four major relief measures to rescue agriculture from its parched plight. These relief steps were:

The calling of a financial conference here next Tuesday to initiate emergency financial relief for farmers in the devastated areas.

The release of a $5,200,000 fund by the Department of Agriculture to aid farmers in buying cattle, seed and feed on credit.

The use of a $5,000,000 fund by the Federal Farm Board to aid livestock associations in moving cattle to good pasture lands and in feeding cattle in the seared dairy country.

Extension of the emergency reduction of freight rates in various drought-ridden communities.

Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde, chairman of the relief committee, estimated that $20,000,000 in credits would be extended to farmers through the intermediate credit banks, but other authorities estimated agriculture would need $50,000,000 to carry through another year. The remainder of this sum, it was said, probably would be advanced by local banks in the stricken states, although the government will stand ready to bear the entire burden.

MAN SHOT NOT PRISONER HERE

Western Penitentiary attaches reported today they had no record of Bert Stevens who was shot last night through the chest by a Newark, N. J., policeman following a chase in that city.

It was reported Stevens was sentenced to Western Penitentiary from Philadelphia for larceny, and that he escaped from that institution May 3, last.

The shooting occurred when Stevens and his companion fled while being searched by police for weapons.

Hints Abandonment Of Alaska Railroad

CORDOVA, Alaska, Aug. 21.—(AP.)—Senator Robert B. Howell, of Nebraska, heading a Congressional investigation, says the government-owned Alaska Railroad must be provided with greater operating revenue or face the possibility of abandonment.

Howell declared he had been informed 8,000 persons live along the line, 4,000 of whom are connected with the railroad, operated at an annual deficit of $1,000,000 "to serve these 4,000 persons."

Congressman Offers Soviet Labor Proof

HOQUAIM, Wash., Aug. 21.—(AP.)—Rep. Albert Johnson, head of the House Immigration Committee, has collected affidavits which he said proved lumber, wheat and other commodities received in the United States from Russia were produced by "Soviet-induced labor."

The Treasury Department, he said, demanded such proof before the government will act to enforce anti-dumping and other clauses in the new tariff act.

Gest, Producer, To Stage Comeback

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—(INS.)—Morris Gest, once known as one of the world's foremost theatrical producers, today announced he planned a comeback, following his discharge from bankruptcy. He failed several months ago.

GANDHI SUBMITS PEACE TERMS

SIMLA, India, Aug. 21.—(AP.)—The viceroy, Lord Irwin, today received a letter from Mahatma Gandhi, borne by Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru and Mr. Jayakar from the Poona Jail. The viceroy indicated he would see Jayakar soon.

The letter was understood to contain the Mahatma's terms for cessation of the civil resistance campaign, in connection with which hundreds of Congress volunteers are in prisons throughout India.

The communication was written after conferences by the Congress' leaders, including Mrs. Sarojini Naidu, the Pandits Motilal and Jawarhalal Nehru, and the two Moderates who instituted the parleys for peace.

It was said today that the result of the Poona conferences would be considered by the All-India Congress working committee at Delhi next Tuesday.

LONDON, Aug. 21.—(INS.)—Marion Terry, English actress and sister of the late Ellen Terry, died here today.

While she never attained world fame, she was for many years a great favorite in this country.

Woman Sleuth's "Persuasion" Jails Man

When she attempted to arrest Joseph Maiorca, 22, of Oakmont, allegedly caught stealing silk underwear in a downtown department store, he made a hard struggle, Catherine Quinn, store detective, told Magistrate Leo Rothenberg in Central Police Court today.

Feminine persuasion won over manly strength, she testified, and she placed him under arrest.

When fined $10 by Rothenberg on a larceny charge, Maiorca said he had been ill for two years. He declared:

"That's what made me do it."

Motor Fatalities Gain in Pittsburgh

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—(AP.)—Automobile mortality statistics published by the Census Bureau showed 21 persons met death in motor accidents in Philadelphia in the four weeks ended August 9, 1930, compared to 30 in the four weeks ended August 10, 1929. Pittsburgh reported 19 deaths of this type in the 1930 period, as against 17 in the 1929 period, and Erie two, compared to four last year.

CAPONE LINKED IN 2 KILLINGS

CHICAGO, Aug. 21.—(INS.)—Ambitious maneuverings on the part of Scarface Alphonse Capone, reputed gang leader, to dominate the affairs of the plumbers' union were blamed by police today for a shooting affray which left two men dead.

Charles Mulcahy, business agent for the union, was shot to death and his assistant, Bernard Ruberry was fatally wounded at the site of the new Lane Technical High School. Two men are being sought as the slayers.

Ruberry died in a hospital, refusing to name the gunmen.

Police were told the shooting followed threats by Mulcahy that he would "get" the foreman of the plumbing job at the school or a strike would be called. Mulcahy, suspected of a connection with the Capone interests, had long been a storm center in labor affairs.

Fifty workmen witnessed the shooting, but none would admit seeing the killers flee.

Following a raid on the apartment of Joe and Dominick Aiello, gangster allies of Jack Zuta, slain vice lord, state's attorney's investigators today were examining a mass of records which may result in further exposures of "payoffs" to police and politicians.

REFRESHED ....for New effort

This is the real dividend from a Great Lakes cruise. A 2230 mile voyage on one of the Great Lakes Transit Corporation's luxurious passenger ships, the Tionesta, Octorara or Juniata, puts the dullest mind on the alert and new energy in the tired body.

The scenery is specially impressive in August; the cuisine aboard ship is comparable to that of the best hotels ashore; the ship's appointments equal those of the ocean liners. A social hostess assists in the entertainment. You will bless the impulse that urged you to this greatest fresh water voyage.

Three of the Suites in the August Sale of Stylthrift Furniture

These three suites are very good examples of the refined, modern, reliable quality furniture which is made available to limited budgets today, through the Stylthrift Section. They are in sharp contrast with the ordinary conceptions of furniture at this price. They measure up fully to every standard of Horne quality, good taste and modern design. A reasonable first payment will arrange for immediate delivery, and the balance may be paid conveniently over a period of months.

Upholstered Davenports of HORNE Quality

Another Stylthrift value! Two of the four styles are pictured. They're as comfortable as they are good-looking. One of them will almost MAKE a living room. Choose from serviceable mohair or tapestry coverings—in green, rust or raisin. Webbed construction with all-hair filling. Cushions are reversible. See the davenports tomorrow. You'll get a new conception of what comfort and smartness may be had at this low price.

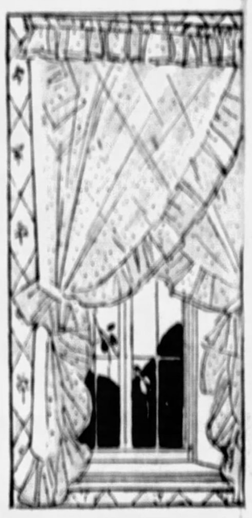
Sunfast Curtains

In Pastel Shades

We are meeting the definite trend toward pastel colored curtains with a special offer of criss cross and tailored styles in rose, green, gold, blue, peach and orchid. They're not only sunfast but washable.



Criss Cross
$1.95 Pair

Semi-criss cross style. 50 inches across the top. Of fine pastel colored marquisette in point d'esprit designs. Attached cornice valances. (Sketched).

Tailored
$1.25 Pair

An interesting new shadow-effect marquisette weave in lovely pastel shades, sheer and gauze-like. Three-inch hems. Sill length.

Imported Casement Cloth

75c Yard

We cannot recall ever having offered 50-inch imported casement cloth of this quality, sunfast and washable, at so low a price. Made of extra fine cotton in tan color. In small all-over diamond design. It is particularly well suited to draw curtains for library, living room and sun room.

Ruby Stemware

Combined With Sparkling Crystal

50c Each

Ruby is an "expensive color" and is ordinarily found only in much higher priced glassware. But here it is combined with imported crystal of clear ringing quality. It possesses marked individuality and is correct for all occasions, formal and informal. Goblets, Sherbets, Cocktails, Footed Tumblers and Refreshment Glasses. Your choice, 50c each.

95-Pc. French China Dinner Sets, $45

There are only 20 of these lovely Limoges sets . . . few enough when one considers their inexpensiveness. Of excellent French china in two floral border patterns, and mat gold handles. Service for twelve.

... Horne's, Fifth Floor ...

American Oriental 9x12-ft. Rugs

$97.50

It is a rare treat to find rugs of the beauty, quality and weight that characterize these, at a price so low. They possess the depth of pile, the richness of color and the weight of Orientals . . . and the designs are excellent reproductions of Orientals.

Woven of heavy twisted yarn on American looms. A single design has as many as ten different color tones, all going through to the back. The mellow tones of many, resembling those of semi-antique Persian pieces, will blend effectively with today's fine furniture. All measure up to the usual Horne standard.

Master Mysteries

By ARTHUR HOERL

Five $1,000 Bills

Dear George—
I'm leaving today and I'll probably not be back. I just wanted to warn you for the last time to look out for Bradshaw. He told me last night that if it's the last thing he ever does he'll have Ruth. You know how I feel toward her. I don't want anything to happen to her and I won't be here to prevent it.
Ollie Weadon
RUTH HACKETT
DALE
CAPT MORGAN

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Oliver Weadon, bank cashier, absconds with $100,000. Among the loot are five $1,000 bills. Shortly after his disappearance Weadon is found murdered. The newspapermen, with headquarters at an undertaking shop, get on the case. Robin Dale learns that one of the $1,000 bills was found on Weadon's body. The rest of the money had disappeared. Dale meets Ruth Hackett when her brother orders a casket for someone still alive! Within an hour a murder is reported at the address to which the casket is to be sent. The murdered man is Dinkie Roberts. Dale describes the killer from clues he left. Ruth suddenly appears at the murder scene and is taken to police headquarters. Dale goes along. He feels a strange interest in the girl. The bank manager identifies a second $1,000 bill found on Roberts' body. He further states Roberts drove Weadon off in a taxi.

Now Go On With the Story.

CHAPTER IV.

There was a more definite connection between Dinkie Roberts and Oliver Weadon than as definite as the two $1,000 bills. Suppose it was Dinkie's car that Weadon left in. Wasn't it probable this was the car that carted the dead man to the dock? Dinkie was the only one who could answer that question and Dinkie was dead.

Robin Dale now that Ruth Hackett was so closely knit into the case, started to put his mind to work trying to unravel the knot. There appeared to be no question but that an explanation of the $1,000 bills would bring about the solution of the entire mystery.

Why did Weadon only have one $1,000 bill left? Why did Dinkie Roberts have one of the stolen $1,000 bills? Surely not for taxi fare. And if Dinkie had killed Weadon for the money, supposing he had learned that he was driving the absconder away with the stolen hundred thousand dollars, why would he have only one of the bills? There were still a number of things to be explained before the answer could be found.

"Robin," seated beside Ruth Hackett, let these things run through his mind until Capt. Morgan said he was ready to see the lady. Dale rose and entered the captain's office with her and Sergeant Owen.

"Miss Hackett, we'd like to know where your brother is," and also where Mr. Bradshaw is."

"But I don't know. I was just walking by . . . and thought I'd drop in . . . and just visit Mr. Bradshaw."

"That's rather strange, isn't it . . . considering Mr. Bradshaw and your brother are deadly enemies?"

"Who said they were?" demanded Robin Dale.

"I said so," countered Owens. "There's been bad blood between 'em since Big Boy kicked Georgie Hackett out of his crowd."

A moment after Sergt. Owens had spoken the door opened and Detective Clymer came in dragging George Hackett with him. The young lad looked at Ruth. He seemed utterly startled to see her there. He asked her sharply what she was doing but before she could reply Capt. Morgan took charge of the situation.

"Hello, Georgie," he said in a friendly tone. "We were just speaking of you."

"Yes?"

"Dinkie Roberts was killed at Big Boy Bradshaw's place."

"Did this flattie bring me here so that you could tell me that?"

"What do you know about the killing?"

"Nothing! What should I know about it?"

"Sergt. Owens has a few questions to ask you in private, Georgie . . . Just go along with him."

"He won't get a thing out of me!"

But Georgie Hacket went through the door with Owens. Clymer followed. Capt. Morgan disappeared, leaving Robin Dale and Ruth alone for a few moments. When he returned he found the two standing in close proximity silently staring out the window. Capt. Morgan smiled faintly and sat down at his desk. He called for Mr. Tenant to be brought in.

Tenant explained about Dinkie Roberts' taxi but could offer no definite proof that Weadon had been in the cab when he was murdered or that the taxi had hauled the dead man to the pier. He again identified the $1,000 bill on the body of Dinkie.

Robin Dale listened intently to all this testimony. They had about finished when George Hackett was brought back by Sergts. Owens and Clymer.

"He won't say a word," announced Sergt. Owens.

"I'll say this just once! I sent a note to Bradshaw and I sent him a coffin." When that flattie picked me up I was going to get Bradshaw. But I didn't know he had beat it and I didn't know Dinkie Roberts was dead. You haven't anything on me now but you will have when I see Big Boy Bradshaw."

"George . . . don't say that!" pleaded Ruth.

"And I may as well tell you why," George continued disregarding Ruth's words. "I worked for Bradshaw. I steered plenty of money into his crooked game and do you know why he kicked me out? He didn't want me to watch him making a play for Ruth, that's why . . . and the only way I can stop him is to kill him!"

Ruth began to sob. George went to her and put his arms about her. She looked up and seemed to be addressing Capt. Morgan.

"It's really my fault . . . I didn't understand. I thought Mr. Bradshaw was just a fine, decent man when I met him. I was carried away . . . and when I learned the truth he . . . he wouldn't . . ." Ruth could not go on. She sobbed against her brother's shoulder.

Mr. Tenant stepped to the captain's desk.

"Some of that is true, captain. I know, for instance that Weadon was taken to Bradshaw's place by the young man. They met at the bank where Miss Ruth works. I've suspected lately that Weadon had been gambling and lost heavily. On other occasions this Bradshaw, I believe, would come and wait for the lady when she finished work. It was through these meetings that I began to suspect what Weadon was doing. I hadn't had time to prove it before Weadon disappeared."

When the meeting was over George Hackett was held at the station to save him from getting into trouble. Captain Morgan said Tenant left after a few words with Ruth. She and Robin Dale were again alone in the office with Captain Morgan. Dale went to her side as she stood motionless, like a helpless little child.

"Don't worry now . . . everything's going to come out all right, Ruth." He spoke her name softly, hesitatingly.

"The way you say it—it can't help being true."

They were about to go out when Sergt. Owens came in with something in his hand.

"We found this on young Hackett, captain."

Capt. Morgan read what was on a sheet of note paper. Ruth, after Robin Dale had whispered to her, asked if she might see it. Capt. Morgan hesitated a moment and handed her the note. Robin Dale was close enough to read as she perused it.

It was a short note signed by Oliver Weadon. "Dear George," it ran. "I'm leaving today and I'll probably not be back. I just wanted to warn you for the last time to look out for Bradshaw. He told me last night that if it's the last thing he ever does he'll have Ruth. You know how I feel toward her. I don't want anything to happen to her and I won't be here to prevent it. Ollie Weadon."

Ruth handed the note back with scarcely audible thanks and then quickly departed from the office with Robin Dale.

DEMOCRAT RULE SEEN BY SMITH

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—(AP.)—Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith predicted that the Democratic party "will soon be in national control and will make this a happy as well as a prosperous nation."

His statement was contained in a message to the Joel Parker Association expressing regret at his inability to attend its fifty-second annual outing, which was held at West Orange, N. J. The message said:

"To my mind the Democratic party will soon be in national control and will make this a happy as well as a prosperous nation.

"The Democratic party is still the party of the people, not against class, or against creed, but always looking for the common good, and opposing oppressive laws and national sumptuary acts."

CITY SOLICITOR KILLS SELF

FRANKLIN, Pa., Aug. 21.—George S. Criswell, 52, Franklin city solicitor and son of the late Judge George Criswell, was found dead, a revolver near his hand, on his father's grave in the Franklin Cemetery late yesterday. No reason was ascribed for his apparent suicide. The bullet entered the brain near the right ear.

Criswell had been in good health. He was organist of the First Methodist Church. He leaves his widow and two small children.

FIELDS TO LIVE IN ENGLAND

LONDON, Aug. 21.—(AP.)—The Daily Mail says today that Marshall Field of Chicago and his bride, the former Mrs. Dudley Coats, are spending the first several weeks of their honeymoon in England and eventually will make their home in this country.

Although it was believed after their marriage Monday that the Fields had gone to the continent, they went instead to the quiet little town of Sandwich in Kent, where they are occupying a bungalow overlooking the famous Sandwich golf course.

Field told a reporter for the Mail that he and his bride would go to Egypt in two or three weeks and then go on a big game hunting expedition by airplane.

URGES LARGER NAVY CLASSES

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—(AP.)—The recommendation that the Naval Academy enrollment be increased to provide Navy-trained men for merchant vessels in time of peace and service ships in war was made in a radio address by Acting Secretary Jahncke of the Navy.

Secretary Jahncke said the academy could accommodate from 150 to 160 students in excess of the Navy's needs.

He added that while it cost about $350,000 to graduate 115 students from three state nautical schools, the number of graduates at Annapolis could be increased 500 at an expenditure of about $475,000.

"The necessity for some such plan to educate officers for the merchant marine is readily apparent when one considers that ships are progressing in size and equipment as well as in numbers," Jahncke said.

FLOOD SWEEPS TOWN IN CHILE

ANTOFAGASTA, Chile, Aug. 21.—(AP.)—Many homes were inundated and much property damage caused by a torrential rainstorm here. The storm burst water mains, threatening the city's drinking water supply.

Other parts of the country were also severely hit by the rainstorm and heavy snow which came down almost at the same time. Train service is paralyzed and many lines are cut. Schools have been closed.

Evening newspapers were prevented from publishing because the plants were inundated. A majority of business establishments were closed because of the flood.

INDIAN OIL SUIT ASKS MILLION

HULSA, Okla., Aug. 21.—(AP.)—C. J. Wrightsman, wealthy Tulsa oil man and unsuccessful candidate for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator, was sued for $1,000,000 by Raymond Offut, Creek County Indian, in connection with Wrightsman's acquisition of land in the Drumright and Oilton oil fields.

Offutt, now in the Leavenworth (Kan.) Federal prison serving a three-year sentence on a liquor charge, alleges he was defrauded of the title to a 160-acre tract which he received in an allotment from the government. He charges he was kept under the influence of liquor and did not realize he was losing the land.

Best baby in county!

Always happy and comfortable; free from colds

OF COURSE every family has a "best" baby in it. But some babies are a lot nicer than others just the same. And that is so largely a matter of health. For psychologists and medical men say that good nature in babies is dependent largely on their comfort. They are too little to tell you what ails them. So they cry. And you have to guess it's a rash, or chafed skin, or a stopped-up nose.

That is, you guess, unless you are wise enough to prevent these troubles with the handy "Vaseline" jar.

For "Vaseline" Petroleum Jelly is an essential part of any baby outfit. Apply it to the baby's skin after the bath; to the head too; then take little swabs of cotton on toothpicks, dip it into the Jelly, and very gently apply to the baby's nostrils. This cleanses and lubricates. Tends to prevent colds.

These are easy, safe things to do. Ask your doctor. "Vaseline" Jelly has been used by mothers and doctors and hospitals for half a century.

Henry Ford's Band.

—By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—Despite brave efforts to correct my delinquency I am still unable to arouse myself to a mood of revelry by the song "It's Always Fair Weather."

Louis Reid

Despite any report to the contrary I believe "Dixie" has worn out more fiddle strings than any tune known to Damrosch or the devil.

Despite a persistent search for enduring echoes candor compels me to state that the most haunting cry I ever heard on the air was "Twenty-four votes for Underwood" at the Democratic shindig in 1924.

The songs of the Civil War remain for me the most stirring of all the melodies inspired by the wars of the last hundred years.

There is really no expectation on my part of ever hearing a radio debate between Mrs. Gann and Mrs. Longworth, though I would give my good ear to hear one.

Were a vote to be taken of the favorite bathroom melody of the last 20 years, it is my conviction that first place would be overwhelmingly reserved for "On the Road to Mandalay."

Television, Alas.

Too Late for Ty Cobb

I shall never cease to regret that television will come too late to record the grace and flash of Ty Cobb on the basepaths.

So long as "The Stars and Stripes Forever" continues to be heard in the land I cannot feel that Main street is in the slightest danger of a Soviet invasion.

One of the chief merits of radio, in my opinion, is that it has definitely put a stop to windy and bombastic political speeches.

Whenever I am asked for proof of the steady rise of the stock market I point to the army of astrologers now massed before the microphones.

I have yet to hear a sketch of rural life in which a nasal twang was not the chief characteristic.

Were I asked to name the melody most dependable in breaking a rapt attention in a bridge game I would select the "Liebestraum" of Franz Liszt.

I am still unable to understand why with the dismal tunes of Hawaii ever at their disposal the broadcasters should extend their search for song material to the Dismal Swamp.

Greater progress toward permanent peace would be made, I believe, were the nations of the world to prohibit by law any airing, radio or otherwise, of "Dixie," "La Marseillaise," "Rule, Britannia" and "The Campbells Are Coming." They still quicken the pulse and arouse a recruiting spirit more than any tunes written since Napoleon waited for Blucher.

Were the compilers of cook books to present their programs with a background of music the old oven will take on an activity, we predict that it has not known since "Continental" and "Grand Union" ceased to be names of hotels.

Name of Harding Never Reaches Loudspeakers

Though no phase of American life today or the day of the hitching post is left unrepresented on the air, I have yet to hear on the loudspeakers any mention of the name of Warren Gamaliel Harding.

While I have heard many tales of the scorn which American males hold for Rudy Vallee I have yet to find the male who did not listen to the maestro's sentimental technique.

The most British voice we have ever heard on the air is that of Beatrice Harrison, the violinist. The most un-British British voice that has reached our ears is that of King George. The most definitely American voice to issue from the loudspeakers is that of Calvin Coolidge, the most unmistakably New York voice is that of Al Smith.

Ear-Cuppers Waiting For Ford's Old Band

It is an increasing wonder to me why Henry Ford, in his pursuit of the humbler aspects of old-time America, has not endowed an old-fashioned orchestra for the air, a band, say, of 50 pieces, which not only knows its harmonicas, jewsharps and fiddles, but its "Arkansas Traveler," "Turkey in the Straw" and "Pop Goes the Weasel."

Unless we are talking more than ever through our black fedora, such a band would gain the ears of the crossroads as nothing has gained them since Al crossed tongues with Hoover.

We Now Present

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor.

Schubert melodies will grace the RCA program on WCAE at 10 o'clock tonight. Wilfred Glenn will go down deep to tell about "Daniel in the Lion's Den."

If you like good variety, try Mardi Gras on WJAS at 8:45.

KDKA's new production man, Edward (Red) Harvey, is a former co-worker of Ollie Riehl at the Chicago studios of NBC. Ollie's getting along fine, says Red.

The "Twenty Fingers of Sweetness" are primed for their first stage appearance at the Enright tomorrow.

BRICK BAT

We can count on a letter a year from Graham Francis Bott, the clever Wilson (Pa.) cartoonist, whom we admire for his absolute frankness. He petitions us to warn a certain downtown announcer that he shouldn't sing any more. Then concludes:

"Thanks for your trouble, if any; and tell this announcer that he's good on many programs, including the baseball scores, and tell him also that whether your team wins or not, I do not eat a certain brand of ice cream.

"Long live the Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh's progressive newspaper, and also Darrell Martin, altho I have never seen him and I hear that he's far from handsome."

Burt Mustin, the radio entertainer, intercedes for the McKinley-Gregg Automobile Company to tell us that Col. Lindbergh does own a car—a Franklin.

QUESTION A DAY:

Mildred Holmes, New Castle—Can you tell me why the sponsors of "Amos and Andy" chose the "Perfect Song" for their signature?

A.—A question we've answered several times on the street. It's a good one. Broadcasters find that music that is hard to remember or hum makes the best theme song, because people never grow tired of it. Try to hum the "Perfect Song" from beginning to end and you'll get our point.

The Columbia Signature played by the string quartet between station breaks is another good example. This signature was composed with the definite purpose of bewildering the music mind. It is difficult to remember, but easily identified. Each strain consists of six measures each, and while the melody is built on diatonic scale, much of the harmony moves in half tones, which somewhat confuses the memory.

Mayhew Lake, the Columbia bandmaster, will burn up when he gets a letter sent to WJAS asking for particulars regarding Mayhew Lake, "the summer resort I heard advertised over the radio."

NEWS ITEM

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Aug. 21.—Business and pleasure are being combined by the delegates attending the annual sales conference of Westinghouse broadcasting stations at Lake Lynn, near here. Mornings are devoted to business sessions and afternoons to motor boating, swimming, fishing and hiking.

W. E. Jackson, promotion manager of Station KDKA, leads the way each morning for a sunrise dip while Harold Higgins, commercial representative

BILLINGS TRIAL NEARS END

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 21.—(Universal.)—After nearly four weeks of procedure without precedent in American legal history, the justices of the State Supreme Court have concluded their public hearing on the application of Warren K. Billings for a pardon.

Although no further oral testimony will be taken, unless some unforeseen development makes it necessary to reconvene, the Billings case is not yet closed, Chief Justice William H. Waste announced last night.

Much additional testimony will be received in the form of affidavits and depositions from both the "prosecution" and the "defenses," it was revealed. There is also the possibility that attorneys on both sides may be given an opportunity to make oral arguments. Billings' attorney, Edwin V. McKenzie, has made several urgent requests that arguments be permitted.

If the justices recommend that Governor Young "consider a pardon" for Billings there is a strong probability that both Billings and his equally famous fellow convict, Thomas J. Mooney, will be extended executive clemency in some form.

DENIES DIVINE DIVORCE BAN

OXFORD, England, Aug. 21.—(INS.)—Controversial issues dealing largely with marriage and birth control continued to excite comment today at the Modern Churchmen's conference here.

Following closely in the footsteps of Dean Inge's startling pronouncement that suicides in certain cases should be justified in place of the death penalty, and the Lambeth All-Anglical conclusions on morality, Dr. Douglas White, of the archbishop's commission on sex relations, declared that birth control must take its place of sheer necessity in human society, despite its attendant dangers and objections.

Stupidity and false modesty of women cause many a marital wreck, he continued, adding:

"Unhappy marriages are caused by the lovers' rosy view and by real changes occurring after physical maturity. Hence, divorce is necessary and is not forbidden by Christ."

$300,000 Damage As Factory Burns

SCRANTON, Pa., Aug. 21.—(AP.)—Fire swept the main building of the South Montrose Manufacturing Company factory at South Montrose, destroying valuable machinery and causing a loss of $300,000 late yesterday. A nearby feed store also was burned.

The factory engaged in the manufacture of coat hangers, hat stands, towel racks and auxiliary products.

Family on Trip, Unaware Fire Levels Home

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., Aug. 21.—Fire of unknown origin destroyed the home of James Greenwald here yesterday. Members of the family are on a mountain camping trip and have not been informed of their loss. Firemen estimated the damage at $4,000.

3 Ukraine Bandit Leaders Executed

ARTEMOVSK, Ukraine, Aug. 21.—(AP.)—Three notorious Ukraine bandit leaders named Chepulnoy, Yakovlev and Ivanitzky were executed by a firing squad after their appeal to the central executive committee was denied. The three were charged with terrorizing villages and towns last year, and murdering many inhabitants.

KNIGHTS AGAIN HEAR CARDINAL

BOSTON, Aug. 21.—(AP.)—Knights of Columbus assembled here for their forty-eighth annual supreme convention heard William Cardinal O'Connell for the second time since the convention started.

An executive session was made public during the cardinal's speech. The prelate told the Knights that "the welfare of the world is not depending on any set of people; we must all work together."

"We must arouse ourselves to the fact that we are needed in life," he said, "and that there is room for work among all, Jew or Gentile. The Knights of Columbus is not only a religious organization but a patriotic one, giving service to God, to church, and to country."

The delegates visited Cambridge and Harvard. There they were addressed by Mayor Richard M. Russell, who said: "The Masons, the Elks, and other organizations should fall in line and work hand in hand with the Knights of Columbus to exterminate the abuse of the God-given right to serve in public office without subjecting oneself to the slandering tongue."

URGE G. O. P. AID FOR HEFLIN

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Aug. 21.—(AP.)—Support by the Republican party of the candidacy of Senator J. Thomas Heflin, who is campaigning for re-election on an independent ticket, was advocated by speakers at an informal public meeting of the State Republican Committee preliminary to the formal convention today.

Dr. J. C. Swann, of Mobile, chairman of the State Executive Committee, said following the meeting that there seemed "little doubt" the convention would vote against placing a ticket in the November general election.

While formal indorsement of the independent ticket was not expected, remarks from the floor indicated that Heflin and Hugh A. Locke, "Jefferson Democratic" candidate for governor, would get the bulk of the Republican support.

This sentiment was opposed by Judge L. H. Reynolds, of Chilton County, who in an address declared the party faced the "opportunity of a lifetime to place Republicans in office."

INJURIES KILL GARFIELD KIN

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Aug. 21.—(AP.)—Mrs. Helen Newell Garfield, 64, wife of James R. Garfield, of Mentor, O., son of the late President Garfield, died late yesterday in Portsmouth Hospital of injuries received in an automobile accident Monday.

Mrs. Garfield was traveling with her husband on a tour of New England. They were driving along Myrtle avenue, this city, Monday afternoon when a tire blew out. The car left the road and struck a pole. Garfield was uninjured.

Mrs. Garfield was born in Chicago, the daughter of John E. and Judith Poore Newell.

Mr. Garfield served as Secretary of the Interior under President Roosevelt and is the brother of Harry A. Garfield, president of Williams College. Besides her husband, Mrs. Garfield leaves four sons, John N., James A., Rudolph and Newell.

PYTHIANS ARGUE OFFICE SHIFT

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Aug. 21.—(AP.)—With Eastern Pennsylvania representatives united in their determination to retain Philadelphia as the headquarters of the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania, Knights of Pythias, delegates to the annual convention looked forward to spirited debate today on a resolution to remove the headquarters to Harrisburg. Backers of the resolution say a more central location for the headquarters is desirable.

Election of Grand Lodge officers, memorial services, a dinner for those who have been Grand Lodge members for at least 25 years and an entertainment at the Cathedral for Pythians and Pythians Sisters were items on a busy program.

Carlisle was chosen for the 1931 convention city and John C. Wilkes, Sharon, was elected without opposition as grand chancellor. The Grand Temple of Pennsylvania, Pythian Sisters, will elect today.

Other Grand Lodge officers elected were: Grand vice chancellor, A. B. Hess, Mechanicsburg; grand prelate, L. M. Eakin, Vandergrift; grand keeper of records and seals, Benjamin Moore, Pittsburgh; grand master of exchequer, Henry W. Fox, Johnstown; grand master at arms, O. G. Brenneman, Harrisburg; grand trustee, Dr. Louis Lunch, Philadelphia.

SCHOOL LOOTER GETS 5 YEARS

LIVINGSTON, Ala., Aug. 21.—(AP.)—T. S. Ward, treasurer of the Sumter County Board of Education, pleaded guilty to a charge of embezzling $22,000 in school funds and was sentenced to five years in the State Prison.

The indictment was returned by a special grand jury convened Monday to investigate racial disorders at Emelle, Ala., on July 4, and charges against certain county officers, including "laxity in observance of the prohibition laws."

Ward's plea of guilty followed within a few hours his resignation as a member of the County Board of Revenue and that of Sheriff W. T. Scales. Sheriff Scales was the fourth county official to resign. M. C. Jarman, circuit clerk, and T. R. Kimbrough, circuit solicitor, preceded him.

Pay Vouchers Enter Election Board Quiz

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Aug. 21.—A handwriting expert, to examine cancelled payroll vouchers issued by the Mahoning County Board of Elections, was called in the investigation of the board being conducted by County Prosecutor Ray Thomas and representatives from the office of Clarence W. Brown secretary of state.

So far the probe is veiled in secrecy. The board has been under fire by the secretary of state's office for three months.

Don't wait until it is too late!

When your red-blood-cells are only 80% you are not yourself—60% is dangerous

A fact you should not overlook

MORE red-cells in the blood! Good health and resistance to infection and disease, depend on that. If a lowered red-cell count is allowed to continue, ANEMIA often results.

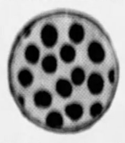
S.S.S. should be your safeguard. A hundred years of experience has proved its usefulness in building red-cells in the blood. Take it before meals. Millions of people have found it the easiest and surest way to restore their red-blood-cells. The appetite picks up, the whole body is strengthened, invigorated! Get S.S.S.—take it and possess a wonderful power of new life and vitality. Ask for the large size. At all drug stores. © S.S.S. Co.

How to recognize a low blood count

Blood is Life! You cannot count your own red-blood-cells—that is technical! But you should know that they are the "ships" that sail in the blood and carry nourishment to all parts of the body. Also, they remove impurities from the tissues.

You can recognize a lowered count by the way you look and feel—such as body weakness, lack of appetite, underweight, paleness, sallow complexion, boils and pimples. They may indicate that you need S.S.S.

S.S.S.—the great blood tonic—stimulates the blood-building organs to supply the necessary red-cells. If your vitality and clear skin are slipping away from you, try S.S.S.



(Left) Microscopic view of healthy red-blood-cells. The blood stream should contain about 5,000,000 of these cells to every cubic millimeter.

HOLLYWOOD AND BROADWAY GOSSIP; LOCAL AMUSEMENT NOTES

Constance Bennett, Pathe 'Make Up' So Work on New Film Begins

By HARRISON CARROLL.

(Copyright, 1930, Universal Service.)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 21.

The tiff between Constance Bennett and the Pathe Studio is over, and her picture, "Sin Takes a Holiday," goes into rehearsal this week. She will have for her leading man, Kenneth McKenna, formerly of Broadway.

This is the actor whom Mary Pickford kept under contract for weeks to insure having him for "Secrets." He was the only member of the first cast to win the approval of the star.

Miss Bennett is being popularly acclaimed for her performance in "Common Clay." Loew's State Theater is giving handkerchiefs to feminine patrons as they enter the door. Studio attaches say that many exhibitors have booked Miss Bennett's next picture sight unseen, after looking at "Common Clay."

Constance Bennett

Sin Takes a Holiday is to be directed for Pathe by Paul Stein. Robert Milton and Dorothy Cairns wrote the story. Milton, ordinarily is a director. He's known throughout Hollywood for his habit of addressing his actors as "my children."

Edward Everett Horton

LITERAL-MINDED

Monta Bell, a newspaperman once himself, is impressed with the literal-mindedness of the Chinese. During the filming of "East Is West," he instructed an Oriental to chase another down a dock. The scene was swell, but the pursuer and pursued refused to stop. They continued in their mad race until the leading Chinese dived off the dock and started swimming towards the Hawaiian Islands.

THE GOOD OLD DAYS

All the leisure has gone out of Hollywood since the coming of the talkies. In the old days, you used to sit and play bridge on the sets between scenes. Stars and extras alike enjoyed the game. Now every minute is devoted to the business at hand. When actors are not before the camera they are studying lines or rehearsing. Even the studio grounds have changed. Sound laboratories and new stages have replaced greenswards.

HORTON SIGNED

Another of the players in "Holiday" has cashed in on his performance. United Artists has just signed Edward Everett Horton to play a role in Douglas Fairbanks' new picture, "Reaching for the Moon."

Horton's salary has jumped into big figures in the last year. It's rumored he gets $20,000 from Joseph Schenck for the four weeks on the Fairbanks film.

This actor is a prime favorite on the local stage, but he has never ventured much on Broadway. Warners introduced him to the audiblins.

NO ENGLISH HEARD

All the lots are swarming with foreigners. I walked through a large crowd outside the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer commissary today and never heard a word of English spoken.

It seems that this studio is electrified by the response to the Spanish version of Buster Keaton's "Free and Easy," and by the French version of "The Green Ghost." Nora Gregor, the UFA star, is now making a German version of "The Trial of Mary Dugan." Arthur Robinson, who did "The Last Waltz" for UFA, is directing.

Out at First National, three foreign language pictures are the only productions on the present schedule. Studio officials believe that no more English pictures will be made there until November at least and possible the first of the year.

UNUSUAL RECORD

Samuel Goldwyn, whom I ran across while he was getting his hair cut in Douglas Fairbanks' dressing room, assures me that the English playwright, Frederick Lonsdale, left here well pleased with his film association.

He claims to have a telegram from Lonsdale putting it down in black and white.

The English author refused to take a cent of money in advance on his story for Ronald Colman.

DO YOU KNOW

That Maurice Chevalier has had a piece of shrapnel in his lung ever since the "taxicab drive" from Paris in 1914?

That the base of motion picture film is 92 per cent cotton?

That the talking motion pictures caused the investment of $200,000,000 in the United States alone?

DrumstoFame

He used to beat a drum in a Boy Scout fife and drum corps. Now, as an orchestra leader, he holds a big spot in the amusement spotlight. His name is Fred Waring and he's bringing his Pennsylvanians to the Penn tomorrow.

NEW PICTURE TODAY; OTHERS COME TOMORROW

"The Bad Man" comes to the Stanley screen today as the climaxing feature of Warner Brothers Silver Jubilee Month. Walter Huston is cast in the leading role. He is supported by James Rennie, Sidney Blackmer, Dorothy Revier and O. P. Heggie. On the stage, Gene Morgan offers "Razzle Dazzle."

William Haines, the "wise-cracker of the screen," who's played football and baseball for pictures, rides a horse and does cowboy tricks in his latest comedy romance, "Way Out West," the screen attraction coming tomorrow to the Penn. Fred Waring's Pennsylvanians will be on the stage.

WARNER REOPENS

The Warner Theater will reopen Saturday, after extensive remodeling and redecorating, with John Barrymore in his late production, "Moby Dick." John Bennet and Lloyd Hughes have supporting roles.

Neil Hamilton, Natalie Moorhead, Dorothy Sebastian and John Holland are cast in the leading roles of "Ladies Must Play," which opens in the Enright tomorrow. Dick Powell's stage presentation will include several well known entertainers.

JACK OAKIE FILM

The New York musical stage has contributed four of the featured players in the cast of "Let's Go Native," coming to the Aldine tomorrow. Jeanette MacDonald, Jack Oakie, James Hall and Skeets Gallagher all established reputations in Broadway musical comedy before going to Hollywood.

Arthur Lake, young juvenile, makes his return to the local screen in "She's My Weakness," an RKO Radio picture, opening in the Sheridan Square tomorrow. Sue Carol is the heroine.

"Lawful Larceny" comes to the Harris screen Saturday. Bebe Daniels has the leading role. Lowell Sherman, Kenneth Thompson and Purnell Pratt are in the cast. The Harris stage will feature Victor Graff.

Lucky Girl!

Sue Carol is a lucky girl. Besides getting a nice hero in the film, "She's My Weakness," she gets a box of candy. The picture opens tomorrow in the Sheridan Square.

Kennywood Plans Annual Mardi Gras

The second annual Kennywood Park Mardi Gras will open Monday and end Saturday night, August 30. Johnny Brown and his Great White Fleet Orchestra, from the Walton roof, Philadelphia, will furnish dance music. The free outdoor entertainment will be put on by Bench Bentum and her diving mermaids, a group of girl swimmers and divers. Six automobiles will be given away, one each evening during the Mardi Gras, and 15 prizes will be awarded nightly to those joining in the fancy dress parades.

Pilot Dies, Student Injured in Crash

PAYSON, Utah, Aug. 21.—(AP.)—Henry Hoff, Ogden, Utah, pilot, was killed, and Clarence Priffith, a Los Angeles student flier, was injured in the fall of their airplane from an altitude of about 400 feet.

MOVIE CLOCK

Hours at which feature photoplays begin in first run houses are in accordance with the following time schedule:

PENN: "Common Clay"—10, 11:48 a. m., 2:25, 5:12, 7:50 and 10:28 p. m.

STANLEY: "The Bad Man"—10:10, 11:45 a. m., 2:05, 4:25, 5:50, 8:10 and 10:30 p. m.

HARRIS: "Back Pay"—12:50, 3:09, 5:27, 7:47 and 10:05 p. m.

PITT: "Unguarded Girls"—11 a. m., 1, 3, 5, 7, 9 p. m.

7,800 TO JOIN IN MUSIC FETE

CHICAGO, Aug. 21.—(AP.)—Six thousand singers and 1,800 musicians of 22 band, drum and bugle corps will participate in the Chicago Land Music Festival Saturday night at Soldiers Field, sponsored by newspapers of five central states.

A chorus of 5,000 voices will sing "Hallelujah" from "The Messiah" and a chorus of 1,000 Negroes will sing spirituals. To achieve realism 25 electrically charged anvils which will emit sparks when struck will be used when the "Anvil Chorus" from "Faust" is sung and a detachment of soldiers will fire out over Lake Michigan when the bands near the conclusion of the "Overture of 1812" portraying Napoleon at Moscow.

Show Boat to Open On Wednesday Night

The Show Boat will reopen under new management on Wednesday night in the Allegheny River at the foot of Sixth street. Jimmy Carr, heralded as the "doctor of melody," and his orchestra, for five seasons at the Silver Slipper Night Club, New York, will furnish the dance music. A specially produced floor show will be an added feature.

Merciless Truth

I will be quite certain
When I love again,
I will draw the curtain
When I feel the pain.

I will make my pledges
Tongue in cheek I fear;
Even Cupid hedges
When the clouds appear.

I will vow devotion
To a breathless lass;
Yet I have a notion
It will quickly pass.

Why be just a mourner?
Girls are loads of fun;
Just around the corner
There's another one!

—Don Wahn.

Tee, Hee

The Associated Press, apparently fed up with the tedious routine of reporting earthquakes, politics, science, aviation, etc., has burgled our Big Idea—the heralding of babies—or Blessed Events. But, being inexpert at that racket, the esteemed old A. P. fumbled on the Duchess of York's accouchement, and after announcing that the royal tot was expected on July 27, found itself on August 18 reporting: "Royal Baby's Arrival Believed Miscalculated."

Henceforth, the Associated Press need not Put Itself On The Spot like that. If it would have its Vital Statistics accurate, all it has to do is notify us and we will be tickled pink to co-operate—for a good stiff fee, that is.

Sex Marks the Spot

Among other swifties is the one recorded by Judge Jack Shuttleworth: "A reformer is a man who chases women out of town."

Heheheh

And it is Tom Sims' amusing parody that hell hath no fury like a woman who has waited for her husband on the wrong corner.

Fact

One of the Atlantic City rags contained this advertisement the other day: "Lost: Pocketbook containing $400. Finder may keep money, but please return those phone numbers!—Benny Davis, Hotel Ritz."

Anecdote

Nick the Greek, one of the most colorful sportsmen at the track or in the dice houses, was having a tough session of it with the Fickle Cubes. Nick had dropped over $40,000 betting against the dice when he decided to get some fresh air near a window.

As he ankled away from the crap game a lad sitting alone at card table motioned to him. "Looka here," said the fellow, "how 'bout you an' me playing casino for 25c a game?" Nick agreed.

After the Greek had won five straight games and he had pocketed the $1.25, the loser groaned: "Gee, you're the luckiest guy I ever played with!"

Is My Place Red?

"The only thing worse than Broadway," postcards June Aster Winchell, "are the columns written about it."

I'd rather be hissed at than yawned at, madam.

Controversy

The Postal Telegraph Company's voice rebukes this dep't for saying that playgoers using their branch offices to reserve New York theater tickets would have to pay the broker fee of 79c, anyway.

Postal, however, does not announce that the theaters (belonging to the League) only retain 25 per cent of the allotment, the remainder going to the speculators. So what this bureau would like to know more than anything else at the moment is how Postal is going to take care of the visiting playgoer after the theater's allotment is exhausted.

Does Postal mean that after the manager's 25 per cent allotment is gone the theaters (or Postal) will pay the 79c fee to the brokers for the playgoer?

Imagine

Among other outstanding beauties listed in The Beautician is Katherine Burke, one of the handsomer Ziegfeld follies. In Mr. Ziegfeld's "Whoopee" show Miss Burke was the lass who did the principal nude—she was on the middle of the five white steeds.

But what we started out to report was that the gorgeous Katherine, who was stricken with infantile paralysis when she was a tot, now fills a pair of sheer hose better than Santa Claus.

Of All Things!

Then there's the ageless gag about the quick-change actor who was riding on a subway train and the light went out for a second or two. When they went on again he was half naked!

Character

He complained long and loud the last time his name was mentioned here, which is not the reason why it is omitted now. It is omitted because the local cafe and cabaret entertainers hope that he isn't frightened away by publicity.

At any rate, he is to be listed high along with the suckers or spenders, if you prefer. But the night club owners wish he wouldn't come into their places at all.

Because, while he has often given away a dozen or more $500 bills in one night to the waiters, the orchestra crew, and the chorus girls working in the cabarets, he usually goes broke giving the coin away, and has nothing left to spend on hooch, club sandwiches or a couvert charge.

Add Sillies

Al Stauderman wonders if you've heard about the feller who sneezed when speaking to the trans-Atlantic telephone operator and she connected him with Russia!

By Way of Report.

The city is buzzing about the daily income of the rich Howard Hughes, who spent 4,000,000 smackers to produce "Hell's Angels," the most spellbinding thrill in town. It was reported that Hughes' daily income is $7,000—money from pappy's oil properties, etc.

As a matter of fact, the young, but intelligent, amusement impresario has a daily income of $19,800, and he is only 26.

And most people are dancing w. t. t. their eyes!

"Colgate's is most efficient cleanser"*

Dr. Shirley W. Wynne

Commissioner of Health of New York City

RESPONSIBLE for the health of six million Americans, Dr. Shirley W. Wynne, Health Commissioner of New York City, singles out Colgate's Ribbon Dental Cream as "the most effective cleanser" of those examined. His approval is undeniably impressive. Interested as he is in all branches of public health, Dr. Wynne recently made a careful study of the difference in dentifrices. He examined tests made by some of America's greatest analytical chemists.

Dr. Wynne's conclusion is based on the recent research of such eminent authorities as Dr. Hardee Chambliss, Dean of the School of Sciences, Catholic University of America, Washington, D. C.; Dr. Philip B. Hawk, M.S., Yale, Ph.D., Columbia; Jerome Alexander, B.S., M.S., internationally famous among consulting chemists and chemical engineers; Dr. H. H. Bunzell, Ph.D., University of Chicago; and others, retained to make analytical tests and report their findings.

All agree that Colgate's is supreme because of its penetrating foam. This active agent flushes out the decaying food particles which lodge between the teeth. Colgate's thus cleanses completely—in a way impossible with sluggish tooth pastes which merely polish the outer surfaces of the teeth.

Shirley W. Wynne, M. D., Dr. P. H.

Commissioner of Health, New York City
M. D., Columbia University
Member American Medical Association
Prof. Preventive Medicine, N. Y. Polyclinic Medical School and Hospital
Prof. Public Health, Fordham School of Sociology and Social Service
Recognized internationally as an authority on matters of Public Health

Dr. Wynne says:

"The sole function of a dentifrice is to thoroughly cleanse the teeth and gums. To be an effective cleanser a dentifrice must have low surface tension in solution. Low surface tension is, therefore, the true scientific indication of cleansing power on the part of a dentifrice in actual use.

"I have examined the reports of laboratory tests made by eminent chemists who have compared Colgate's with other prominent dentifrices and I find that Colgate's rates the lowest surface tension of those examined. This means that Colgate's is the most efficient cleanser because it gets into the crevices between the teeth, thus removing and flooding away decaying foods."*

The price is important—but the quality—not the price—has held Colgate leadership for 30 years.

MISS HARD-BOILED

By JANE DIXON

Maid Sent to Raquel to Study Her Toilette

CHAPTER XXXII.

Raquel found a maid in black uniform with crisp garnish of white organdie waiting when she went to the suite to dress for dinner.

"You wish to see someone?" she asked.

The maid gave her a smile that was meant to please.

"Yes, Miss," she said. "You are Mademoiselle Raquel?"

"I am. If there is something you want—"

"My name is Frieda. I come from Madame Dexter. There are two of us, and she has hired for only one. She has loaned me to Monsieur Alphonse for you."

"And for Miss Greta, too?" The question was both an inquiry and an affirmative answer.

"Madame did not mention any Miss Greta. She said only you—though I will be glad to help the other young lady. Now I see, I am to study your toilette, how it is done."

So this was the explanation for the maid's presence. She, Raquel was to be dissected. She was to be taken apart piece by piece, and put together again on another personality. What an odd creature this Mrs. Dexter must be, wanting to sink herself in someone else.

Greta Surprised

She found the jade green gown in the closet. The maid went about choosing her underthings without consulting Raquel in the matter. Evidently Frieda took it for granted she was to use her own judgment in the matter. Unerring judgment, as Raquel came to know.

Greta came in, bursting with a juicy morsel of news. She had been prospecting again, and she was sure she had struck "pay dirt."

"Gosh," she said, "it's no soft job, the digging a girl's got to do to get along. Dig, dig, dig. And just when you think you've hit a pot of gold, nothing turns up but a lot of sand. This bozo I'm working on now, though, I got him all staked out for a real sugar papa. If you'll promise not to tip off Alphonse—"

She stopped, her slant blue eyes wide with surprise. Frieda had come to the door of the gray room to speak to Raquel.

"My high silk hat!" gasped Greta. "Look whose here! She's alive, too. I thought for a minute she was painted there. Ha-a-y, old dear, where've you been digging?"

Raquel laughed. Greta's slang, often incomprehensible to one who knew only the rough idiom of the border, never failed to amuse her.

"Frieda, this is Miss Greta," she said. Then, to Greta: "Frieda has been loaned to Alphonse by one of his customers on board. The customer has ordered some of the things I've worn, and she wants to know something about my toilette. Frieda will help you too."

Greta's amusement was nothing short of boisterous.

"That's a hot one," she managed between outbreaks. "Dearie, you're good. When they try to nab your make-up right off your shelf. Next they'll be wanting to know what you have for breakfast and who's your favorite movie actor."

Alphonse Sends Flowers

A happy-go-lucky buccaneer, Greta. She promptly appropriated as much of Frieda's willing hands as she could get and sent the bustling little maid into the seventh heaven of delight by conferring on her, before she had been in the room 15 minutes, a gold and platinum cigaret-case she had "borrowed from some wall-eyed bimbo."

"I don't smoke cigarets," Frieda confessed hesitantly, overcome by the magnificence of the gift.

"What do you smoke, a pipe?" Greta wanted to know.

"Oh, Miss Greta—"

"You've got a brother haven't you, or a sweet cookie, or somebody?"

"I have a—sweetheart," blushing furiously.

"You would!" Greta shrugged bare shoulders smooth as warm milk. "Well, send him that. Tell him the king of Rumania made you a present of it."

The steward brought two bokes to the door. One was marked for Raquel. The other for Greta Flowers.

One of the delights of being a model, Raquel found, was that one was provided with flowers for every evening costume. At least Alphonse had so provided. He had seen to it that a selection of corsages was stowed away in a refrigerated room, enough to last the voyage. The models had a list of corsages available. Until this evening they had selected their own. Tonight Alphonse did not trust their judgment.

His choice for Raquel proved to be a single camellia, the color, coral.

"It'd be a wow," Greta said if there was more of it. It looks kind of lonesome."

When she saw it, nestling between the faint curve of Raquel's breasts just above the jade line of her gown, she changed her mind.

"You've got to hand it to Alphonse," she admitted. "He knows his toe-mah-toes."

"Doesn't he," agreed Raquel, surveying the effect in the mirror. Coral and jade. It intensified her pallor. Gave the luster of polished jet to her hair and her eyes. Heightened the red of her lips. The perfect touch, the camellia, if there was just a bit more of the coral—coral earrings.

She had them. In the small leather coin-purse she had taken from the cheap bag she bought on Sixth avenue. Locked in the little compartment of her dressing table.

Client Pointed Out

She took them out reverently. They had a familiar feel. They were really exquisitely carved. How had her mother managed to save these fragments of beauty from the ugly wreck of her life? Raquel fastened them in her ears. Held them close against her cheeks. Poor Lucy. Dear Mother Lucy—

Greta was extravagant in praise of the earrings.

"Some senorita," she exclaimed. "I bet you could wriggle a mean tango in that Spanish make-up. Hey, dearie, have you ever been to Mexico, down where the chili con carne grows?"

Raquel sacrificed a box of powder to the answer. Deliberately dropped it. She did not want to answer Greta's question.

Alphone came to fetch them for dinner. Would he disapprove of the earrings? His eyes narrowed. He studied her as a scientist might study a specimen under a glass.

"You are as I would have you," he said at last. There was more than approval in his voice. And there was what amounted to worship in his eyes for this living thing of beauty that was, in part at least, his own creation.

"How about me?" Greta asked, swaying across the room.

"You have chosen well," he said. "The bisque lace is neutral, a perfect foil for Mademoiselle."

"I like that," Greta pouted. "A foil!"

Dinner had been served and the three of them were chatting over the food. Alphonse was so skilful in selecting when he leaned, imperceptibly, toward Raquel, and, lowering his voice, said:

"Mrs. Dexter has just come in. At the table to the right. She is the woman you are to meet. The one I have engaged to aid in the redemption of happiness."

Fay King Describes Two Unsound Attitudes Toward Second Marriages

MARRY AGAIN? NOT ME!! NOT MORE THAN ONE WOMAN IS GOING TO MAKE A FOOL OUT OF ME. THEY'RE ALL ALIKE! NO MORE MARRIAGE FOR ME -
LIGHT
FIRST MARRIAGE
I THOUGHT HE WAS A GOOD KIND MAN LIKE MY FIRST HUSBAND BUT HE IS NOT. HE SPENT THE MONEY MY FIRST HUSBAND LEFT ME - AND TREATS US SHAMEFULLY!
FAY KING

By FAY KING

There are two dangerous attitudes to take toward marriage.

One is in the case of those who have been happily married and suddenly find themselves bereaved of a dear mate with whom married life was harmony and happiness.

Left with little ones who need a mother's or father's care they feel they should marry again.

But they believe all men or women are as good as their first mate. This trust often blinds them to the mistake they are making in a second marriage.

The other attitude is just the reverse of this.

Because a first marriage was heartbreaking and unhappy they mistrust everyone and are too often blind to the good qualities of those they might marry, with whom they would find happiness.

Love's Reawakening

Continuation of Loves Awakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Lillian Rests During Long Automobile Ride.

I shall not soon forget that winter drive from the farmhouse to the home of Robert Savarin's sister in the Catskill Mountains undertaken because of the tragic message the famous artist, so nearly through with the world, had sent to the woman whom he once hoped to make his wife.

Lillian put into the rear seat by her husband with tender courtesy, before he took the wheel, had given me a little signal to sit beside her, and I had caught it, with a direction to Mary to take the seat beside Mr. Underwood. Mary had obeyed with alacrity, for like most young people she likes the driver's seat or the one next to it, when motoring. Lillian had gripped my hand under the robes when I had settled myself beside her, and held it tightly while her husband was staging his elaborate nonsense about the luncheon. It was not until the big car had gone several miles along our journey that she spoke, and then in a murmur which reached my ears alone.

"Isn't he wonderful about this?"

I nodded emphatically, for I shared her appreciation of the chivalry with which Harry Underwood had put down his jealousy and animosity toward the man who had come into Lillian's life during her husband's long absence and callous neglect of her. I knew that when Harry had volunteered the boon of her presence which the stricken man would not ask for himself, nor Lillian for him, he had given his wife a knightly gage of his unselfish devotion.

"But I can't keep up much longer," she said a few seconds later, still in the low monotone almost inaudible which she and I learned during our wartime secret service work. "I can't talk without his knowing how upset I am."

"Leave it to me," I murmured back. "Take my cue."

She nodded, and a minute later I spoke to her in a tone calculated to reach Harry's ear.

"Lillian, don't you think you could go to sleep if you put your head in my lap, and your feet on those bags at the side next the door? We could put one of these cushions we brought on the bags for your feet, another to your back, and tuck you up in the blankets. You're looking rather done out, and you'll need all the sleep you can snatch."

"I'd like to sleep," she confessed, "but it will be terribly uncomfortable for you."

"Indeed it won't." I returned. "It's so seldom I get a chance to see the world spin by from the inside of a car—you can't drive and view the landscape—you know—that I wouldn't go to sleep for worlds. I'll just put a cushion to my back and one at the back of my head and be a great deal more comfortable than any queen on a throne."

Mr. Underwood slowed down the car deftly swerved it to the side of the road and stopped.

"Come on, Mary," he said. "We'll tuck up these babes in the wood under all the leaves we can find. You had a brilliant idea there, Lady Fair. If this girl can only get some sleep, I shall be a lot less worried about her."

He worked as he talked, adjusting the bags at Lillian's feet, so that when she lay down upon the wide seat of the unusually large car with her head in my lap, her position was not in the least cramped. And he adjusted the pillows at her back and feet and tucked the blankets around her with the deft celerity which is his heritage from his ambulance work in the World War. Under his direction, Mary fitted cushions and blankets around me, so that my position, although somewhat cramped, would be comfortable. So rapidly did they work that I do not believe we lost more than a few minutes from the driving time.

Lillian did not speak again until we reached the city. But I knew that she did not sleep during the first part of the journey although I nodded a mendacious assent to her husband's anxious query, "Is she asleep?" which he put to me less than half an hour after he had tucked her in. From that moment the ride was a silent one, for Mr. Underwood and Mary feared to waken Lillian, and I had to keep up the pretense I had foisted upon them. I was glad of the quietude, however, for there are not many opportunities for me to spend hours in rest and reflection. I was not cramped during the ride at first, for knowing Lillian was not asleep, only resting, I was able to shift my position slightly from time to time without disturbing her. And Harry's marvelous driving skill combined with the billiard floor roads of Central Long Island made the journey as easy as the proverbial session in a rocking chair.

But at last Lillian really did drop into slumber and my reverie which had ranged from Noel Veritzen's mysterious behavior concerning his father's letter to my worry over Hugh Grantland's safety ended abruptly. From that moment I held myself in one position so that Lillian might get every second of the sleep she needed so sorely for the ordeal before her. But I was not sorry when we came into the city, and Lillian, wakening, sat up with anxious inquiry for my comfort. I was still trying to assure her that my muscles were not cramped when we drew up in front of the hotel.

To my surprise Harry Underwood came to my side of the car to help me out first. As I descended he spoke out of the side of his mouth, his face averted from Lillian.

"Pipe the driver of that black coupe directly across and three cars west. Tell you why later."

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Friday, August 22.

A very propitious state of affairs, in business as well as personal affiliations, may be presaged for this day, judging by the planetary configurations. Employment, new ventures and finances are under a fairly stimulating and fruitful aspect, encouraging to speculation as well as investment and fresh undertakings. There may be some petty anxiety concerning papers or letters, giving rise to vexatious or impulsive speech or acts.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a fairly prosperous and progressive year, with employment, new projects and finances flourishing. Investment and speculations should thrive, but there may be small anxieties regarding letters or writings.

A child born on this day may be clever, ambitious and generally capable in employment, where it should find favor and rise to good position. It should be generally popular and attract the attention of those in authority.

Spiders!

If you are troubled with house spiders saturate pieces of cotton wool with oil of pennyroyal and place them where you think the spiders are breeding. You will soon be rid of them.

Do You Wear a False Face When You Go to Parties?

Do you Put On An Act—pet 'n' giggle 'n' smoke and play you're having a Big Time—

When as a matter of fact the whole whirl leaves you secretly cold?

Jack and Genevieve are both That Way.

Here's the tale in a nutshell. "Dear Miss Martin:

"I'm puzzled about life, and I wonder if you could help me.

"Can you tell me if I'm very different from everyone else of my age, or not? Or do they wear a false face like I seem to be wearing?

"You know, I go to dances and parties, and act as if I were enjoying myself, just like everyone else I know does, but actually I'm not enjoying myself at all. I always feel as if there was something missing. . and I don't know what it is.

"I go out quite a bit with girls and they have always given me the name of being a carefree, good sport. It seems that everyone enjoys my company. Why is it that I never have a good time, myself?

"I have never met a girl I could say I really cared for, and I'm wonderin' if that might be what's missing. Do you think so?

"I'm fairly good at all kinds of sports—swimming, hiking, playing ball, and so forth. But I don't even enjoy them as much as my friends seem to. Are they always 'only acting,' just like me? Or am I different?

"Behind all this laughing and fun, I think I look at life just a little bit more seriously than most of the people I know.

"Although I could never make them believe this, I seem to see more of life than just a good time.

"Do you think it's wrong to have such ideas at twenty? Do you think that a few years from now I will see things differently? Or should I take the false face off now and act the way I feel?

"I'll be grateful for your kind advice. "JACK."

And here's Genevieve.

"Dear Sally:

"I wonder if you could tell me something. I've thought about it myself, but I can't seem to get it straight in my mind. So I'm coming to you.

"It's this. So often I go to a party or show . . . I laugh and kid around and dance, and act like I was having the time of my life . . . and it is fun, at the time. But after it's all over and I get home, I just sit and wonder what I've really got out of it after all. And the answer is—nothing! Nothing that matters. Nothing that lasts. Gee! My bunch would drop dead if I told them the way I really feel. They think I'm a regular whiz bang! But I guess they don't take anything seriously. Kidding around seems to be enough for them. And I get so sick of it sometimes! Am I 'queer?' I know they'd think so if they could see inside my head.

"What's the matter with me, Sally? Am I different? Or do you suppose any of my friends feel the same way?

"Please help me. I'm so puzzled. GENEVIEVE."

"Queer?" Not a bit of it, youngster! "Different?" Not a bit of it. For if you could look into the hearts of those rollicking pals of yours, the chances are a million to one you'd find the same urges, the same longings that are troubling you.

There is more to living than just having a good time. Much, much more. And trying to live on a good time alone is just as bad for your spirits as too many cream puffs would be for your stomachs. Good times are really necessary. They let fresh air and sparkle into your spirit just as open windows let them into your lungs.

But seriousness is necessary, too. Seriousness gives you something to get your teeth into. Something to make you feel solid, worthwhile, useful.

So try being serious part of the time. Be yourself!

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

Gay Deceivers.

Alas, it's so hard for a man to make love to a girl convincingly, when he's serious—and so dangerous, when he's not!

Sometimes, a "perfect lady" wonders if the primitive woman, who uses a flatiron or a rolling pin instead of logic in an argument with her husband, hasn't a deeper and keener knowledge of the masculine nature, after all.

The male brain has been found to average seven per cent heavier than the female brain. Which is probably why it moves so much more slowly—especially toward the altar.

Many a man goes to his grave wondering whether he captured the woman he married—or merely capitulated to her.

A good husband is, sometimes, merely one who is too busy making money to pay off the bills his wife runs up, to waste the energy and effort it requires to be a sinner.

After a man has spent an hour inventing a wife-proof excuse for staying out late, it positively aggrieves him to go home and find the Little Woman too sleepy to be curious about it.

At 20, a man's idea of success in love appears to consist, not so much in getting the girl he wants, as in getting the girl that some other fellow wants.

* * *

A sensational novel used to be one in which the heroine's "past" was painted in vivid colors; but, nowadays, you can paint almost any girl's present in its natural hues and get a luridly interesting effect.

The modern girl's chief objection to the "gay deceiver" is that it takes so much of her time, tact and energy to help him deceive himself.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

There is a reason for the popularity of rouge. Modern life, being strenuous, has taken the roses from the cheeks of woman. Few girls have luscious natural blushes. We know more about balanced diets and hygiene habits than did our grandmothers, but we don't get as much sleep. Time was when every belle had her beauty nap in the afternoon. Fancy that!

Miss Beauty Reader, have you a "line"? If you have, watch out. Other people get wise to lines. Many girls have them. Those who make it a point to be the life of the party, those who tell the long, endless story of the latest movie, those who rave about a celebrity, those who talk clothes and nothing else. All weary their listeners. So does the mother who yodels about her children, the idiot who talks baby talk to her dog, the femme who has been to Europe and wants everybody to know it, the lovesick damsel who drones about her sweetie. Lines are a bore.

As long as chimneys pour forth atmospheric filth, soap and water will be found necessary for the health and beauty of the complexion. Cold cream will act as a cleanser, but it never imparts that look of dewy freshness that comes after a rousing old facial tubbing. If an application of cream follows the sudsy renovating, the epidermis will not feel starched or stretched. Put on the emollient at night and remove with cold water in the morning.

Health of body, spirit and mind are the foundations upon which the temple of beauty is built. If you haven't them, there will be external evidences that the mirror will reveal. Many beauty ills are the direct results of impaired physical conditions or unwholesome mental attitudes. Learning how to live splendidly and happily should be the ambition of every woman. Education along this line calls for reflection and the creating of a good working philosophy.

He thought:

"You're most attractive to look at, but a hint of 'B. O.' spoils your charm."

Yet, to be polite,

He said:

"Sorry I can't join you . . . it's so hot I'm going for a swim."

"Pretty as a picture"... but 'B.O.' (Body Odor)

and summer heat kept admirers away

MONDAY — they met. Tuesday — a date. Wednesday—their romance was over. True, it was scorching weather. But that didn't excuse . . . body odor. And in a girl who looked so exquisitely dainty!

Naturally people hesitate to mention such a personal matter, even under the polite term —"B.O." But finally a friend, an older woman, plucked up courage to tell her and suggest an easy way to avoid offending . . . What a difference it has made! Now she wins friends and keeps them—has "dates" galore. "B. O." and unpopularity are banished forever.

Perspiration can be kept odorless

Even on sultriest summer days when we perspire most, there's no need for even a trace of "B. O." But here's the thing to remember. Don't simply trust to luck that you won't offend. We never know when we do. We quickly become accustomed to an ever-present odor and don't notice "B. O." in ourselves. But others do—instantly!

Play safe. Adopt the delightful safeguard used by millions of particular men and women. Wash and bathe with Lifebuoy. Lathers abundantly—even in hardest water. Rich, creamy, antiseptic lather that purifies pores—removes every trace of "B. O."

New complexion beauty

Work Lifebuoy's bland, creamy, deep-cleansing lather well into the skin. It's the finest kind of a "facial". Gently frees pores of clogged impurities—freshens dull skins—promotes radiant healthy beauty. Its pleasant, extra-clean scent—that vanishes as you rinse—tells you Lifebuoy purifies! Adopt Lifebuoy today.

CHURCH PARADE IN BUDAPEST

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Aug. 21.—(AP.)—The traditional procession in honor of St. Stephen took place through the center of the city, with many Americans and thousands of other visitors looking on.

Led by the papal legate, with hundreds of nuns and monks in white surplices marching to the accompaniment of religious hymns by numerous bands, the procession was a brilliant spectacle. Cardinal Sincero and six other cardinals took part, as did many Knights of the Order of Malta.

Among the speakers at parliamentary observances were the regent, Admiral Nicholas Horthy and the prime minister, Count Stephen Bethlen.

All of the bells in Budapest rang through the three hours of the celebration.

PENNSYLVANIAN IN INDIAN POST

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—(AP.)—The task of educating the Indian away from the reservation and into the ranks of steady job holders has been given to Dr. W. Carson Ryan, Jr., professor of education at Swarthmore College in Pennsylvania.

Dr. Ryan is expected to play a major part in the announced policy of the Indian Bureau of making the Indians self-supporting.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

How to Keep Grapefruit Fresh.

DR. COPELAND

Everyone should cultivate a taste for the citrus fruits. They are good for the health. They increase vigor and stimulate the bodily functions.

Grapefruit, or "pomelo," or "Shaddock," as it is called in some parts of the world, is member of the citrus family. Its smooth, yellow rind makes it attractive to the eye. Its peculiar, stimulating flavor and its slightly bitter taste make a real appeal to those who have cultivated a taste for it.

The citrus fruits, especially oranges, grapefruit and lemons, are exceedingly valuable foods for everyone. They give us the very essential vitamins A and B. They are rich also in vitamin C. Certain valuable mineral salts necessary to growth are in them. Also we find some cane and invert sugars, which vary in quantity from one to 10 per cent.

They contain considerable amounts of acid, although not as much as lemons do. They possess citric and phosphoric acids, with a trace of malic acid.

The fruit acids are not to be dreaded because they do not turn the system acid. They are eliminated from the body as alkalies and really serve to overcome what is commonly called "acidity."

Grapefruit was native to China and other parts of Asia. It is grown in the West Indies, as well as in Oriental tropical countries. The fruit is comparatively new to the United States.

The citrus fruits industry in this country has made rapid strides in the past few years. Florida and California produce the largest quantity. Even in very dry sections these fruits are produced, irrigation providing the necessary moisture.

The Bureau of Plant Industry has for several years given particular attention to the propagation of citrus fruits. New methods have been worked out for improving all of them.

There is great advantage in knowing how to handle grapefruit. In the home and in the retail store they have to be kept in a cool and dry place. They may be kept for several weeks under the proper conditions, which is a much longer time than most fresh fruits picked ripe from the trees will last.

If there shows any sign of decay, and grapefruit is apt to be attacked by blue mold rot under some conditions the fruit so affected should be taken out and discarded at once. Such decay is very rapid in the ordinary temperature, two or three days being a sufficient time for it to appear.

Child Terribly Troubled With Eczema. Healed by Cuticura.

"About a year ago my little son was terribly troubled with eczema. The eruptions came in small pimple form, and gradually spread over his body and limbs. The itching and burning often kept him from sleeping and made him fretful. The trouble lasted six or seven months. "I tried other remedies but the trouble kept getting worse. I sent for a free sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and after several applications I noticed an improvement. I purchased more and in two months he was completely healed." (Signed) Mrs. A. F. Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Difficult to Manage Foods

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. Please tell me how to eat lobster?

2. Also how to eat pickles, such as mustard pickles and sweet pickles when they get mixed with gravy or other food? Also pickles served in dices, sliced lengthwise?

3. Will you please tell me also how to eat artichokes?

H. S. J.

1. From the "main body" of the lobster remove as much of the meat as is possible, using the convenient oyster fork or any other kind of small fork. Eat this as you would meat, cutting off one piece at a time and eating it before you cut the next piece. Then take the meat from the claws — the claws should be cracked, fully cracked, so that you will be able to take the meat from them conveniently—and eat this meat as you did the other part. The sauce, Hollandaise or butter sauce, will be served on the side of the plate, and in this you may dip the mouthful of the lobster before you eat it.

2. Whenever possible we should eat pickles as we do other moist foods, with the fork or with the knife and fork.

3. Break off one leaf at a time, dip this in the sauce that is served with the artichoke—butter sauce of Hollandaise—eat the part toward the bottom, the lighter part, drawing it against the teeth. Then put the rest of the leaf on the plate. Then, when you arrive at the bottom piece—and it is one of the best food delicacies—eat this with your fork.

Afternoon Wedding

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Could you kindly give me information on a late September wedding? I am going to be matron of honor and wear a sea green velvet crepe gown. It is going to be a church wedding at 5 p. m. I am going to wear silver shoes and stockings. The only ornament on the dress is a rhinestone buckle. Would it be proper to wear a hat or just a hair ornament? If a hat, what shade and material? Felt or velvet or straw? ANXIOUS.

For a 5 o'clock wedding the bridal attendants usually wear hats, and I strongly advise that you wear a hat, for it adds to the completeness of the costume and is much more effective than a bandeau. For a late September wedding by all means have your hat of velvet—a large, picturesque hat is lovely in a wedding picture. Have it of the same shade as your dress or of a harmonizing shade.

Office Etiquette

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. Please tell me if it is correct form for a stenographer to remain sitting in her chair when an officer of the company from out of town comes in and shakes hands with her, or should she rise and shake hands with him?

2. Is it not customary for friends and acquaintances to call first on a bride and groom after their return from a trip?

E. H.

1. She need not rise.
2. Yes.

SAVED OPERATION FOR THIS LADY

She Gives All Credit To World's Tonic.

"I had such terrible pains in my stomach that I had about made arrangements to be operated on for gallstones, when one of my neighbors insisted before I went under the knife I should try a new remedy she had heard about," said Mrs. F. Hartsky, of 15 W. Lorain Street, Sharon, Pa., to an interviewer recently. "I had been sick a long time and my stomach grew worse after I had the flu. My skin was getting so yellow that people insisted that I must have gall trouble. The pains were so acute I nearly fainted several times, and my husband declared I must go to the hospital to be operated on. I had a good deal of trouble with my liver also. In fact, most of my weakness seemed to come from bilious attacks, which were followed by these sharp pains. I had to take different kinds of medicines in order to get my bowels to move. If I ate any solid foods I would often throw them up. My breath was very bad from catarrh, and I had gas on my stomach all the time.

"When my neighbor urged me to take this new medicine I started on it more to please her than anything else, for I thought only an operation could save my life. But I was greatly astonished to see how much better I felt about the fourth day. My liver got to working better, and my bowels were moving freely, so that the pain was lessened. This new remedy is different from other medicines. I heard it is brought from different parts of the world. I seemed to be getting results very quickly. Inside of a week I was a lot better, and in two weeks I knew I would not have to be cut up. Three bottles of this new World's Tonic had saved me great suffering, a big hospital bill, and possible death! Maybe you think I wasn't happy! My husband says he thinks World's Tonic the most wonderful medicine he ever heard of as it acted like a miracle in my case. It relieved him of a bad case of constipation, too. Our happiness is due to that great remedy."

World's Tonic can be obtained at Dow's, May's & Liggett's, Mayflower, or any other first-class drug store. (A-100)

Report Ludendorff Suing for Divorce

BERLIN, Aug. 21.—(AP.)—The Jewish Telegraphic Agency said today that Gen. Erich Ludendorff, former German imperial army chief, had filed suit for divorce. The agency said friends had made him realize his wife had foisted upon him a theory that Jews and Masons were plotting against the lives of noted Germans.

Madame Ludendorff, once a psychiatrist, now is editor of the Ludendorf organ, "Wochenschau," which has been vigorously anti-Semitic in tone.

WHEELING JAIL ESCAPE FAILS

WHEELING, W. Va., Aug. 21.—(AP.)—Sheriff Ambrose Habig last night announced five prisoners were frustrated in an attempt to escape from the Ohio County jail and that they were in solitary confinement. Sheriff Habig named J. D. Peterson, McKeesport, Pa., as the ringleader of the plot.

The prisoners had tunneled through a chimney in the rear of the jail with iron bars and had intended to escape through an air vent, the sheriff said. He said a prisoner had given warning of the plot.

Peterson is held in default of $10,000 bond in connection with a wholesale cigaret robbery here. Others Habig said were implicated in the plot were Charles Clark, serving one year for highway robbery; Ben L. Frazier, held on a national motor vehicle act charge; Dominick Humandez, serving nine months for carrying weapons, and Rax Headley, parole violator charged with stealing a taxicab.

Dynamite Plant To Be Constructed

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Aug. 21.—Burton Explosives, Inc., has purchased a 400-acre site at Coverts Station, west of the city, to construct an up-to-date dynamite manufacturing plant.

The site is that abandoned about two years ago by the Grasselle Chemical Company. It is planned to construct a plant capable of manufacturing 16,000,000 pounds of dynamite each year and to employ a considerable number of men the year round.

DEAF HEAR THRU VIBRATIONS

Science has discovered a way of gently massaging the tight bones, tense muscles and ofgans of the inner ear by utilizing sound waves, reducing head noises, improving hearing and often restoring it to normal. A simple little silver device, hardly visible, fits into the ear. No batteries, wires or head bands. No excessive amplification. The Vibraphone Co., Station 992, Central National Bank Bldg., St. Louis, Mo., will send details free.—Advertisement.

"WILL ALWAYS BE A BOOSTER FOR KONJOLA"

Pittsburgh Resident Tells How New Medicine Put An End To Years of Neuritis

What cheerful news this is for all who suffer from neuritis, and who may fear that they never will find relief from this most distressing ailment.

MR. J. E. CHAMBERS

Take the experience of Mr. J. E. Chambers, 3830 Perrysville avenue, Pittsburgh, and then hear all about this modern medicine from the Konjola Man at the Dow drug store, Penn avenue and Sixth street, Pittsburgh. Read the words of Mr. Chambers, who said to the Konjola Man:

"Neuritis in my arms and shoulders caused misery for the past two years. My work is outdoors, and I am exposed to all kinds of weather. I tried many medicines that were highly recommended, but could find no relief. Friends advised me to give Konjola a trial, and this I did. To date I have used six bottles, and with the first two came signs of relief. As I continued with the treatment all my pains disappeared, and my bowels were regulated. I highly recommend Konjola to anyone who suffers as I did, and I will always be a booster for Konjola."

So it goes; victory after victory when Konjola is given a chance to show why seven million bottles of this amazing medicine were used in two years. Konjola is a medicine of the aged or the infant; for all the family. That is why Konjola is a household word in tens of thousands of American homes.

The Konjola Man is at the Dow drug store, Penn avenue and Sixth street, Pittsburgh, where daily he is meeting the public.

HIT-RUN AUTOIST ESCAPES IN CHASE

SIDE WALKS of PITTSBURGH

by WILLIAM PFARR

Mr. McIntyre is right as right when he contends that the typical columnist erroneously feels that the readers are interested in his every personal move. Why, pray, should the reader be delighted to hear that the columnist had two orders of orange juice for breakfast and met Mike Bump in the lobby of the William Penn? Such reporting smacks of provincialism, and it is only our fear of being thus accused which restrains us from announcing that in the newspapermen's tournament over the Edgewood course a few days ago, William Pfarr soundly trounced Paul Bower, the artist, nine up, eight to go.

We have a reliable report that a certain house-to-house salesman is seeking an introduction to Assemblyman M. A. Musmanno. He wants Mr. Musmanno to introduce into the Legislature one bill to eliminate hedges from the front of houses and another bill which would force housekeepers to install bells on their doors. Now to canvassing, he complains that the hedges are so high that he cannot step over them directly to the door, but must walk those extra steps up the conventional walk. His knuckles he exhibits as evidence that all doors are not bell-equipped. And he is indignant because he must bruise the joints of his fingers rapping on doors to attract unsuspecting housekeepers.

He has been surprised at the satisfactory welcome he receives. He took up his duties with the impression that doors would be slammed ungently in his face. To date, only two doors have been closed on him. He gives the credit to President Hoover.

Harry Roth, house detective at the William Penn Hotel, was driving to Scottdale recently to attend the party which Mr. T. W. Dawson gives at his summer home for employes of the hotel. Near Scottdale, Roth asked an innocent bystander for road directions to, as Roth put it "Dawson's place." An hour later Roth found himself, miles from the party, in Dawson, Pa.

A well-built specimen of possibly 250 pounds is dexterous Harry Ross, Wilkinsburg fireman. With a friend, he was driving along William Penn highway when a tire blew out. Missing from the tool kit was the jack to raise the car. With little ceremony, Ross lifted the rear end of the machine with his strong hands and held it hoisted until his friend had repaired the blowout.

Charles Doyle, financial secretary of the Knights of Columbus, happened to be talking with the ticket-taker at the Saturday night dance of the Brentwood volunteer firemen.

"What's the satchel for?" Doyle asked.

"Neckties," the ticket-taker explained. "You see some of the boys hurry to the dance without neckties and I supply 'em as they come in. We have 17 ties out tonight."

To the Editor of the Sun-Telegraph:

Charley Dawes goes to Spain to study "neolithic" people. That's his hobby, studying odd creatures. He gave up all business and all governmental interests for four years just for a reserved seat to study 96 of America's most prehistoric men. Then he went to London to study "odd" women, whose sole ambition in life was to get their daughters presented at court. So Spain will have to go some to show Charley anything. Another drawing card entered the heavyweight contender class today. Sister McPherson versus Sister Kennedy.

W. HOMESTEAD PETITIONS TO JOIN CITY

Judge Orders Signers To Ask Council to Pass Necessary Ordinance

The first step to annex West Homestead to Pittsburgh was taken today when Attorney Ralph Smith, representing 200 West Homestead voters, presented a petition to Judge Harry H. Rowand in the Quarter Sessions Court which set forth the desire of over five per cent of the voters to become part of the city.

Judge Rowland ordered the signers of the petition to have the city council pass a consent ordinance which must be approved by Mayor Charles H. Kline.

The judge will then set a date on which a special election will be held to determine whether West Homestead wishes to enter the city or not.

Since the Hays Borough annexation at the last election, West Homestead has been contingent to Pittsburgh. At that time there was much agitation over the question of annexation and finally enough petitioners have been brought together to constitute the five per cent necessary to present the petition.

WALKERS GIVEN RIGHT OF WAY

John M. Rice, chairman of the street facilities section of the Better Traffic Committee, told the city traffic squad at a meeting today that the pedestrian has the absolute right of way over the motorist at non-controlled intersections.

Analysis of the 1,190 traffic fatalities in Pittsburgh during the past seven years, as given by records of County Coroner W. J. McGregor, shows that if the right of way had been granted the 289 pedestrians by motorists these fatalities would have been avoided, Lewis W. McIntyre, city traffic engineer, pointed out.

BANKRUPT SUIT ON GEM FIRM

An involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed in Federal Court against Max and A. J. Friedman, wholesale jewelers, trading as Friedman Brothers, 812 Penn avenue. The petitioners were Schelberg and Bachman, Jack Snyder and the Peerless Silver Company, all of New York, whose aggregate claims totaled $522.

City detectives and fire officials have under investigation an alleged plot on the property of the jewelry firm, and Max Friedman is under $10,000 bond pending the outcome. The investigation started after Eddie Panner, Negro porter in a barber shop beneath the jewelry store, detected a strong odor of gasoline and notified the fire department.

U. S. Order Forms On Display Here

More than 1,000 forms to be filled out by concerns bidding on supplies for the United States Government have been placed on display in the Chamber of Commerce, with a view toward encouraging Pittsburgh manufacturers to submit prices on goods to be used in 1931.

The forms were obtained from Washington by Frederick Marshall, manager of government affairs of the chamber, and cover the supplies that will be used by the Army and Navy and virtually every other department of the government.

Sleeps in Doorway After Work; Robbed

Paul Jones, of 1010 Bedford avenue, arrived home from work late last night and sat down to rest on the front steps of his home. He fell asleep in the doorway. When he awoke an hour later he discovered thieves had stolen his watch and $3, he told police at the Center avenue station.

FISHER GREETS STATE LEGION AT CAPITAL

World War Veterans Open Convention; MacNider to Dedicate Memorial Bridge

HARRISBURG, Aug. 21.—The twelfth annual convention of the Pennsylvania American Legion and its auxiliary opened here today.

Before nearly 5,000 Legionnaires, Gov. John S. Fisher, Mayor Hoverter and Henry M. Gross, commander of Post 27 of Harrisburg, stood and welcomed the delegates to Harrisburg.

Acknowledgment of the welcome was made by State Commander Frank Pinola, retiring head of the Legion in the state.

CONGRESSMAN SPEAKS

Congressman John E. Rankin, active in the congressional battle for veterans' relief, addressed the legionnaires on that subject, while brief addresses were made by the Rev. Father George F. Kettell, Macedon, N. Y., national chaplain, and Lieut. Frank Schoble, national vice-commander.

Tomorrow the big feature of the celebration will be the dedication of the Soldiers and Sailors' Memorial Bridge at the rear of the Capitol, with Gov. Fisher presiding and the dedicatory address being made by Hanford MacNider, United States minister to Canada, and former national commander of the legion.

MacNider will arrive here by airplane.

As a part of the pre-convention activities, backers of four aspirants for state commander, for which nominations will be made Friday to be followed by the election Saturday, began campaigning for their favorites.

FOUR CANDIDATES

The four are: Ray E. Taylor, former commander of Harrisburg Post, No. 27, who was defeated last year by Frank Pinola; Charles I. Engard, three times commander of the Henry H. Houston Post, No. 3, in the Germantown district of Philadelphia; Leroy Deininger, Phoenixville, one-time commander of District 7, and Carl Tinstman, Johnstown, commander of the Twenty-fourth District.

The Rev. W. E. Swoope, Lebanon, was the first to make a bid for chaplain of the state department, a large banner in the hotel headquarters attesting "Swoope for chaplain, pep, punch and personality."

Legionnaires from Easton were busy advertising their city in an attempt to have Easton chosen as the place for the 1931 convention.

Steve's been sitting for 34 days now in a tree in front of his home, 1492 Charles street, in the New Homestead district. Oh, hum.

BOYS IN TREE 886 HOURS

"When we come down out of here, we'll have set a record that we think we can be proud of. It'll be a long time before it's broken, we think."

Thus spoke the four tree sitters of the East End today, after completing 886 hours in their trees in the rear of 631 Sickles street. The boys have been in the air for 37 full days and nights, and aim to establish a mark of 48 days.

They are Lawrence, James and Robert Gravely, and their cousin, Sammy King.

Another bicycle endurance contest was to start today with four Squirrel Hill youths attempting to shatter the existing records for non-stop cycling. The youths—Larry Rodgers, 14; Bads Rodgers, 11, and Ace Rodgers, of 6306 Beacon street, and James Stear, of 6306 Beacon street—will ride in relays day and night through the district in which they live.

KILLER OF BABY HELD INSANE

Mrs. Mary Prentice, of Steuben street, held in jail charged with the murder of her five-month-old baby, Mary Agnes, stabbed in the neck August 1, is insane, according to the findings of a lunacy commission appointed by Judge Harry H. Rowand, in Criminal Court.

The woman was recommended for treatment in a hospital for mental diseases in the report of Dr. C. H. Henninger and Dr. E. E. Mayer, who examined her. The doctors, in their findings, say she suffers from acute confusional insanity and hallucination of hearing.

PARKING QUIZ READY SOON

A questionnaire to determine attitude of members toward downtown parking problems, and the possible elimination of all street parking in the Triangle district, will soon be mailed by Lewis W. McIntyre, city traffic engineer and chairman of the traffic problems committee on the Pittsburgh Motor Club.

Other questions will determine if the club members prefer unlimited downtown parking, one-hour parking rigidly enforced, better off-street parking facilities such as wharves, if parking elimination would influence them to shop more at large or small stores, if shopping difficulties are mostly caused by congestion or delay in moving machines through streets. One question will determine if they come to town by auto, trolley, bus, taxi or on foot.

Wilkinsburg Lights Declared Illegal

Two electric traffic signal lights in Wilkinsburg have been found illegal by the Pittsburgh Motor Club and a request sent to Burgess W. M. Turner to make adjustments, it was announced today. The yellow light following red at Kelly avenue and Hay street was found to remain 10 seconds, while the signal at the corner of Kelly avenue and West street keeps the yellow following red for 11 seconds, a member of the club staff reported. The motor code provides a maximum of three seconds for this phase of three-color electric signals.

Boy Hurt by Auto Sues for $30,000

Both legs broken above the knees, and many body bruises, suffered when, he claims, he was knocked down by an automobile, have caused Joseph Stich, 12, minor son of Anthony Stich, of Castle Shannon, to file suit through his father, in Common Pleas Court, against Joseph A. Stanchak, driver of the automobile, for $30,000 damages. The accident occurred January 6 while the boy was crossing Library road.

Armed Pair Flees After Robbing Man

Two bandits robbed Joseph H. Meier, of 2124 East street, of $8 after confronting him with revolvers in Woods Run avenue early today. After obtaining the loot, the thugs leaped into a machine and sped in the direction of Riverview Park. Woods Run police under Lieut. Robert McIntosh, searched the park, but found no trace of the pair.

MILLER, NOTED COMPOSER, DIES

Albert P. Miller, widely known as the "Great Howard," Scottish ventriloquist, died yesterday at his home in Mt. Clemens, Mich. His last appearance in Pittsburgh was at the Davis Theater a few years ago. Until recently he was frequently heard over Station WWJ, Detroit.

Miller was well-known as a composer and song writer, many of his songs having gained great popularity in the United States and Canada. During the war he served as instructor in aviation at Selfrige Field, where eh wrote two of his song hits, "Somewhere in France Is Daddy," and "Long, Long Way From Home," a large part of the proceeds of these hits being given to the fund for Disabled Soldiers. His sister, Mrs. James W. Watkins, of 250 Shaler street, Mt. Washington, who left last week for Mt. Clemens, was at his bedside, with his family when he died.

$65,000 Damages Asked in Crash Suit

A price of $50,000 has been placed on the loss of her right eye by Mrs. Ella Engel, in a $65,000 damage suit on file today in Common Pleas Court. Her husband, Sigmund Engel, sued for $10,000, and her son, Edward, for $5,000. The defendant is Alexander Laughlin, of New Alexandria, Westmoreland County, whose automobile is alleged to have crashed into the Engle automobile in Highland Park July 6, injuring all of the occupants.

WRECKS CAR OF PURSUER ON BRIDGE

Three Drivers Vainly Follow Motorist Who Speeds on After Striking Newsboy

A hit-run motorist who sped away after striking a newsboy at Federal and Robinson streets early today was pursued for several miles by three other drivers who witnessed the accident. The chase led from the North Side to McKees Rocks. One of the three machines that took up the chase was wrecked in an attempt to halt the hit-run car on the Manchester bridge.

Walter Keefover, 17, of 1313 Federal street, was injured by the machine as he stepped from the curb in Federal street at Robinson street. After being treated for severe bruises at the Allegheny General Hospital, he was taken home. P. A. Herron, of 404 City-County Building; Philip Finkelstein, of Colwell street, and Harry C. Hamilton, of 1608 Brighton road, sped after the hit-run motorist.

Herron was outdistanced on Ridge avenue. Finkelstein and Hamilton followed onto the Manchester Bridge, where Finkelstein attempted to stop the driver by getting in front of him. Finkelstein's car was wrecked, and the hit-run driver went on. Hamilton followed into McKees Rocks, where he ran out of gasoline. Hamilton gave the license number of the car to police.

CRASH FATAL TO CYCLIST

Michael Gross, Jr., 20, of 605 Suismon street, died early today in the Allegheny General Hospital from a fractured skull suffered when a motorcycle on which he was riding crashed into a building at East and Shawano streets last night, according to a morgue report. Gross, who borrowed the motorcycle from a neighbor only a few minutes before, lost control while making a turn, it was reported.

Salcuer Boegeman, 24, of 507 Ormsby avenue, was seriously injured this morning when an automobile he was driving overturned in the Saw Mill Run boulevard. According to police, a tire on the machine blew out. At the hospital it was said he suffered a crushed chest. A passing motorist dragged Boeggeman from beneath the wreckage. A relative of the injured man who also was riding in the car escaped uninjured.

Speaker Sees Pittsburgh As Heart of U. S.

Due to its location, in a valley between two mountain ranges, Pittsburgh is destined to become the very heart of the United States, D. N. Hoover, supervising inspector general of the United States Steamboat Inspection Service, told the Propeller Club of the United States Port of Pittsburgh at its luncheon in the Keystone Athletic Club yesterday.

Forests which protect watersheds and at the same time control floods, are a part in the development of the three rivers here, he said. He urged the impounding of these streams so that the waters may be used in development of hydro-electric power and in times of drought for irrigation.

Verona Youth Saves Child From Death in River

While a score of persons stood on the banks of the Allegheny River at Verona late yesterday, 17-year-old Earl Currans, of 432 Penn street, Verona, plunged into the stream and rescued Helen Kratsas, 3, of 512 Penn street, who had fallen from a raft upon which she and several other children were playing. The child disappeared when she tumbled into the water, and Currans was forced to dive several times before he could locate her.

Doctors worked over the unconscious girl for half an hour before she was declared out of danger. She was taken to her home.

SURVEY SHOWS INCREASE IN HOME BUILDING HERE

CONSTRUCTION IN 19 MONTHS REVIEWED

Houses Worth $15,410,650 Erected in Period; Total For Half Year $3,996,550

An increase in the trend toward home-building and home-owning is seen in figures compiled by H. W. Correll, statistician of the Chamber of Commerce, which covers building activities in Pittsburgh for a period of 19 months. During this time the report shows valuation of all new buildings erected in the city totaled $36,937,384. For the first six months of 1930 the total was $7,280,930, while in July it was $800,950.

During the 19-month period there was invested in dwellings alone $15,410,650. For 1929 it was $10,903,500, and for the first six months of 1930 the figure was $3,996,550.

1929 BUILDING HEAVY

In 1929 alone there were built in Pittsburgh dwellings for 2,906 families. Of that number, 1,249 were single-family homes.

Additions and extensions made to property last year amounted to $2,916,092, with $1,437,925 for the first six months of 1930, and $120,945 for July this year—a total of $5,474,962 for the 19-month period. Alterations for the 19 months cost $5,847,247. Cost of altering structures last year alone amounted to $4,402,916; the first six months of 1930, $1,285,729; last month, $158,602.

WARDS SHOW GAINS

Twenty-four per cent of all the dwellings built last year were in the Fourteenth Ward. Other wards which made rapid strides in building were the Seventh, Nineteenth and Twenty-seventh.

In the use of materials in building, the Chamber statistician pointed out that there was a 65.7 per cent increase in the use of iron-clad buildings in 1929 over the previous year, these buildings being frame structures sheathed with steel. Use of brick veneer increased 19 per cent in 1929, reinforced concrete, 12.5 per cent, while frame dwellings only gained 7-10 of 1 per cent.

Wilkerson Heads Club Committee

Appointment of H. D. Wilkerson, commercial agent of the Norfolk and Western Railway, as chairman of the house committee of the Traffic Club of Pittsburgh, has been announced by A. L. Doggett, club president. The club is now making preparations for a series of winter social activities.

Downtown Blaze Ties Up Traffic

Traffic in the vicinity of Smithfield street and Strawberry way was halted for 15 minutes last night while firemen fought a blaze on the roof of Schmidt's shoe store, at 627 Smithfield street. Firemen said the damage was slight. The cause was undetermined.

Squirrel Hill Vacationists Robbed; $400 Ring Taken From Braddock Ave. Home

Police today were seeking thieves who, they reasoned, probably intend to open a speakeasy, following a robbery at the home of S. P. Casey, 5437 Beacon street, Squirrel Hill. The police report the thieves forced a rear window at the Casey home last night and stole a quantity of pre-prohibition liquor. Next they carted off two large mirrors valued at $200. The Caseys are away on their vacation.

Thieves also entered the home of A. W. Thompson at 427 Braddock avenue while members of the family were absent last night, stealing two clocks and a ring valued at $400. They forced a front window.

Louis Biglow, of 5116 Keystone street, reported to police that pickpockets stole his wallet, containing $20, and a note for $800 while he was standing at Liberty avenue and Sixth street last night.

Two armed robbers obtained $17 from Louis Wasserman, a Green cab driver, of 361 Melwood street, last night. They entered his cab at Sixth street and Penn avenue and upon reaching Anderson and Lacock streets, took his money at the point of a revolver.

The Camera Question Box

Today's question—Dean Inge, of London, advocates that persons condemned to death be allowed to carry out the death sentence in their own way—in other words, to commit suicide. What do you think of the plan?

MORRIS M. BERGER, attorney, Squirrel Hill—I do not approve. If we have capital punishment, the purpose of which is partially to deter crime, we must set up a means of execution which may frighten possible criminals. To allow the criminal to choose his exit into the next world would derogate from this purpose.

Morris M. Berger

MRS. ROBERT H. MARTIN, housewife, Carrick—I do not think it a good plan. In my opinion it would be harder for some persons to commit suicide than to go to the death chamber. It takes nerve either way. And what if the suicide would not be fatal?

Mrs. Martin

C. M. Krotzer

C. M. KROTZER, Western Union ticker man, Swissvale—Such an arrangement would be an incentive for others to commit crime and a lot of criminals reach the point where they're ready to commit suicide anyway.

J. M. Hughes

J. M. HUGHES, radio program director, Oakland—I think the plan is a good one. Electrocution is severe and, as long as the ends of justice are met, why should the death be a horrible one?

Mrs. Uzelac

MRS. EDNA UZELAC, housewife, Brentwood—I think that plan ought to work very well. It would be easier for most people to bring about their own death rather than meet it in the chair, and criminals condemned to death must die anyway. What difference how they die?

J. Miller.

J. MILLER, song writer, East End—It's a good one. I'm opposed to the execution of criminals. There are so many reasons for crime and so many accused people are really innocent that it doesn't fit all cases.

WATKINS FIRM IN BABY MIXUP

CHICAGO, Aug. 21.—(INS)—The Bamberger - Watkins baby mixup appeared no nearer a solution today than it did a month ago, as William Watkins, father of one of the boys, pressed his court fight to get legal decision on the babies' parentage.

The infants were returned to their scientifically-proved mothers Tuesday night without the knowledge of Watkins, who has filed a $100,000 damage suit against Englewood Hospital, where the infants were born and allegedly became switched.

Merely changing the babies from one home to the other, Watkins pointed out, does not settle their identity.

STATE LEGION CONVENES

data gathered by the World War records bureau of the adjutant general's office. They list the wartime accomplishments of 331,064 Pennsylvanians who served in the Army, 41,081 in the Navy, 6,373 Marines, and 3,492 who served with Allied armies. By the time records have been added of Pennsylvanians who enlisted from other states, it is expected the total will reach 400,000.

Research completed only this week shows 11,298 Pennsylvanians died in service during the World War and that the casualty list touched homes in every county in the state. The number of Pennsylvania veterans who died in service is second only to New York in numbers and forms approximately eight per cent of the total death roll of Americans in the war.

Twenty-nine of those who died in service were women serving as Army nurses. Only eight of them died overseas, however, 21 dying in cantonments on this side of the ocean.

Including the nurses and men serving with the Army and Marines, 8,097 Pennsylvanians died in service with the American Expeditionary Force, and 2,533 died with troops in the states. The balance, 605, died while serving with the Navy during the war.

5,960 'GO WEST'

The actual "battle deaths," however, claimed only 5,960 Pennsylvanians. They included 4,334 killed in action and 1,626 who died from wounds.

The other deaths in service which brought the total to 11,298 were 4,104 who died of disease, 463 who died accidentally, 106 from other causes, 63 officers of the Navy and 602 enlisted men in the Navy. Navy records do not give the cause or circumstances of death.

The Army casualty list included 410 officers and 9,942 enlisted men from Pennsylvania. In the Marines, 14 officers and 237 enlisted men from this state lost their lives during the war.

Although records of more than 382,000 veterans have been compiled only four from Pennsylvania were executed after court martial for violating the articles of war. They were one white and three Negro enlisted men in the Army. Only one of the quartette was court martialed overseas.

How the records of the state's World War veterans will be placed in the Memorial Bridge has not been decided, and will await action by the 1931 Legislature.

The World War Records Bureau this week for the first time compiled deaths of veterans by counties.

ALLEGHENY'S SACRIFICE

The toll of those from Allegheny County who died in service during the war was 1,527. That was the highest of any county except Philadelphia, where the toll was 2,569.

The Allegheny County casualties included 1,274 whites and 52 colored enlisted men and 77 officers of the Army; three Army nurses; 57 enlisted men and four officers in the Marines; 56 enlisted men and four officers in the Navy.

Every county in the state gave some of her native sons to the cause during the war. The number of deaths in service from Western Pennsylvania counties included: Armstrong, 101; Beaver, 132; Blair, 132; Butler, 73; Cambria, 228; Cameron, 13; Clarion, 56; Clearfield, 149; Crawford, 90; Elk, 68; Erie, 202; Fayette, 204; Forest, 13; Greene, 46; Indiana, 105; Jefferson, 78; Lawrence, 92; McKean, 73; Mercer, 120; Potter, 35; Somerset, 101; Venango, 104; Warren, 54; Washington, 207; Westmoreland, 355.

DUMP WANTED AS PLAY SITE

A neighborhood committee will ask the city today to set aside a refuse lot at Venial and Voskamp streets, South Side, for a playground for small children.

Daily, scores of children in the congested area can be seen making playthings of old dump wagons and other rubbish the city has deposited there. Several children have been slightly injured from falls on the brick that litters the lot.

The property was seized by the city recently in default of the payment of taxes.

ETNA ELKS PLAN FUND DRIVE

Members of the board of governors of Etna Lodge No. 932, B. P. O. Elks, at a conference yesterday decided to inaugurate a campaign among members for $100,000 which will be used to retire the bulk of indebtedness of the new building acquired last September, at a cost of $160,000.

L. A. Donaldson, exalted ruler, said that under present arrangements it would require 20 years to retire the debt, of which $60,000 has been paid. Under the plan now being considered, this can be accomplished in five years.

Besides Mr. Donaldson, officers are G. S. McCully, esteemed leading knight; H. T. Harwood, esteemed loyal knight; John M. Morton, esteemed lecturing knight; A. E. Waldfogle, secretary; E. B. W. Pfischer, treasurer; Charles Laber, Harry Perry and E. W. Beuhler, trustees. Members of the board of governors are Roy S. Morton, chairman; Mr. Waldfogle, secretary; Martin Metzger, treasurer; W. C. Streiff, G. S. McCully, Charles Kay, Harry Eibel, O. J. Foden, A. A. Wenner, Harry Depp and J. W. Evans.

SAFETY MEET HEADS NAMED

The complete personnel of the committees in charge of the nineteenth annual Safety Congress to be held in Pittsburgh September 29 to October 3 was announced by Walter Rosenbaum, chairman of the safety education week committee of the congress.

The group consists of 13 subcommittees. H. L. Mitchell, of the West Penn Railway Company, will act as Rosenbaum's assistant. Committees named are:

Congress posters, J. A. Oartel, Carnegie Steel Company; city decorations, P. H. McCance, Philadelphia Company; armbands, tire covers and inter-fleet contest, W. M. Dickson, Bell Telephone Company; railroad and street stencils, F. H. Babcock, Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad; window displays, F. C. Schatz, Joseph Horne Company; school children's activities, R. M. Sherrard, Pittsburgh public schools; better traffic committee, A. M. Lee; fire prevention committee, O. C. Colwes, Shipley Massingham Company; industrial plant committee, E. F. Harris, Mesta Machine Company; mining committee, Francis Feehan, U. S. Bureau of Mines; miscellaneous activities committee, A. P. Huckestein, Department of Labor and Industry.

NEW TYPE BOAT DOCKS HERE

A new type of river boat, the Sunco A-4, and its tow of six barges is docked at the Point. The craft has neither rudder nor stern wheel, but is propelled and steered by sets of paddles on each side, running on endless chains.

Powerful and fast, the boat is powered by two Westinghouse 80-horse power motors, supplied by two generator sets. Living quarters for 14 are provided, although the craft can be operated by three licensed operators. Capt. L. H. Middleton is in charge.

MAN FINED $50 IN RUM DEATH

Stanley Smith, alleged proprietor of the confectionery store on Manhattan street, where Charles Richards, 51, of 1811 Manhattan street, bought the liquor, which proved fatal, from 11-year-old Walter Krukles, apparently is not wanted by the homicide squad or the coroner's office in connection with Richards' death. He was taken before Magistrate J. J. Sweeney in the North Side Police Court this morning and ordered to pay $50 or spend 30 days in jail on a charge of keeping a disorderly house.

The Kruckles boy still is being held in the Juvenile Court.

PANIC IN COACH AS DISC TEARS UP FLOOR

Group Returning From Picnic Victims of Accident; Brought to Hospital Here

One woman was in the South Side Hospital and six other persons were nursing injuries suffered when a flywheel of a "twin" coach of the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company, broke loose and crashed through the flooring as the machine was moving in Library road, at West Library last night.

Thirty-six occupants, mostly women and children, returning from the Reick-McJunkin Dairy Company's picnic at Mineral Beach, became panic-stricken when the wheel tore itself loose from the engine beneath the center of the floor and crashed through. Windows were shattered by some of the passengers in their efforts to leave the coach.

The most seriously injured, according to physicians at the South Side Hospital, where the victims were treated, was Mrs. Agnes Altenbaugh, 53, of 3918 Penn avenue. She suffered injuries about the head and bruises. Her husband, Jacob, 57, also hurt about the head, was permitted to go home.

Others treated at the hospital and sent home were Mrs. Lawrence Kohler, 25, and her son, Lawrence, Jr., 3, of 2917 Woolslayer way; Eleanor Williams, 12, of 3916 Woolslayer way, Mrs. Sadie Kennedy, 29, of 5341 Rosetta street, and Bruce Fuscallo, 6, of 5318 Rosetta street.

John Sheehe, driver of the bus, uninjured, said the flywheel broke loose just as he had crossed the interurban car tracks.

The bus is called a "twin" because of its two motors, which are directly in the center under the flooring.

Four Structures Damaged As Fire Starting In Small Shack Spreads

A child was rescued from flames which swept four buildings at Fraser and Ward streets late yesterday. The girl, Adelaide Rosenthal, overcome by smoke, was carried from the second floor of her home by 17-year-old Bud Glenn, 3221 Gorman place. His hand was cut by glass when he sounded the first alarm.

Confectionery stores owned by Bill Welsh, 3400 Fraser street, and Bertha Friedlander, 3402 Fraser street; a barber shop owned by Sam Rosenthal, 3404 Fraser street, and a three-story frame dwelling owned by A. Cohen, 3406 Fraser street, were damaged by the flames, which started in a small shack in the rear of Friedlander's store.

Deputy Fire Chief Frank Jones estimated the damage at $8,000.

WELFARE FUND AIDES ORGANIZE

Large corporations and business firms in Pittsburgh already are organized for the Welfare Fund campaign in November, according to reports of district chairmen of the employe division, who held a luncheon meeting at the Duquesne Club today.

All units of the U. S. Steel Corporation in Pittsburgh plan to participate in the campaign. Plant captains have already been appointed. Westinghouse Electric, H. J. Heinz, Pennsylvania R. R., Bell Telephone, National Tube Co., Koppers Co., and Gulf Refining Co., are a few of the larger corporations already organized.

Among the Pittsburgh department stores, Joseph Horne, Kaufmann, Boggs and Buhl, Gimbel Bros., and Rosenbaum are organized for the campaign. This year with many out of work, corporations and business organizations feel an added responsibility to support the Welfare Fund which provides relief for many of these families.

The district chairmen who are giving their services to the Welfare Fund in this year's campaign are A. E. Oxenreiter, Geo. S. Ebert, R. E. Cook, B. D. Quarrie, F. J. Kress, Carl Pierce, Joseph Miller, William Bradford, and Dr. Bernstein. In addition to these there were present at today's meeting Augustus K. Oliver, president of the board of directors; G. G. Coolidge, member of the Board; F. J. Chesterman, in charge of the employe division; and Wilbur F. Maxwell, executive secretary of the Welfare Fund.

DISCUSS CITY'S AIR MAIL LINK

Pittsburgh's place on a transcontinental air mail and passenger service was being discussed today in Washington by a representative of the $4,000,000 merger that includes the Pittsburgh Airways, Inc.

With bids being opened Monday for the government contract on a proposed central route, J. D. Condon, president of the local company, and officers of the other firms composing the new United Aviation Company, Inc., met at the capital to discuss the bidding with government officials.

Besides the Pittsburgh Airways, the new firm includes the United States Airways, Ohio Air Transport Company and Southwest Air Fast Express. The combined equipment and personnel of the new firm places it in position to begin air mail transportation within 24 hours, it was announced.

While Condon becomes a vice president of the merged firms, other officers include Paul Wick, of Youngstown, as president; W. A. Letson, of the United States Line, vice president; Oliver M. Kaufmann, Pittsburgh, treasurer and Earl Halliburton, Southwest Line.

MAGYARS HERE TO ORGANIZE

Formation of a Magyar organization in Pittsburgh to become part of the National Federation of Hungarian Americans will be consummated Friday night in Homestead, when Hungarians will meet the Rev. John Ormay, of Buffalo, national organizer for the federation. The meeting, to be held in the rooms of the Hungarian Singing Society, 337 Fifth avenue, Homestead, will be under the direction of John Estu, of Hazelwood, president of the Pittsburgh district committee, and the Rev. Alexander Daroczy, of McKeesport, one of the committeemen.

The organization, with fraternal, national and philanthropic aims, has as its purposes the establishment of orphanages, the exchange of scholarships, the Americanization of immigrants and the protest against the Treaty of Trianon in regard to the division of their native Hungary.

Moonshine Found, Man Fined $100

Charged with conducting a disorderly place, Michael Leksick, of 507 Water street, was fined $100 by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg today in Central Police Court. Police testified they found a quantity of moonshine.

ASKS COURT AID TO GET CHILD

Having twice failed to get possession of his 13-year-old daughter from her grandfather, after making trips here from Detroit, Raymond R. Marshall, 8216 American avenue, Detroit, has asked for a writ of habeas corpus in Common Pleas Court that he may be given custody of his child. A hearing will be held tomorrow.

Marshall charges that George Priesendorfer, Sr., of 1113 Buente street, has custody of Cleo Rose Marshall, 13, and refuses to give her up. He says he was advised in June that the grandfather was willing to let him have the child, but when he arrived here the girl was not at the grandfather's home and could not be found. Again, August 18, he was told he could have the child, and when he went for it, was refused.

GIRL'S KIDNAP STORY QUIZZED

After being beaten by three men who, she said, attempted to drag her into a taxicab at Fifth and Wylie avenues early today, Miss Mathilda Stebelsky, 20, of 10 Brightridge street, was held in Morals Court on a charge of incorrigibility.

At her hearing this morning before Magistrate James J. O'Connor, police testified the girl reported a similar attack last week.

Miss Stebelsky, a waitress, was going home from work when the attack occurred. She told police the three men beat her severely in the struggle. Her clothes were torn and she was struck in the face several times. Her screams frightened the trio and they drove away.

U. S. MEN RAID 2 BEER PLANTS

The supply of wildcat beer on the North Side and in Ambridge was curtailed following raids by prohibition agents yesterday on two garages which housed the breweries.

In a garage in the rear of 944 Ridge avenue, the agents said they found 47 barrels of beer, a vat containing 1,000 gallons of the brew and 500 gallons of mash. The owner of the plant was being sought.

A combination moonshine plant and wildcat brewery was discovered, it was reported, in a raid on a garage at 638 Duss avenue, Ambridge. Confiscation of 5,000 pints of ale and 20 barrels of beer as well as the dumping of 500 gallons of mash, was reported. In another room of the garage a 100-gallon still was found.

Raids on the home of Mrs. Caroline Sinders, 32, on the Ruselton road, West Deer Township, netted the agents a 125-gallon still, and one of 75-gallon capacity in the home of Battista Gonella, 31, of 246 Freeport road, Glassmere.

GROUP TO PLAN FOR CONCERTS

Stanley P. Ashe, president of the Rotary Club, at a meeting yesterday, appointed a general committee to arrange for the two concerts to be given by the United States Marine Band in Syria Mosque September 11. The committee consists of Edward B. Lee, chairman; Edward T. Whiter, Robert H. Wilson, William B. Robinson, David I. McCahill, Royal S. Goldsbury, Louis J. Lind, Thomas Liggett, Jackson C. Dr. Helen Hathaway Fraser Marrying Iowan Today At Ben Avon Home

At the home of her father and mother, the Walter P. Frasers, of Ben Avon, with the garden ablaom with rhododendrons against a background of old oak trees, Dr. Helen Hathaway Fraser is becoming the bride of the Rev. Dr. Donald Kirkland West, of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, this afternoon at 4 o'clock. The bridegroom's father, the Rev. R. B. West, of Cedar Rapids, is officiating, assisted by the Rev. Ray Foote Purdy, of New York.

The bride is wearing ivory satin with cap sleeves and a veil of tulle and is carrying roses and lilies of the valley. Her sister, Dorothy Fraser, as maid of honor, is wearing turquoise blue chiffon with a picture hat to match, and the bridesmaids, Elizabeth West, of Germantown, Elizabeth Martin, of Eastern, Pa., Mrs. Victor C. Rambo, of Mungeli, India, and Mrs. Ferdinand Vogen, of Greensboro, Vt., are wearing pale peach chiffon gowns with garden hats to match, and are carrying Talisman roses and larkspur.

The Rev. James A. Laurie, of Rahway, N. J., is best man and the Rev. Irving West, of Harrisburg, Ill., Bruce West, of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, Frederick Williams, of Rahway, N. J., John H. Fraser, of Ben Avon, are ushers.

A wedding dinner and reception are to follow the ceremony. On September 5 the Wests will sail from San Francisco for Peiping, China. And this winter they'll study the Chinese language at Unnan, China.

The bride is a graduate of Wilson College and the Women's Medical College of Philadelphia, the bridegroom is a graduate of Coe College and attended the theological seminary at both Princeton and Oxford.

Dinner Party

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie H. Constans, of South St. Clair street, gave a family dinner in celebration of the eighty-ninth birthday anniversary of Mrs. Constans' mother, Mrs. Charles E. Locke. Among the guests was 2-year-old Virginia Avery Draughon, one of Mrs. Locke's three great-grandchildren, who is here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Avery Draughon, of Porto Rico, visiting the Constans family. Mrs. Draughon's mother, Mrs. Bernice Draughon, of Baton Rouge, is also a house guest.

There were flowers galore and messages literally from every quarter of the globe to make the day a gala one for the honor guest. Among these came greetings from every one of Mrs. Locke's eight grandchildren and the other great-grandchildren.

Miss Martha Elizabeth Hill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George M. Hill, of Indiana, Pa., became the bride of Cyril Clare Sarver, of Tarentum, Monday at noon in the home of the bride's parents with the Rev. Henry W. Burch, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Duquesne, as officiant.

The bride wore eggshell satin and carried a bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Geraldine Hill, as her sister's only attendant, appeared in a gown of orchid net and carried pink roses. Walter Sarver was his brother's best man. Ferns and flowers decorated the home for the ceremony, followed by a wedding dinner at Rustic Inn.

After a wedding trip in the East, including a visit at "The Birches," near Nashua, N. H., Mr. and Mrs. Sarver will be at home in Dubois.

Mr. Sarver is a graduate of the University of Pittsburgh.

FASHION'S SLEEVE HOLDS MANY SARTORIAL TRICKS

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Aug. 21.—We have to watch closely these days to see all the tricks that are coming out of fashion's sleeve. It is one of the most interesting phases of the current style show and each couturier seems to have an individual sartorial performance to offer. Various conceptions of the leg o' mutton sleeve are frequently seen particularly in the group of afternoon models that employ long sleeves. This style gives a quaint, feminine quality to the upper arm yet permits emphasis to the svelte, more sophisticated forearm which is tightly covered to the wrist. Again there may be a loose oversleeve extending to the elbow with a tight undersleeve to the wrist. In one such model of black satin the upper part of this undersleeve was cut out and strapped intricately with narrow bands of the silk for decorative effect. Other couturiers defer interest to elaborating the lower part of the sleeve, perhaps with a wide inset of lace or a flare of flat fur.

LUCILLE PARAY HAS adopted the latter theme in designing this interesting afternoon coat shown here. It is an excellent illustration of the intricate attention paid to the upper part of the garment for it is detailed with sleeves elaborately manipulated below the elbow and finished with cuffs of blue fox. And although the general line of the model is plain there is a neat bolero which adds a distinctive quality to this black cloth coat. There is also a huge shawl collar of the same fox, a type of collar that is found on many of the early fall coats.

BEING COGNIZANT of the approaching wardrobe need of every woman for a black daytime dress we are showing an exceedingly smart model here of black crepe marocain with white crepe collar and cuffs. The blouse is given a tightly fitted effect by means of darts at each side of the front. It is just such a frock as this that will make the between season wardrobe a delight.

OPPORTUNITY NOW FOR REDUCING NEXT WINTER'S FOOD BILLS

Sugar and Fruit are so Low in Price That Home Preserving is Most Profitable

Every housewife has the chance to "get ahead" financially next winter by putting up fruit now. Fruit is in abundance everywhere and sugar is at a "rock-bottom" price.

A little concentrated effort will result in a cupboard well stocked with canned fruits, jellies, jams and relishes from which one may draw freely throughout the winter months.

Since fruit belongs in the diet, and should appear in some form every meal, the economy of a home supply is readily apparent.

Menu planning is much easier when preserves, jellies, jams and relishes are within reach. Meats and fish are much more appetizing with a tart-sweet jelly or sweet pickle as an accompaniment. And there is nothing nicer than crackers, preserves and cheese for dessert. A bit of sweet makes the meal complete. The Sugar Institute.

New Fall Frocks

In Fabrics—in Lines—in Chic

$15.75

Cast off your tired, summer clothes and step into the most thrilling costumes in years — these dashing frocks for fall. So new the ink is scarcely dry proclaiming them the leading daytime fabrics:

Wool Crepe — Jacquard Crepe
Crepe Micropoint — Satin
Embroidered Jersey — Canton Crepe
Travel Prints

Chic in the way they tie on their boleros and belts (at the normal waist)—or puff their sleeves—or wear their buttons in debonair manner. And inexpensive, because—as the smart young woman invariably finds here—chic is emphatically not a matter of means.

The dress sketched is in Crepe Micropoint, a soft, new woolen, with dots woven in. Sizes 14 to 20, in

The New Restrained Use of Furs—Featured in August Sale of Cloth Coats

$55

"Elegance with restraint" is the order of the day. Coats are certainly not skimpy with their furs—but they use them well. It's newer, smarter and more practical if a coat

1. Omits fur on the cuffs when it's generous on the collar.
2. Uses fur on both in measured proportion.

The coat sketched avoids the bulkiness of an exceeding use of fur—efficiently combining cape, short shawl, pouch or softly rolling collar all in one! Persian lamb trims its suede-like cloth. Similarly, coats in this August Sale at $55 have the rich furs and fabrics that give today's required restraint and distinction—though they cannot be replaced later under $79.50, $89.50 and, in some instances, $110.

—Second Floor—

August Special

MUSKRAT

$135

The mode passes in review when you wear these coats. They are the silky-soft, dark muskrat skins that are enjoying a great vogue this year. And like precious furs, they achieve their elegance through great simplicity. August Sale priced at $135.

Other Muskrats $75 to $285.

Sketched is both a youthful and a conservative type. It achieves beauty through its gently curving hem flounce and cape-shawl collar of rich silver muskrat. Incidentally, this fur is noted for wear.

Linings are guaranteed two years

GIANTS BEAT CUBS IN THREE SERIES

IF THE PAST performances of the clubs in competition with each other during the 1930 season could be taken as an indication of what is going to happen in the present important series between the Cubs and Giants at Chicago the chances would appear to favor a wedge for New York and a consequent gain on the pennant leaders, when the four game engagement ends on Sunday afternoon.

For the figures covering four previous series between these rivals show a comfortable margin in favor of the McGrawites as they worsted Joe McCarthy's flag hunters in all but one of them. On their first visit to Chicago the Giants won three out of four games, and on their second they bagged two out of three, while in New York they captured three out of five contests in one series, losing the other set there, two games to one. It will be noticed that the ability of the New Yorkers to beat their Western formers has been particularly in evidence, strangely enough, on the Cubs' own grounds. Of the seven games played there the Bruins won only two.

Joe McCarthy

IN A TOTAL of 13 meetings prior to the present series the Giants scored 108 runs against 69 for the Cubs. Only one other club in the league has won the majority of its games with Chicago, the Reds having made the same record as the Giants against the 1929 champions, that is nine games won out of 13 played.

THE RECORDS OF the leading three clubs against one another present another of baseball's puzzles. Though losing nine out of 15 games to the Giants, the Cubs have slaughtered the Robins to the extent of 14 out of 18 and yet the Dodgers, while these results would indicate them to be the weakest of the three contenders, have beaten the Giants seemingly the strongest 10 times in 16 tilts.

WHEN THE ROBINS were playing in Chicago recently they were fighting the Cubs for first place. Record capacity crowds on all four days. In the meantime conditions have changed in such a way that the Giants, now appearing in the Windy City, are the present rivals of the Bruins for the leadership.

That means four more bumper gates and further assurance that William Wrigley, Jr., owner of the Cubs, will have no cause to complain about the financial side of the season, whether his club wins the pennant or not.

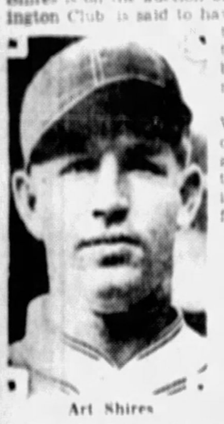
William Wrigley, Jr.

THE BRUINS SMASHED all National League attendance records last season and probably will set the new mark even higher this year. The recent Brooklyn series broke a record for attendance on four week days, drawing a total of 157,000 fans. The series included one day on which women were admitted free, but even at that the paid admissions totaled 129,000, according to statements made by officials of the Brooklyn club while the Robins were playing here a few days ago. There's nothing wrong with baseball interest as far as Chicago is concerned. It's a city that surely appreciates a winner.*

EVEN THE TAIL-END Phillies made a lot of money during their Chicago series just ended two double-headers during their five-day stay helping to bring out the fans in large numbers. Speaking of those two double-headers, the Cubs and Phils broke a record for time consumed in playing off a postponed game. They met three times and played 36 innings, or the equivalent of four full games, before it was cleared off the books.

The clubs tried to play it off as the second game of a double bill last Saturday, and it ended in an 11-inning tie. They made another attempt on Tuesday, in the second half of a bargain card, and again it resulted in a deadlock, this time in 16 innings. Finally they had to use an open date yesterday to decide it. The Phils made the Bruins do a lot of extra work and use up a flock of pitchers just before the tough Giant series, and then took the game from them into the bargain, when a win for Chicago would have enabled the Bruins to gain a full box score on the Giants while the latter were losing to the Cardinals.

ACCORDING TO A rumor from Washington the Great Art Shires is on the auction block. Clark Griffith, president of the Washington Club, is said to have sounded out the Detroit management on the matter of a trade for Shires, to be put through at the end of the season, only to be informed by Bucky Harris that he was not interested.



Art Shires

Griffith denies the rumor and says the Washington Club plans to use Shires in the outfield, as announced a couple of weeks ago, but from other sources it is reported that Art has failed to develop at a promising rate as a fly-catcher and probably will figure in a deal soon after the season closes.

THE PIRATES MAY yet have a chance to fight their way into the first division before the National League race ends if they continue to get the high-class pitching that is featuring their present drive, in which they have won nine of their last 12 games. Though the staff is short-handed and crippled, the Buc hurlers have been doing brilliant work. Remy Kremer's shut-out victory over the Braves, his seventeenth triumph of the season, was the second in succession turned in by a Corsair flinger, as Steve Swetonic blanked the Robins the preceding day. In the last 29 innings, the Pirates' opponents have scored in only three innings and made only three runs. Kremer has been scored on in only one of his last 18 innings.*

VISITING ATHLETES FROM all parts of the country, here to compete in the National championship track and field meet of the A. A. U. at the Stadium, are complaining that arrangements were not made whereby they would have been enabled to use that field for their preparatory workouts for one or two days before the big game.

Denied permission to work out at the Stadium, the visiting stars have been forced to do their limbering up on other fields, which they report are unfit for the purpose. They say that not only does this deprive them of a chance to adjust themselves to conditions at the Stadium, the conditions under which they must compete, with the result that their form may be affected, but that on unfit fields they are in danger of suffering turned ankles, pulled tendons or other injuries.

GALLANT FOX will never run another race in mud. That announcement comes officially from William Woodward, owner, and

Texas Gunner Wins Trap Shoot Title

VANDALIA, Aug. 21.—(AP.)—Three additional trapshooting champions were crowned in the third day's meet of the Grand American Handicap tournament here yesterday.

E. F. Woodward, Houston, Tex., won the "champion of champions" title in the race between state champions. Woodward broke 197 out of a possible 200 targets to tie with Ohio's title holder, H. F. Roberts, of East Fultonham. In the 25 target shootoff, Woodward had a perfect run, while Roberts missed once. Third place went to the champion of Indiana, Steve McCook, Jr., who finished with 196.

TENS TO START WOOD TODAY

VET CAPTURES MEDAL HONOR WITH 67

ORION, Mich., Aug. 21.—(AP.)—Reports of Walter Hagen's complete downfall from the ranks of golfdom's mighty appear to have been grossly exaggerated.

The one Royal Flush of the links names an important golf crown for the first time in 17 long years spiked those reports yesterday when he swept over the Indianwood Golf Club course with a dazzling record-smashing 67 five strokes under par to lead a field of 142 in the qualifying round of the Western open golf championship.

Not only was the total a course record, but it marked the second day in a row that the Haig toured the course in the 60s. He carded a 66 in practice Tuesday, but the score wasn't accepted as a record.

FARRELL SECOND

Sir Walter's great round gave him the lead by one stroke over another far-famed sixshot Johnny Farrell of New York, and a three-shot lead over Charles Guest, Detroit professional and present Southern California open champion, who finished third.

Hagen speared one eagle, three birdies and played all the remaining holes with one exception perfectly. His one bad hole came on the short thirteenth where his approach landed short and his eight-foot putt for a par three stuck on the lip of the cup and refused to sink. Hagen's eagle came on the first hole, a 460-yard stretch. A 30-foot down hill putt accomplished the trick.

STARS QUALIFY

The qualifying round staged for those who failed to place among the low scorers in the 1929 tournament, turned out to be something of a joker, except for Hagen's return to form. Out of the 142 who tried, 121 qualified by shooting 84's or better. Among the big shots who were not forced to qualify and who will open their first drives in today's first 18-hole round of the 72-hole medal fight for the title, were Tommy Armour, of Detroit, defending champion; Horton Smith and Gene Sarazen, of New York; Ed Dudley, of Wilmington, Del.; Jock Hutchison, Harry Hampton and Al Espinosa, Chicago professionals; Densmore Shute, Lima, O.; Henry Ciuci, Stratford, Conn., and Emmett French, Southern Pines, N. C.

Farrell, who, like Hagen, was forced to qualify because he did not compete last year, had rounds of 33 and 35 and led the field until Hagen posted his score among the final finishers. The former national open champion snared two birdies and one eagle.

Because of the big room for qualifiers, there were no upsets. Charles (Chick) Evans, Jr., of Chicago, former champion, qualified easily with a 74, as did Tony Manero, New York professional and runner-up in the recent St. Paul open, who tallied a 75.

Joe Bush Suffers Injury to Finger

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Aug. 21.—(AP.)—Bullet Joe Bush, former major league pitching star and now manager of the Allentown Eastern League club, will be out of the game for the rest of the season as a result of a badly split finger received in last night's game with Springfield.

Bush, playing right field, attempted to catch a short Texas Leaguer off the bat of Bill Hohman with his bare hand, tearing the nail off his small finger on the right hand and badly bruising the digit.

It is not known whether this Bill Smith was one of the famous outlaws of the early Western frontier days, nor is it known for whom the stone was erected. THE TELEGRAM OF 132,253 WORDS—At the time of the revision of the New Testament, a Chicago newspaper received a complete copy by wire from New York City.

DUNN BOXES JOEY THOMAS

By JAMES MILLER.

A victory over Johnny Dunn, of New Kensington, tonight in the 10-round main go at Hickey Park, Millvale, will assure Joey Thomas, veteran featherweight, of Chicago, a bout with Jackey Rodgers, Negro knockout star, at Hickey Park next week.

Johnny Dunn.

But if Dunn turns the tables on Thomas, then he will be given the shot. And nothing would please Johnny more than to get Rodgers back "in there." The pair have fought four times, and each holds two wins over the other. The first two fights were easy wins for Dunn, but the last affairs went to Rodgers. So with another bout with Rodgers at stake, Dunn will be after Thomas with hammer and tongs.

Rodgers claimed he injured his knee and could not go through with the Thomas fight tonight, but promised that he would meet the winner.

The semi-final, an eight-rounder, finds Al Becker, Sheraden Carpentier-fighter, and Jimmy Belmont, Braddock, junior-middleweight, doing a return tussle for the fans who enjoy lusty hitting. Becker won the decision in their last meeting.

Sammy Paris, of the Hill, meets Paul Balint, hard-hitting North Side featherweight, in the second six-round preliminary, with Tommy Ward, clever South Sider, meeting Johnny Brown, of Lawrenceville, in the curtain-raiser of six rounds. The show starts at 8:45, daylight saving time.

Jenkintown Girl, Al Simmons To Marry

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 21.—(AP.)—Al Simmons, hard-hitting left fielder of the world champion Athletics, and Miss Dorothy Kuhn, of Jenkintown, Pa., will be married this fall.

Announcement of the approaching wedding was made by Miss Kuhn's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Kuhn, at a dinner dance last night. The marriage will not take place until after this year's world series, it was said.

Connie Mack, manager of the A's, who attended the dinner dance, was the first to congratulate his star fielder. It was one of Mack's daughters who introduced Simmons to Miss Kuhn three years ago.

ALLISON WINS AT NEWPORT

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 21.—(AP.)—Wilmer Allison, Davis Cup doubles player, from Texas, today led the advance into the semi-final round of the Newport Casino invitation tennis tournament by coming from behind to defeat Frank X. Shields, of South Orange, N. J., 6-8, 6-2, 6-4, 6-4.

Shields, who performed an "iron man" feat by winning three hard matches during a single afternoon, fell before the international player, chiefly, because he was unable to maintain such service after his second-set slump. The Jersey player's service was cracked seven times in the last three sets.

George M. Lott, of Chicago, Davis Cup singles player, had a gruelling five-set battle with Sydney Wood before he gained the second last round by topping the steady New Yorker 6-4, 7-5, 4-6, 4-6, 6-4. Wood was seized with his habitual leg cramp at the start of the final set and this had much to do with his defeat.

LOCALS VICTORS IN DOUBLES

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN
Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—Frank Broida and Mrs. Jean Artzberger, Pittsburgh standard-bearers as Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph guests at the eight annual National Public Links tennis championships in progress here, battled successfully through initial round matches in men's and women's doubles, respectively.

Yesterday Broida, paired with the slender Leesburg (Va.) volleyer, Pat Dec, registered a victory over the New Jersey-Tennessee coalition of W. F. Graney, of Perth Amboy, and Harvey Page, of Nashville, 6-1, 6-2, 6-1.

WOMEN STARS WIN

A little later Mrs. Artzberger, aligned with Mrs. Ruth Martinez, driving Washington title contender, fought valiantly to push up from the rear to nose out the hard-hitting Detroiters, Mary Mustaikis and Frances Rousse, 6-8, 6-4, 6-4.

Broida and Deck were never in danger in their brief tussle with Graney and Page. Graney, who, like Broida, is a southpaw, started brilliantly with a series of forehand drives that went for sizzling placements, but his partner proved so weak and generally unreliable that the stocky Jersey entrant became discouraged ere the contest was far on the path toward conclusion and thereafter the joust was a buggy ride for the victors. Broida's fast, steady forehand and Deck's sharp net game and consistently placed, though almost invariably illegal service being the main factors in determining the issue.

WOMEN START SLOW

Mrs. Artzberger and Mrs. Martinez encountered great difficulty in finding themselves to down Miss Mustaikis and Miss Rousse. Miss Mustaikis boasts what is not only the most spectacular forehand in the women's division of the tourney, but a resourceful barrier game is part and parcel of her equipment as well. Her com-

Coast Boxer Injured; Condition Is Serious

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 21.—(INS.)—Beaten badly about the body in his first professional fight, John Anderson was reported to be in a serious condition today following his four-round bout here last night with Red Kuehl.

Anderson managed to go the four-round, but collapsed after the final bell sounded. Physicians said he was injured internally and that his condition was extremely grave.

BULLETIN.

The second game of the Pittsburgh-Boston series, scheduled at Forbes Field this afternoon, was called off on account of rain. A double-header will be played Saturday.

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

A few short days ago the Pirate pitching staff was so badly "shot" Manager Ens had to throw in an unknown youngster against a pennant contender. Today the same slab staff is the proud possessor of two consecutive shutout games and the Buccos are out beyond the .500 mark for the first time in months.

In the ninth inning of Monday's clash with the Robins, Glenn Wright slammed a homer into the right field stands; in the 18 intervening innings not an enemy spike has dented the home plate owing to two sparkling performances given by Steve Swetonic and Remy Kremer, in the order named.

RAY BLANKS BRAVES

Kremer shut the door in the faces of the Tribe yesterday in a contest that in some respects was the most remarkable of the season in the Oakland Orchard. The Freebooters made five bobbles behind Frenchy, but the smart veteran was in such rare form that he did not let one of the Tribe complete the circuit of the paths. A couple of the invaders were stopped in the last quarter of the distance.

Kremer thus recorded his seventeenth victory of the season, he being in front of all National League competitors in the point of successes.

Manager Ens this morning stated he would use his recruit left-hander, Charlie Wood, of Wichita, on the slab against the Tribal Warriors. Wood, it was, who made the dramatic bow last Saturday at a time when Manager Ens was hard put for a starting pitcher. The left-hander held the Dodgers to eight safeties, but his control was off just far enough to lose him the ball game. Wood is likely to be opposed by Bob Smith or Tom Zachary.

BUCS BOOT FIVE

The loose moments experienced by the Pirate infield yesterday were discounted by a number of pretty plays, the home team running off a total of 22 assists.

Nick Altrock Says:

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—By the time the Robins get back to Flatbush they will be flat on the brush like a strip of toothpaste. And they can explain to those Brooklyn fans that they lost the pennant out West in a Pullman car, somewhere between an upper berth and the men's washroom. I know just how they feel. Our Washington club got pushed out of the race on our last Western trip, and we all but had to walk back. Another big series in Chicago when the Giants get there. Wrigley has certainly made a mint this season, and I don't mean Spearmint or Doublemint.

RIVALS' HOPES OF CATCHING A'S SLIGHT

CARDS, PHILS CHECK GIANTS AND CUBS

Associated Press.

While the National League pennant race goes merrily on without getting very near to a decision, the Philadelphia fans are about ready to hear the news that the Athletics have clinched the American League title for another year.

It will require an amazing winning streak on the part of the Washington Senators or the New York Yankees combined with a wholly unexpected slump on the part of the A's to keep the world's champions from capturing another American League flag. After yesterday's 10 to 6 victory over Detroit, the Athletics had only 31 games left to play and a margin of 8½ games over Washington. If Philadelphia slumps so far as to lose half of its remaining contests, winding up the season with 98 victories and 56 defeats, Washington must win 25 of its remaining 34 games to tie, while the Yankees now 10 games behind could lose only seven of 33 games.

NATS BEAT BROWNS

The Senators continued their chase yesterday by trouncing the St. Louis Browns, 14 to 4, scoring a 10-run burst in the fifth inning, which went a long way toward avenging the indignities suffered in St. Louis. The other American League clubs had a day of scheduled idleness.

The leaders of the National League were joined in grief yesterday as all three succumbed to their rivals of lower rank in the standing. But Brooklyn was the only club which lost ground. The Robins moved into Cincinnati for a double-header with the humble Reds, who had lost seven straight games and 20 out of 25 previous games. But, much to their surprise, Cincinnati pitching proved better than Brooklyn's in two close duels, both being decided by 2 to 1 scores.

Young Ben Frey gave Brooklyn just five hits as he bested Adolfe Luque in the first clash, while Ray Kolp was equally successful against Ray Phelps in the second.

PHILS CHECK CUBS

The last-place Phillies evidently were destined to win their twice-tied game with the champion Chicago Cubs, although it required three days of effort to give them a 10-to-8 decision. The game, which started in an 11-inning tie in the second half of Saturday's double header and failed to come to a decision in a 16-inning second clash Tuesday, finally was played off yesterday, and Phillie homers were triumphant.

A single homer and a wild pitch by Fred Fitzsimmons were about enough for the St. Louis Cardinals as they downed the New York Giants, 5 to 4. Pinch Batsman George Fisher made a four-base clout for three runs, while the wild heave by the Giant pitcher allowed the tying run to score.

Out of the pennant race, Pittsburgh gained a triumph of its own by shutting out the Boston Braves, 5 to 0, and passing the .500 mark for the first time since June 4.

go at Washington, Pa., tonight.

The Meyers Bowl card for Monday has been completed. Jules Beck, matchmaker, has signed Len Johnson, Bunny Bontak's new Swedish light-heavyweight, to box Arvin Spence, of Cleveland, in the eight-round bout, with Young Nanni, of Swissvale, fighting Jimmy Thomas, Hill District Negro, in the second number of six rounds, and Joe Gaudy, of McKeesport, fighting his first pro bout, matched with Eddie Heoner, of Clairton, in the opening setto.

Frankie (Kid) Ansiem, Negro flyweight, of Philadelphia, who meets Wee Willie Davies, of Chartiers, in the main 10-round event, and Georgie Baldur, of Canada and New York, who will try and stop the whirlwind tactics of Battling Glozy, of Donora, in the other half of the double windup, will get in town on Saturday to finish training for their bouts.

GODFREY STOPS LEE

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 21.—George Godfrey, giant Negro heavyweight of Leiperville, Pa., knocked out Elijah Lee, Chicago Negro heavyweight, in the second round of a scheduled 10-round bout here last night.

Long's Sport Comment

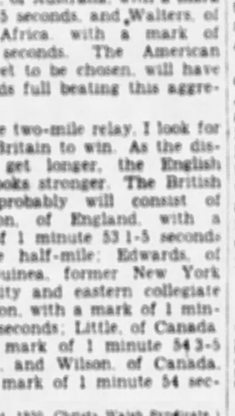
Jim Fitzsimmons, trainer of the great horse that met a Waterloo under such conditions at Saratoga last Saturday.

They say they would not have started him if they had known of his dislike for a heavy, sticky track, and now that they are aware of it they are determined not to send him out again in that kind of going.



William Woodward

"I AM GLAD I know now that Gallant Fox doesn't like sticky mud," says Trainer Fitzsimmons. "He will never start again on a track which is in that condition. When he won the Belmont, though there had been a drizzle, the track was not heavy, sticky or holding. Belmont Park has a firm foundation. The track at Saratoga, when it is drenched and then dries out, is very heavy. I wonder if race goers appreciate the fact that Mr. Woodward and Mr. Whitney started their colts Saturday only because they wished not to disappoint the big crowd that was present? I had half a mind to suggest that Gallant Fox be kept from starting when the track became so bad, but I knew Mr. Woodward wanted to see his colt race against Whichone. If we had scratched, everybody would have said we were afraid of Whichone. Mr. Whitney probably felt the same way about his own horse, feeling that if he withdrew him it would be said that he feared Gallant Fox. It was a gallant gesture on the part of both men to start their horses. After the race, Mr. Woodward went up to Gallant Fox and said, 'You did well, old boy. I'm glad you came out of the race all right.' That shows what kind of sportsman he is. He can lose as graciously as he can win."

PAUL WANER'S second safety in yesterday's game, a single to center in the fifth inning, was his one thousandth hit in the major leagues. Few players have equaled the elder Waner's achievement in reaching that goal in less than five seasons. Paul made his thousand in 2,796 times at bat, a grand batting average of .358.

Waner is the second Pirate to reach the thousand mark in base-hits this season. George Grantham rounded out that total with a single off Carl Hubbell, of the Giants, at Forbes Field on May 6. Pie Traynor is high man on the Pittsburgh Club. He has 1,616 hits to his credit up to date.

BRITISH-AMERICAN GAMES

While the teams that will represent America and Great Britain in Chicago the night of August 27 will not be chosen until this week-end, I would not be surprised to see the British win every relay race except the high hurdles. The Americans will win all of the field events.

Knute Rockne

This may sound like a startling statement but it is based on two points. First, the class of the All-British team in the running events, and, secondly, the fact that the majority of the American runners will be collegians. These lads were at their peak toward the close of the college year, and I doubt if they can work back into top condition for this meet. I also doubt if they have the urge that they have back at school, where they give what is known as "the good old college try."

In the sprint relay, America probably will be represented by Tolan, of Michigan; Leland, of Texas Christian; Simpson, of Ohio State, and Toppino, of Loyola, or Dyer, of Stanford. To meet this group, Canada has Percy Williams, Fitzpatrick, Adams and Miller, who are just as formidable as our crack American team. It is possible that either Legge, of South Africa, or Elliott, of New Zealand, may make the team. The race probably will depend on the baton passing, and here the advantage will be with the Canadian team as it will be working together longer.

In the mile relay Britain will have the following five men to choose from: Ball, of Canada, with a mark for the quarter mile of 47 4-5 seconds; Wilson, of Canada, with a mark of 48 2-5 seconds; Goulding, of Australia, with a mark of 48 3-10 seconds; Bascom, of Australia, with a mark of 48 3-5 seconds, and Walters, of South Africa, with a mark of 48 2-5 seconds. The American team, yet to be chosen, will have its hands full beating this aggregation.

In the two-mile relay, I look for Great Britain to win. As the distances get longer, the English team looks stronger. The British team probably will consist of Hampson, of England, with a mark of 1 minute 53 1-5 seconds for the half-mile; Edwards, of New Guinea, former New York University and eastern collegiate champion, with a mark of 1 minute 52 seconds; Little, of Canada with a mark of 1 minute 54 3-5 seconds, and Wilson, of Canada, with a mark of 1 minute 54 seconds.

Dr. Hill Advances In W. Va. Tourney

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., Aug. 21.—(AP.)—Dr. S. M. Hill, of Dallas, Tex., the defending champion in the old White Sulphur golf tournament, continued to laugh in the face of old man Par yesterday, entering the semi-finals by defeating L. Morrow, of Memphis, 3 and 2. He bettered par by three strokes, duplicating his performance of yesterday. His card recorded five birdies.

Others to become semi-finalists were E. D. Hotchkiss, Richmond, Va., who defeated L. W. James, New York, 3 and 2; F. H. Wilms, Quincy, Ill., who defeated H. A. Stansbury, Morgantown, W. Va., 5 and 3, and Frank N. Payne, Jr., Harrisburg, who defeated his father, Frank H. Payne, Sr., 4 and 2.

SEEDED STAR DEFEATED AT FOREST HILLS

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 21.—(AP.)—The dramatic downfall of 17-year-old Sarah Palfrey at the hands of a California youngster of her own age featured the third round of play for the national women's tennis championship at the West Side Stadium yesterday afternoon.

Leading at 4-1 in the final set, the little Brookline, Mass., stylist suddenly weakened under a steady fire from the racquet of her western rival, Dorothy Weisel, of Sacramento, and went down to unexpected defeat by scores of 6-2, 6-8, 6-4.

Miss Palfrey was the No. 4 seeded player in the tournament, while Miss Weisel, a slender girl with an eye shade and a ranking as the second best player in Northern California, was not included in the seeded list of 10.

Another young Californian, Helen Marlowe, of Los Angeles, learned how fleeting tennis fame can be when she lost to Penelope Anderson, of Richmond, Va., after having provided the principal sensation of Tuesday's play by eliminating Eleanor Goss, of New York. Miss Anderson's greater experience carried her to victory yesterday by scores of 4-6, 6-2, 6-4.

Betty Nuthall, 19-year-old English challenger, continued her steamroller progress through the field by overwhelming Edith Cross, of San Francisco, 6-0, 6-3. Miss Cross was ranked third in the country on her play last year, but has not been going so well this season and she was able to offer little real opposition. Miss Nuthall's hard-hit drives, often sharply angled, had her on the defensive in most of the interchanges.

Enterprise Captures Yacht Test Race

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 21.—(AP.)—Enterprise, sailed by Harold S. Vanderbilt, again demonstrated her supremacy in light air yesterday, defeating Weetamoe, the Morgan-Nichols candidate, in the first of the official trials for selection of the defender of the America's Cup.

In the other match race of the day, Yankee, sailed by Charles F. Adams, Secretary of the Navy, ran away from Whirlwind, the Thorn Hammond entry. Whirlwind finally blew out her mainsail and was towed home, but at the time of the mishap the Boston boat had a comfortable lead. Yankee's time for the 30-mile course was 26 seconds better than that of Enterprise.

GENERALS GET SHIRES

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Aug. 21.—(AP.)—Leonard Shires, young brother of Arthur Shires, Washington American infielder, signed yesterday to play for the Clarksburg Generals of the Middle Atlantic League and will report to the team today. He likely will serve in the infield.

WESTMORELAND PLAY OPENS TODAY

By VERN SWARTSFAGER.

The annual fight for the amateur championship of Westmoreland County got under way today at the Greensburg Country Club with the elite among the linksmen of that section competing in the qualifying round.

Those who make the grade today will advance to the match play rounds of tomorrow and Saturday, the final round in all flights being listed for the last day.

The semi-final and final rounds of the annual Washington and Greene County championship are under way at the Monongahela Valley Country Club today.

The women's invitation tournament to be staged at the Edgewood Country Club tomorrow gives promise of being one of the most successful events of its kind of the season. The entry list totaled 184 this morning, and indications are that the field will number well over 200 when the event gets under way.

FINE ENTRY LIST

John Jay Burke, city office manager for the Allegheny County parks, who is chairman of the committee in charge of the county golf tourney to be staged at the Wildwood Country Club next Tuesday, has announced that the entry list has reached 75, and among those who are slated to play will be some of the highest officials in the district.

Among those who have signified an intention of competing are Director of Public Works Norman S. Brown, County Commissioner E. V. Babcock and Councilman Robert Garland.

MRS. CURRY LEADS

Mrs. Margaret Curry, city women's champion, was leading Mrs. Eva Blair, defending title-holder, 1 up, at the finish of the first 18 holes of their 36-hole final of the Women's Schenley Park Golf Club title tournament at Schenley today. The last 10 holes of the match were played in a drenching downpour, and in order that the course might derive every possible benefit from the drenching downpour, Al McBride, Schenley pro, ordered the layout closed shortly after noon.

The final 18 holes of the title duel will be played tomorrow. The cards:

Mrs. Curry out	4	4	5	3	4	4	3	5	4	—36
Mrs. Blair out	4	5	6	4	3	4	4	5	6	—41
Mrs. Curry in	4	4	5	4	4	4	3	5	4	—37—73
Mrs. Blair in	4	5	5	4	4	4	3	5	5	—39—80

In the title flight consolation final Mrs. T. H. Stevenson defeated Mrs. C. J. Wandel, 4 and 3, and in the second flight final Miss Jessie Brown defeated Miss Gene Kelleher, 8 and 7.

With first and second round play completed, Tom Waggoner, of Brownsville, is still favored to cop the title he won last year in the annual tourney for golfing honors of Washington and Green counties. Waggoner fought his way into the third round over the course of the Monongahela Valley Club yesterday, while three other compatriots were also sharpshooting their way into the same bracket in the championship flight.

TO FACE TEST

Waggoner will find the going difficult today. He will be called upon to try Tom Robinson, titlist three years ago. Yesterday's match play scores:

FIRST ROUND

Bennett Asks Aid Of Court in Row

CHICAGO, Aug. 21.—(AP.)—Outfielder Fred Bennett, the object of contention between the Milwaukee club of the American Association and Kenesaw M. Landis, commissioner of baseball, has filed a petition in Federal Court asking that he be made a free agent.

Bennett was sent by the St. Louis Browns to Milwaukee on a two year option. The Browns attempted to recall the player earlier in the season, but Milwaukee refused to give him back. Commissioner Landis ordered Milwaukee to send Bennett to St. Louis or to sell him outright.

Al Singer Signs For Title Bouts

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—(INS.)—Al Singer's promise that as lightweight champion he would fight and not talk was fulfilled today. The titleholder signed for a 10-round bout with Jimmy McLarnin in the Yankee Stadium on September 11 and for a title fight against Tony Canzoneri, of New York, in the Garden on November 14.

Singer will start training for his bout with the Vancouver Spider next Monday at Delaware Water Gap, Pa. McLarnin is due here from the coast Saturday.

Col. Brown Wins At Waynesburg Fair

WAYNESBURG, Aug. 21.—The twentieth annual Waynesburg fair opened here yesterday under the most favorable conditions with a large crowd in attendance.

Colonel Brown, owned by J. C. Pender, Johnstown, won the 2:27 pace after finishing second in the first heat.

In the 2:26 trot, Little George, owned by Dr. George Seitz, of Swissvale, Pa., was the winner. David Dodge, a local horse, was not a contender.

PITCHER BALKS

HAZLETON, Pa., Aug. 21.—(AP.)—Pitcher George Peery, of the Boston Braves, ordered to report to the Hazleton Mountaineers of the New York-Penn League from the San Antonio, Texas, club, has refused to report and has drawn a suspension from the owners of the Braves.

POLO VARSITY SCORES WIN

LOCUST VALLEY, N. Y., Aug. 21.—(AP.)—In a ragged but spectacular polo tussle, Capt. Tommy Hitchcock led his reorganized varsity "Whites" to victory by 19 to 16 yesterday over the "Reds" in the latest test for the international team, played at the Piping Rock Club.

Since the "Jayvees" benefitted from a seven-goal handicap concession, the actual margin of the winning forces was 19 to 9, but except in the fourth and eighth chukkers, Hitchcock's quartet was played to a standstill by the hard-riding and fighting reserve forces.

BRITISH IN TEST MATCH

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—(INS.)—Members of the British polo team, which engages the United States in the international series, starting September 6, will play their first practice game today. The scene will be the new field of John Hay Whitney, at Manhasset, L. I. It is known as Green Pastures Field.

England will line up with George at No. 1, Balding at 2, Pat Roark at 3 and Lacey, back. The opposition will be J. H. Whitney at No. 1, Jack Nelson, of the Argentines at 2; Watson Webb, former American star, at 3, and J. C. Rathbone, of the old Aiken team, at back.

Pirate Trainer's Youngster Hurt

The Columbus home of Dr. Charles A. Jorgensen, Pirate trainer, has been saddened as a result of an accident to little Carol Phyllis, 5-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jorgensen, who suffered a compound fracture of one of her legs in being run over by an automobile. The child is recovering satisfactorily from the accident. The Jorgensens have four children. Members of the Pittsburgh team learned of the accident with deep regret.

holds the record for assists by one team in a single game. Playing the Giants on June 7 of that season the Buccos rang up 28.

Adam Comorosky clicked with his twenty-first three-bagger of the season to help his club in the fifth. The Pirates scored one run in the second after Suhr had walked. Kremer helped in his own success with a fine single to left-center and L. Waner completed the run with a sacrifice drive.

COMMY HITS TRIPLE

Comorosky's triple on top of P. Waner's single and a single by Traynor added two in the fifth and the Buccos picked up single tallies in the sixth and seventh to put the game on the ice. Meantime Kremer was moving like the master he is. Harry Seibold was clever enough on the mound, but not good enough to win over the brand of pitching served by the Pittsburgh ace.

Secondbaseman George Grantham was ejected from the game in the third inning for his remarks to Umpire Ted McGrew after Ted had called him out on a third strike. Seibold broke a curve which McGrew ruled had caught a part of the outside of the plate, but Grantham decided otherwise, and in a manner that irked the official.

Sande Off to Ride Long Shot Winner

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—(AP.)—Earl Sande, rider of Gallant Fox, is enroute westward to ride Reville Boy, long shot winner of the American Derby at Washington Park, in the Governor's Derby at Springfield, Ill., Saturday.

MEN! Make No Mistake—Consult a Doctor for Men

MY MESSAGE TO MEN

I want to talk to every sufferer from this and surrounding territory. What I am doing for others I can no doubt do for you. For many years I have limited my practice to the successful treatment of men and their ailments. I invite every ailing man to consult me free and without obligation—so do not put it off, but call today.

WHAT IS YOUR DISEASE?

Is it your blood, nerves, liver, kidneys, stomach, heart, lungs? Do you suffer from enlarged or swollen glands? Have you a skin disease? Suffer from gas, dyspepsia? Do you feel tired, irritable, weak, depressed and debilitated? Nerve disorders wreck many men yearly.

My Success Is Due to the Fact That I Know How!

MEN! You who know and feel the results of overwork and worry—those of you that have been unsuccessfully treated and think there is no help for you, I invite you to call and investigate my modern methods. Many men from this and surrounding territory attest to my ability.

Hours: 9 to 5, 7 to 9. Tues. and Thursdays, 9 to 5. Sundays, 10 to 1.

STARS ON EDGE FOR A. A. U. CARNIVAL

ENTRIES STAGE FINAL DRILLS TODAY

By JESS CARVER.

Much in the fashion of the Old Mother Goose rhyme the athletes who will compete here tomorrow, Saturday and Monday in the annual A. A. U. National track and field championships in the Stadium are all in a dither now. You know as the rhyme goes—

The a-mas entered,
Two by two,
The elephant and
The kangaroo.

Instead of elephants and kangaroos there are sprinters, hurdlers, jumpers, vaulters and what not from the rain-drenched coast of Maine to the sun-baked coast of California and from the lumbers of Washington and Oregon to Florida's sandy shields and real estate salesmen.

JUNIOR MEET TOMORROW

The camps of the rival warriors are pulsing in cool quiet and tomorrow the boys will sally forth to do or die for various reasons. Competition in the junior division will take up the slack tomorrow. Today they'll wind up their collective last minute training.

Saturday the big shots of the meet will perform with the Simpsons, Tolans, Bowens, Andersons, Jessups, Sturdys, Warners, Osburns, Lermonds and Mortensens putting their all into the winning of medals, championships and possibly, for a minority, new records.

On Monday the meet will be concluded with the staging of the gueling decathlon test and the running of the championship relays. After that the boys will hop back on the freights and depart.

The main body of stars is on hand, and it only remains for a few stragglers to report in today. The formidable entry of the Pacific Coast wearing the colors of the Los Angeles A. C., the Olympic Club of San Francisco and the Washington A. C. favored to carry away the lion's share of points and medals was intact today. The Rocky Mountain region is represented by stars of the Denver A. C. and the Middle West by the powerful team of the Chicago A. C. and a strong force of unattached collegiates, many of them Western Conference aces.

The Los Angeles A. C. team arrived this morning. It includes three national champions of 1929 in Fred Sturdy, pole vaulter; Henry Lasallette, high jumper and Herman Brix, weight man, who holds the title for the 16-pound shot put. The others in the party are Dick Pomeroy, Dick Barber, Alma Richards, Ray Alf, Vic Williams, Jim DeMers, Bob Patton, Bob Maxwell, Hec Dyer, Dean Cromwell and Jim Stewart.

SOUTHERN STARS HERE

The New Orleans A. C. boasts representation as a Southern threat, with Claude Bracey, Rice Institute; Cy Leland, Texas Christian; Ed Hamm, Georgia Tech, and Johnny Morris, Southwestern Teachers, heading a not to be snickered at army of the South.

Those luminaries on hand yesterday went through warming and loosening up drills at the Stadium and at Carnegie Tech's track. The athletes have done more or less squawking about the arrangements made for practice here. In fact, the squawk has been more over the lack of arrangements. They can't use the Stadium as much as they'd like because the track there is being put in shape and Carnegie's cinder path is far from suitable for big timers to use. Some of the boys went up to Schenley Oval yesterday, but for the most part, they confined their activities to short workouts at Tech and the Stadium.

Included among track coaches and athletic directors to arrive yesterday were Percy P. Locey, of the Olympic Club, and Charley Hunter, the club's track coach. Director Locey is the chap who gets together the all-Western football team for the Shrine benefit game in San Francisco each year.

All in all, the entry list promises to be very satisfactory. In fact, if the turnout of cash customers is half as good as the lineup of athletes, all will be merry.

THE LOWDOWN ON THE BUCS

By THE BENCHWARMER.

Well folks if Frenchy Steve and the rest of the pitchers keep on doing their stuff we're gunna have a lot of fun from here on in. There ain't been anybody touch the old home dish in 18 innings and Jule is easier for us lefthanders to get along with.

We've got about seven more battles with them Cubs and another series with the Dodgers and Giants and maybe we won't try to knock each one of the contenders off every time we get a chance. What's more, we're gettin' warm again on that fourth-place money.

I was jes lookin' at them standings and see where we've lost only five more games than the Dodgers. You wouldn't think that would you?

George Grantham and Ted McGrew had it at the plate yesterday, and George wasn't tellin' Ted what a good bridge player he was either. Boots is supposed to be one of those quiet birds that takes everything, but when he gets sore he is just as flip as Bartell or any of the rest of the gang.

Speakin' of Bartell there's a kid that's showin' them something. Sure he makes a lot of errors but give me the fella that goes after everything and you never saw Dick open the gate for any hard drives did you?

Larry has been gettin' Jule almost daffy hittin' balls against the fence. He just gets enough on his fungoes to keep them in the park and Jule thinks they're all goin' over the wall.

Lefty Wood, the clever southpaw from Wichita, still has Jule's goat. He's the only lefthander on the club that doesn't act a little nutty every once in a while.

Fight Results

At Indianapolis—George Godfrey knocked out Elijah Lee, 2 rounds.

At Newark—Mickey Walker, world middleweight champion, defeated Vincent Forgione, 10 rounds; Paul Canamera knocked out Billy Ens, 5 rounds.

At Utica—Bushy Graham defeated Johnny Vacca, 10 rounds.

At Flint—Roger Bernard defeated Eddie Lord, 10 rounds; George Day and Dick Landig, draw, 8 rounds.

At New York—Al Lieut defeated Davy Alter, 8 rounds; Max Lejner defeated Tony Caraglano, 8 rounds; Pete De Grasse defeated Biduito Dias, 8 rounds.

panion sparkled less but chopped most consistently and caused no end of trouble.

By virtue of their round one triumph, Mrs. Attaberger and Mrs. Martinez crash the semi-final bracket in the feminine dual division and today meet the strong St. Louis twain, Virginia Ducker and Ann Lindeman.

SEEDED STARS WIN

In the men's singles third round fracas, the seeded crown-chasers, George Jennings, of Chicago, Jack Delara, of Los Angeles, Ted Drewes, of St. Louis, and Bob Considine, of Washington, swept ahead, all, save Delara, who was pushed to the limit by Leo Lejeck, Chicago veteran, 4-6, 3-6, 6-4, 6-2, 6-1, advancing in straight sets.

The summary:

MEN'S SINGLES.

Mr. Sponge Wins Saratoga Feature

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—(AP.)—Mr. Sponge, a consistent three-year-old money winner for Joseph E. Widener, added the American Legion Handicap to his two other 1930 victories yesterday, as he carried off the honors in the Saratoga feature race.

The speedy son of Luke McLuke, with Mack Garner up, was the heavily played favorite, 5 to 2, and won like a good public choice, with R. Spreckel's Judge Schilling second and George D. Widener's Finite third.

BERNARD BEATS LORD

FLINT, Mich., Aug. 21.—(AP.)—Roger Bernard, of Flint, won a 10-round decision from Eddie Lord, of New Haven, Conn., in the main bout of the old home boys' annual fight card here last night. Bernard weighed 128½ and Lord a quarter of a pound more. In an 8-round semi-final George Day, 135½, New Haven, and Dick Landig, 135, Flint, fought to a draw.

SPORT TIPOFFS

THE SPRINTERS.

Good day, Mr. A. A. U., what have you in the way of sprinters today? . . . Any hot shots? . . . Well, now, let's see. . . . Yes, we have some werry, werry niftk ones . . . We have Mr. Eddie Tolan. . . . Official holder of the world record for 100 yards. . . . Fast enough to get out of any jam. . . . And then, let me show you something from Ohio. . . . Georgie Porgie Simpson. . . . The Ohio State Comet. . . . Guaranteed to do 9.9 uphill. . . . And how about some Southern stock. . . . Mr. Claude O. Bracey, of Rice Institute and Mr. Cyrus Leland, a Texas Christian. . . . They'll both get by without a shove. . . . It's not the first cost, it's the upkeep with these babies. . . . They get about 500 yards on a sirloin, 400 on a cut of beef and a fair 300 on a can of salmon. . . . By the way, while you're looking, how about Hector, the Boy Wonder, the Stanford Cardinal. . . . Hector Dyer, who ran a dead heat with Frank Wykoff in a 220-yard race on the Coast this year and later beat him at 100. . . . Then we have a fine domestic piece. . . . Hank Schnellbach. . . . Bet him to land somewhere in the money in the "century." . . . If you want a good Moe and Joe long shot, how about Russell Sweet or Henry Cummings, Don Bennett or Woody Adams. . . . Oh, you like Mr. Tolan and Mr. Simpson for a parlay. . . . Thank you sir, cash or charge? . . . Cash, thank you again sir. . . . Good day. . . . Experts who know the Stadium track estimate that 9.8 will win the 100 and 22 flat the 220 in the A. A. U. championships here this week. . . . They are going to run the furiong on the bend, doing away with the start and finish in the tunnels. . . . Which is a fine thing for spectators (if any) but not so good for the runners. . . . Tolan, the Michigan Negro, will defend both his senior titles. . . . He did the 100 at Denver a year back in 10 flat and the 220 in 21.9. . . . But he's bettered both times since. . . . However, you can have a lot of fun at the sewing circle by forming a pool on these birds. . . . Put me down for a bet on Simpson. . . . Goo'by. . . . Tomorrow. . . . The Weight Men. . . . Sat'day. . . . Ten Nights In a Bar Room. . . . JESS CARVER.

Armour Divorce Decree Made Known

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—(AP.)—After years of litigation, during which time he married a second time, Tommy Armour, golf professional, has been divorced by his first wife. Supreme Court Justice Schmuck handed down the decree July 30, but it did not become known until yesterday.

The decree not only divorces Armour, but declares invalid his marriage to Estelle Andrews, which took place after he had obtained a divorce from his first wife, Consuelo Armour, in Mexico.

CHESTNUT BURR COPS

HARTFORD, Conn., Aug. 21.—(AP.)—Chestnut Burr, the Blue Ridge Stable chestnut colt yesterday added another triumph to his season's long list by winning the two-year-old trot, the feature event of the second day's Grand Circuit racing at Charter Oak, when with Walter Dreitenfeld holding the reins, he twice easily outstepped the field to capture the event in straight heats.

GUYS PROTEST GEM HURLER

Fairmont retained its grip on first place in the Mid-Atlantic League second half flag race yesterday by defeating Charleroi, 4 to 3, at Charleroi.

The game was played under protest by Charleroi, the Guys claiming that Fairmont pitched Beam in violation of the transfer rule of the league.

Clarksburg had little difficulty in downing Johnstown at Johnstown, the Generals winning by a count of 12 to 4.

Wheeling won over Cumberland at Cumberland, 3 to 2.

OIL DRILLING CONTINUES HEAVY

Conservation Efforts Hold Down Output, But Many New Fields Are Found

TULSA, Okla., Aug. 21.—(AP.)—While conservation efforts have slackened oil production, accepted estimates showing the country's daily average output for last week was 512,000 barrels under that for the corresponding week of 1929, the quest for new fields continues.

With drilling unchecked except in a few scattered areas, 11,360 wells were completed in the United States in the first half of the year. The number, although 581 less than the total completions for the same period of last year, represented probably a greater investment in money than the total completions for any six-month period. Oil men generally are agreed as to that because of deeper drillings and a resultant higher cost to the well.

OKLAHOMA CITY POOL

While not many new pools were opened, intensive development was carried on in areas discovered in 1929. In the forefront was the Oklahoma City Pool, where several hundred wells were drilled at a cost ranging upward from $125,000 each. The investment in the field has been estimated at $200,000,000.

Of the 11,360 wells completed in the country, 6,718 found oil production, 3,393 were dry holes and 1,249 were gas producers.

Texas led in the number of wells with a total of 3,578, of which 1,843 were oil producers, 1,504 were dry holes and 231 gas wells. Tests were started and finished in shallow fields of that state with such rapidity that scouts hardly could keep a record of them.

With 1,898 completions, Oklahoma plied second. The Sooner State had 1,173 oil wells, 534 dry tests and 191 gas wells. Development of the Konawa, West Asher, East Earlsboro, South Earlsboro, East Little River and Searight pools made the greater Seminole district Oklahoma's busiest area. Completions in the area numbered 525.

PENNSYLVANIA FIELD

In the old Pennsylvania grade fields of New York, Pennsylvania, Southeastern Ohio and West Virginia 2,442 wells were completed, with only 186 dry holes among them.

In initial production, by which is meant the actual output for the first 24 hours, the total oil well completions for the country eclipsed all records for any six-month period. The 6,718 wells had a total initial production of 4,057,729 barrels, or an average of 604.01 barrels to the well as against an average of 466.35 barrels in the first half of last year and 541.18 barrels in the first half of 1928. Prior to 1928 the highest average for a six-month period was 336.46 barrels in the first half of 1925.

The comparatively new Oklahoma City field, scene of deep wells and big production, led in initial production figures for the first half of the year. In that field 245 wells were completed as oil producers and they had a total initial yield of 1,988,555 barrels, an average of 8,117 barrels to the well, a spectacular record for an individual pool.

$50,000 Reported Shires to Quit Game for Ring

CHICAGO, Aug. 21.—(INS.)—C. Arthur (Whataman) Shires, at present with the Washington Senators, has been offered a guarantee of $50,000 if he will forsake baseball for the boxing ring, it was reported here today.

The offer is said to have come from Mique Malloy, Chicago fight promoter. The pugnacious first baseman enjoyed a brief but spectacular ring career last winter which was cut short on the advice of Commissioner K. M. Landis.

Petrolle Matched With Canzoneri

CHICAGO, Aug. 21.—(AP.)—The Chicago Stadium will resume promotion of boxing next month, with a benefit for the widow of Paddy Harmon September 11, and will hold a second show September 26.

Billy Petrolle, the Fargo, N. D., express, and Tony Canzoneri, former featherweight champion, will meet in one of the 10-round bouts on the benefit card, while Matchmaker Nate Lewis is negotiating for a 10-rounder between Gorilla Jones, Akron, O., Negro middleweight, and Dave Shade, as a feature of the September 26 card.

The stadium was closed early in the summer, but was leased early this month to Sammy Wolff, who promoted a show with Earl Mastro and Fidel La Barba as the main attraction.

Two big games will be staged in the Central League this evening. The Fintex club will tangle with Y. M. H. A. at Magee Field. This battle bringing together the hardest hitting clubs in the loop. The Lincoln Civics, fighting hard to keep on the heels of Fintex, will meet the Beckman Motors, and seeing that Beckman's beat Allegheny Collegians Tuesday, it appears that Lutton has the South Hills aggregation working to perfection.

The Commercial and Industrial League game will be at Camp Horne and Rieck-McJunkins will be the attraction.

W. O. W.-STOWE CLASH

In the City League, the battle of McKees Rocks will be staged at Stowe Field when W. O. W. hooks up with Pop Geers Stowe team. The other game in the loop finds J. L. Thomas, of Bloomfield, meeting Book Shoe at Olympia Park.

The Pittsburgh Typographical Union boys are getting all pepped up for the annual tournament that starts next Monday. Eleven cities will be represented when the championship series is started out at Forbes Field.

Washington, as champions will be here to defend the title. Pittsburgh will be much stronger this season. The local Typos have been playing in league competition all season, and will be set for the contesting.

PITCAIRN WINS

With the attack functioning better and Lefty Brinker in fine form, the Pitcairn Railroaders defeated Cleveland in the third and deciding game of the Central Region championship series at Dennison yesterday, 13 to 5. Pitcairn scored seven runs in the first inning.

In the City League, Homewood turned in a 5 to 1 victory over Pleasant Valley and Dormont nosed out J. L. Thomas in a close battle, 4 to 3.

Edgewood and the Dan Heeps played to a 3-3 deadlock in a Greater Pittsburgh League struggle, while Reliance Life, after having been tied Tuesday by Whitaker, came back to wallop the Jenkins nine, 10 to 0.

The Lineys defeated St. George in a Major League affair, 5 to 1.

In independent battles, Collier Juniors downed the William A. C., 8 to 5; Iroquois won over Mayview, 7-2; North Side Elks blanked Carnegie, 2-0, and the Duquesne Steel nine defeated the Duquesne Traders, 7 to 3.

Shell Union Oil Conserving Cash

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—J. C. Van Eck, president of the Shell Union Oil Company, said the decision to omit the common dividend reflecting the decreased earnings of the company, partly from curtailment of production and partly from unsatisfactory price conditions. He added that although after making conservative reserve for depreciation, the company is at present operating on a profitable basis, there is as yet no indication of an early improvement of unsettled conditions prevailing in the industry and for that reason it is considered prudent to conserve cash resources so that the company can continue to its normal program of development without need of further financing."

Attractive Morning Dress
Pattern 1950
Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

By ANNE ADAMS.

1950

Can you picture anything more becoming for morning wear than this frock so simple of detail and graceful of line? All raw edges are finished with tape binding, an easy and effective method for the home sewer, and extremely popular this season when chosen in vivid contrasting color.

Pattern 1950 is delightful made of percale, cotton broadcloth, gingham, dimity or lawn. A white ground dotted in red and bound with red tape, makes an adorable dress. A sash of the fabric pulls through openings in the side seams and fastens in back with a pert bow.

May be obtained only in sizes 16, 18, 20, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44. Size 16 requires 3⅝ yards of 36-inch material.

No dressmaking experience is necessary to make this model with our pattern. Yardage for every size, and simple, exact instructions are given.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins carefully wrapped, or stamps, for each pattern. Write plainly your name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE WANTED.

Book on Morgan — New York Bond Market

BOOK EXPLAINS J. P. MORGAN'S PERSONALITY

Author Reveals Numerous Intimate Details About Genius of Wall Street

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—The late J. Pierpont Morgan, Wall Street's most distinguished citizen, has become for the younger generation a myth. In a book called "Morgan the Magnificent," published yesterday, John K. Winkler seeks to recreate the personality of the man.

In giving a thumbnail sketch of the former czar of finance, the author said:

Mr. Rukeyser.

"Perhaps once in a hundred years is born a mind capable of entering a sphere of higher mathematics closed to ordinary mortals. A direct and synthetic mind that cuts across lots and flies straight to conclusions, intuitively and by processes unknown to itself. Such a mind we call genius. Such was the mind of John Pierpont Morgan."

TYPICAL REJOINER

During the panic of 1907, Morgan was the director of Wall Street. Bank presidents and treasury executives daily awaited his nod.

"I'm afraid we can't help with any more money, our reserves are so low," one timid trust company president told Morgan.

"What!" cried Morgan. "Do you realize what you are saying? Tomorrow you may have no reserves at all."

When asked a little earlier that year to help certain weak trust companies which were on the brink of ruin, Morgan declined, saying:

"I can't go on being everybody's goat. I have got to stop somewhere."

Mr. Winkler reveals a number of intimate details about Morgan, such as that the size of his hat was 7⅛ and that his pet personal dislikes were E. H. Harriman, Andrew Carnegie, John W. Gates and John D. Rockefeller.

CROPS IN SOUTH

A vivid view into economic conditions in the South is given in a message to this column by Oscar Newton, chairman of the Federal Reserve Bank at Atlanta.

He writes:

"Crops in the Sixth District have been adversely affected, to some extent, by the drought. The damage from this has been much less in Georgia and Florida than in the other four states — Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama and Tennessee.

"However, the main cash crop of this section, cotton, is more of a hot and dry weather crop than grains and other crops, and the damage to cotton has not, therefore, been as serious as to other crops. The first estimate by the Department of Agriculture of the cotton crop in these states shows an average decline of 11 per cent compared with last year's crop. The cotton crop in Florida, a comparatively unimportant state in cotton production, is estimated at the same as last year, and in Georgia, the decrease is only two-tenths of one per cent. In Tennessee a decrease of 10 per cent is estimated, in Alabama a decrease of 10.5 per cent and in Mississippi and Louisiana decreases of 15 per cent and 22 per cent respectively. Parts of Tennessee, Mississippi and Louisiana are in other Federal Reserve districts, and the figures above are for the whole states.

DECLINES SHOWN

"Other crops have not withstood the drought so well. On a larger acreage than last year, the estimated production of rice is about 16 per cent smaller than a year ago. Corn acreage in Louisiana is 10 per cent greater than last year, but the crop is estimated at about one-third smaller. Corn in Mississippi, on an acreage practically the same as last year, is estimated at about 35 per cent less than last year's crop, and wheat in Tennessee is estimated at about 16 per cent less than the 1929 crop.

"The chief money crop of this section, cotton, is now being picked in the southern part of the belt, and will come to market between now and the middle or last of November. The tobacco crop of Georgia is now being marketed at average prices below those of last year. Weather conditions during the remainder of the cotton season will affect the price received by farmers.

"I believe that the operations of the Federal Farm Board in this district have been beneficial and should be continued."

Poles to Honor Commy, Card Star

Members of the Polish Roman Catholic Union, Settlement No. 5, will pay a tribute to Outfielder Adam Comorosky of the Pirates and Pitcher Grabowski, of the Cardinals at a ball game to be staged at Forbes Field on Labor Day night.

Two fast teams of the Polish Roman Catholic League will meet in a contest which will get under way at 6 o'clock.

The Cardinals will be here on that date and Grabowski will be honored as well as the popular leftfielder of the Buccos, who is one of the outstanding players of the league this season.

The Polish people expect to make the event one to be remembered.

Banister Shoe Firm To Quit Business

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 21.—(AP.)—A certificate of voluntary dissolution of the James A. Banister Company, nationally known shoe manufacturers, has been mailed to the secretary of state by counsel for stockholders. Company officials said there was no financial pressure, but the outlook was not sufficiently promising to warrant continuance of the company. Liquidation was expected to start immediately.

RECORD SUGAR BEET CROP

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—Excellent progress of the growing domestic sugar beet crop, augmented by favorable weather conditions, point to the largest crop in 1930-31 ever recorded in the industry's 42 years history.

Private estimates, considered reliable by the foodstuffs division of the Department of Commerce, indicate the United States acreage planted to beets for the crop this fall amounted to 809,493 acres against 789,094 acres originally planted last year. Of the latter area, however, only 693,041 acres were harvested owing to disastrous weather.

Based on the area planted these estimates, dated as of July 18 last, indicate current production will approximate 1,050,841 long tons. The crop of 1929-30, according to statement made by the Department of Commerce, amounted to but 1,070,895 short tons, reduced, for purpose of comparison to 956,156 long tons. These figures for last year's crop represented an increase of 19.1 per cent as compared with 1927 which constitutes the last preceding census year.

Westinghouse Gets Reading Orders

Another step in the $20,000,000 electrification program of Reading Railroad is reflected in an order just placed with Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company for supervisory control and switchboard equipment for seven power substations and 14 intermediate stations, which will supply current to the electrified zone of the road.

WALL STREET HEARS

That a strong group of market operators have shifted their activity from Vanadium to United Aircraft, feeling that it is enough of a mystery stock to sell far out of line with actual earnings, as it now does.

That Woolworth's August sales are running well ahead of August of last year.

That officials of the American Telephone & Telegraph Company, having conducted a private survey, look for business to return to normal or above early next year.

That motion picture theater chains have been showing better earnings since the return of cool weather.

That rumors of a reduction of American Cyanamid's dividend are baseless.

Sheet and Tube Gets $2,500,000 Order

YOUNGSTOWN, Aug. 21.—Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company has received an order from the Central Public Service Corporation for 35,000 tons of eight-inch electric welded pipe.

The order involves over $2,500,000 and is to equip the 260-mile natural gas pipe line from Eastern Kentucky to Central Indiana to serve industrial consumers.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 21.—The rediscount rate of the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis remains at 3½ per cent.

Bank of France.

PARIS, Aug. 21.—The weekly statement of the Bank of France shows these changes in francs: Gold increased 296,000,000; sight balances abroad decreased 6,000,000; bills discounted at home decreased 124,000,000; bills discounted abroad decreased 25,000,000; advances decreased 27,000,000; circulation decreased 292,000,000; current accounts increased 35,000,000.

Rate of discount, 2½ per cent.

SAFE KEEPING BOXES

NEARLY every family owns insurance papers, marriage certificates, jewelry, property deeds or other articles of value that should not be kept in the house where there is danger of loss by fire or theft.

A safe deposit box in our big vault is not expensive—some rent as low as $5.00 a year.

THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK AT PITTSBURGH is the first Pittsburgh bank to make a permanent photographic record on moving picture film of all checks drawn by its depositors.

Should any cancelled check become lost, mislaid, burned or, perhaps, wilfully destroyed by some other person, it can be reproduced on a screen for your inspection, or a photograph made to submit as evidence of payment. Undoubtedly, many can recall times when a photographic reproduction of an old check would have saved considerable annoyance and, perhaps, actual loss.

Depositors of the First National Bank at Pittsburgh are the first in Pittsburgh to enjoy this modern safeguard and new service.

PROFESSIONALS CLASH FOR CONTROL

Bull Market Halted as Bears Find Vulnerable Spots—Range Narrows

NEW YORK, Aug. 21 (AP)—The newest bull market ran into difficulties today, and stock trading degenerated into a contest for control of the price movement between opposing groups of professional traders, with the bearish element making the better score.

Most of the orders originated with floor traders and neither selling or buying appeared in any appreciable volume from what Wall street calls the best people, meaning large investors and important banking interests trading was again stagnant.

Bears succeeded in puncturing a few soft spots in the price fabric particularly in the rails and specialties. Most of the pivotal shares fluctuated within a range of a point or less from last night's closing levels although there were a few breaks of several points.

The safety razor stocks again proved vulnerable both Gillette and Autostrop losing more than 7. Rails generally declined 1 to 5. Southern Railway reaching the lowest price in six years. Illinois Central the lowest in 5 and Baltimore and Ohio the lowest in 4. Shares declining 2 to 4 included Vanadium, Westinghouse Electric, Eastman, Auburn, American Tobacco B, National Biscuit, Air Reduction and American Smelting. Losses of a point or so embraced most of the important stocks by early afternoon.

BEAR PROPAGANDA

What was characterized in many quarters as bear propaganda appeared in the form of various unconfirmable rumors, one having to do with the financial condition of an important company into which prominent bankers have recently placed several millions after a thorough investigation which they say convinces them that the concern is in a sound and promising condition.

Publication of the results of a poll of the country's bankers showing two-thirds looking for good business by October was used as a bull argument in sending stocks temporarily higher during the morning. A private survey of business prospects made for the officers of one of the world's largest banks is said in banking circles to have indicated that signs of improvement are already apparent, and that business will return to normal early next year. A private survey conducted by nationwide utility system has also resulted in similar conclusions.

The figures for electric power consumption for the second week of August were a little disappointing. Although the decline from the previous week was negligible, seasonal trends would indicate an increase. In the rail July earnings report Nickel Plate made a distinctly unfavorable showing, owing to the slackness in the motor industry. Chesapeake and Ohio, however, showed only a moderate decline from last year.

NOT TO CUT OIL

President Farish of Humble Oil said no general crude price reductions were in prospect in connection with an announcement of a minor reduction in the Texas crude purchasing schedule. This was somewhat reassuring after widespread predictions to the contrary in speculative circles.

The amusement shares were active features. Warner Bros. was a soft spot, selling around its minimum levels. Heavy buying orders in Radio-Keith brought a moderate upturn there, one transaction being for 14,000 shares, and Loew's gained a couple of points.

Call money renewed at 2 per cent for the first time since August 11, and was available in the outside market at 1½ per cent. Easy money is expected until the Labor Day currency demands of about $75,000,000 make themselves felt.

German to Brave Channel in Glider

WASSERKRUPPE, Germany, Aug. 21.—(AP)—Lieut. Hasse Hemmer of the German military police, one of the contestants in the international gliding competition here, said today he planned to glide over the English channel next March. He intends to ride upon the clouds and winds of a storm.

Expect to Continue Oklahoma Oil Curb

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 21.—Indications point to continuance during September of the 550,000 barrels daily production allowance for Oklahoma. Operators will meet in Tulsa tomorrow and present curtailment is expected to be adopted again.

Sugar Market.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—Raw sugar was quieter today, and in absence of business prices were unchanged at 2.16 for spots duty paid.

The refined market was unchanged with the undertone more or less unsettled. List prices were unchanged at 4.35 for fine granulated, and while some refiners announced that they would advance to 4.50 tomorrow, the announcement was by no means general, and buyers were again inclined to limit purchases to nearby requirements and await further developments.

Money Market.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—Curb stocks were heavy today. Efforts to extend the advance at the opening were checked by the bear element who resumed their selling operations with their offerings well taken on a scaledown. Trading was dull and toward midday a slightly easier tendency was in evidence.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange giving all stocks and bonds traded in. (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list).

RADIO ADJUSTS FINANCIAL SYSTEM

Corporation Enters Best Half Of Year With Finished Stocks Greatly Reduced

NEW YORK, Aug. 21—The first six months of the current year was a period of readjustment of Radio Corporation. Besides having to dispose of an inventory aggregating $31,946,797 left over from 1929 in the first quarter of 1930 in a buyers' market the company had to readjust its capital and physical system in the plan for unification with General Electric and Westinghouse.

The net profit statement for the first half was about as predicted showing an operating profit of $505,098 for the period which after Canadian taxes and taxes was equivalent to $1.27 a share ($50 par) on 397 shares of 7 per cent preferred. A stock Dividend of $504,500 were paid on the 5 per cent preferred "B" shares so that the company did not earn the aggregate of preferred dividends for the period by a total of $203,802.

Total income for the first six months from all sources aggregated $3,753,079 against $60,439,593 in 1929 and $28,483,226 in 1928. The last-named total did not include earnings from the Victor Company which later became part of the Radio Corporation.

INVENTORIES REDUCED

Disposal of the huge inventory left over from 1929 practically has been completed. Inventories as of June 30, 1930 amounted to $31,776,160 and were valued at cost or market, whichever was lower, due to the acquisition of the manufacturing business. Inventories included for the first time all manufacturing materials, supplies and work in progress. At the special meeting held last May the shareholders authorized the increase in the "B" preferred capital shares to 1,500,000 from 813,365 shares, and an increase in common shares of the corporation to 15,000,000 from 7,500,000 shares. None of the increased "B" preferred shares has been issued, and no plans exist at present for issuing any of this stock.

DEAL WITH ELECTRICALS

Pursuant to this action the company issued 6,580,375 shares of its common stock to the General Electric and Westinghouse companies in payment for their radio manufacturing rights and other tangible assets in this country (other than a small manufacturing business of transmitters and transmitting tubes). The net value of the tangible assets so acquired was substantially equal to the net value of the tangible assets of the Radio Corporation represented by the common stock outstanding prior to this acquisition.

Incidentally, the issuance of these common shares to the electricals included reimbursement to them of $32,000,000 cash advanced to Radio Corporation. This leaves the company with only a small total of notes payable amounting to $3,250,000. Thus the corporation eliminated a large total of notes on which interest was being paid by including the total in the common shares issued to the electricals.

Wall Street Anticipates Greater Interest in Aviation Shares

Wall Street is anticipating a broadening of interest in the aviation shares in consequence of the Chicago airplane exposition. Whether or not the aviation show will exert the same influence on speculative sentiment with regard to airplane stocks as the motor shows have done for automobile shares in the past is something that remains to be seen. But another development which will tend to arouse public attention to the aviation shares is the opening by the government next Monday of bids for mail contracts. With these two points in mind a strong aggregation credited with having piloted Vanadium Steel over a long period is understood to have switched its favor temporarily at least into United Aircraft.

Southern Railway yielded sharply to new low levels, slipping down rather rapidly to prices not reached since as far back as 1924. Southern has been under steady pressure for months, reflecting the belief that the present $6 dividend will give way to a lower rate in 1931. This opinion results from the smart falling off in earnings which the road has experienced since the middle of last year. On the basis of net results for the first six months it is indicated net for the current year will run around $5.75 a share as against $11.65 a share on the common last year and $12.53 a share in 1928.

Predictions are being made that earnings of American Cyanamid Company in the fiscal year which ended July 31 last will approximate $1.70 a share. There has been selling in the stock at times recently on the belief that there was considerable doubt regarding the maintenance of the dividend. Important interests affiliated with the organization insist that there is no reason why the next distribution should not be paid and express belief that succeeding disbursements also are justified. They state the management is entirely satisfied with the progress made in the past year.

Public liquidation has been comparatively small for some time. Commission houses report that their customers' accounts are well margined and as a result they have not been easily frightened into selling stocks when reactions have occurred. The decline in June eliminated many of the weak long positions which existed in the market and since then there has been no real necessity for outsiders to throw over stocks.

Bears who have been fighting the advancing trend in the market for some time readily admit that they have not been able to induce outside selling to any extent. This fact has been responsible for keeping the market fairly steady to firm in most sessions recently. With margined accounts well intrenched it would require more than the temporary recessions which occurred in recent sessions to bring about public liquidation.

Business conditions continue to be actively discussed in the financial district and the opinions are somewhat mixed. Quite a few insist that there is no indication as yet of definite improvement in activity. However they admit that a change for the better should develop shortly mainly because industry should have a seasonal betterment at this time of the year. Disappointment has been expressed because improvement in trade has not yet developed. Other observers are somewhat more confident. They look for trade improvement to be a factor in the stock market for a time even though the increase in activity is to be followed by another dull period.

AMN. CHEMICAL DIVIDEND LIKELY

Will Eliminate $40,000,000 Deficit by Exchange For Sub-Firms Stock

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—The American Agricultural Chemical Company plans to eliminate its profit and loss deficit, amounting to nearly $40,000,000, and thus prepare the way for dividend payments if profits warrant, by substitution of securities of a subsidiary for those of the parent company either through voluntary exchange or dissolution of the latter.

SHIFT OPERATIONS

The consolidated annual report for the year ended June 30 indicates that once this is done dividends will be possible. Besides showing net earnings of over $1,500,000 the company in its balance sheets presents current assets of nearly $24,000,000, and current liabilities (including reserves) of only $3,800,000. Cash alone on June 30 exceeded $6,700,000.

With a capital impairment which has existed since 1923 no dividends can be paid even on the preferred stock. Directors have in the past year shifted more of the operating properties to American Agricultural Chemical Company of Delaware, a company organized in 1913 with only one class of stock (common) and wholly owned and which has been utilized for many years as the medium for doing business in certain states.

PLANS BEING STUDIED

The Delaware company has now become the principal manufacturing and operating company and the Connecticut company has assumed more the status of a holding company whereof the principal asset is the common stock of the Delaware company. Furthermore the Delaware company has been substituted for the Connecticut company as obligor on the first refunding 7½ per cent bonds pursuant to supplemental indenture executed between the Delaware company and the trustee under the mortgage. The Delaware company is free of capital impairment.

The directors are studying plans for an exchange of securities of the two which when definitely formulated will be submitted to stockholders.

RUBBER FIRM'S ASSETS UP

At the close of a six months' period marked by severe operating difficulties and raw material problems B. F. Goodrich Company entered the final half of 1930 with working capital at a new high level and with cash and equivalent showing an increase of close to 200 per cent from the previous year.

Through sale of $30,000,000 of 6 per cent convertible debentures in May, company liquidated a large portion of its current indebtedness which had been increased substantially through acquisition of Hood Rubber Company and Miller Rubber Company. As a result, on June 30, last, cash and equivalent totaled $18,161,411 and working capital equaled $84,222,306, compared with $10,500,563 and $39,284,269, respectively, on December 31, and with $6,490,806 and $64,567,311 on June 30 of last year.

Current assets increased to $106,187,160 from $90,524,121 on December 31 and $83,320,887 at the close of June last year, while current liabilities of $21,964,853 compared with $31,239,854 at the end of 1929 and with $18,953,377 on June 30, 1929. Ratio of current assets to current liabilities likewise increased to 4.8 to 1 from 2.9 to 1 on December 31 and 4.4 to 1 on June 30 of last year.

THE PRODUCE MARKET

The demand for fruits and vegetables was dull today at the wholesale produce markets in Pittsburgh. There were no changes in quotations.

The poultry markets remained steady; demand good, supply adequate without change in quotations.

The butter, egg and cheese markets rested firm; demand fair, supply nominal, with quotations remaining unchanged.

Car lot receipts were nominal with 379 cars on track. Arrivals included 6 cars of apples, 4 cabbage, 21 cantaloupes, 1 celery, 1 cucumber, 7 California fruit, 1 garlic, 8 grapes, 1 dewberries, 2 lemons, 10 lettuce, 6 onions, 3 oranges, 9 peaches, 2 pears, 7 pears, 1 pineapples, 17 potatoes, 1 sweet potatoes, 2 tomatoes and 7 watermelons.

American Zinc-Lead Plans Are Ratified

BOSTON, Aug. 21.—At the postponed special meeting of stockholders of American Zinc, Lead and Smelting Company the proposed recapitalization plan was approved.

India's Hollywood Contains Eight Studios

BOMBAY, Aug. 21.—India's little Hollywood here has eight motion picture studios. There are several others scattered about India, but Bombay is the center, turning out 12 to 15 films a month.

The average film here, with native actors, costs $10,0000 to $15,000 and its approximate life in the trade is two years. Some films are hand-colored, this costing 30 cents a foot.

Bombay has five theaters running foreign films, chiefly American, and Calcutta has three. The native cinemas in these and other cities are numerous. The larger ones are palatial, having georgeous entrances with emblems of peacocks, monkeys and elephants at every corner.

Pan-American Lago Merger Is Ratified

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—Stockholders of both companies have ratified the agreement to merge Lago Oil and Transport with Pan-American Petroleum and Transport and the merger has been declared effective as of August 18. Letters have gone forward to stockholders of Lago, asking them to send in their stock for exchange for Pan-American stock. Lago stockholders are to receive one share of Pan-American class B common for every two shares of Lago.

Warren Refinery To Build Storage

WARREN, Pa., Aug. 21.—The United Refining Company, one of the largest independent oil refineries in Pennsylvania, plans construction of storage tank farm on Warren-Olean highway four miles from this city. More than $60,000 will be expended for steel storage tanks, pipe lines, etc. Farm will be used for storage of Pennsylvania crude.

Atlas Stores Sales Gain For 6 Months

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—Atlas Stores Corporation net sales during the first six months of 1930 totaled $10,124,592 or an increase of $2,578,578 over the first half of 1929.

DAILY TRUE STORY

Double Canfield

Prof. Swazey was tired.

He disliked to admit it, but he knew that it was true. His classes were not the easiest in the world and he had, in addition to this work, just completed the final of a series of textbooks.

Upon advice of Catherine Gethart, daughter of the president of the college, Prof. Swazey had gone to Maple Ridge Farms to rest throughout his vacation.

The very name sounded restful to him: he had visioned a great rambling farmhouse and buildings. He was somewhat dismayed when he arrived to find that the "Farms" was a great modern summer hotel.

He had made reservations and decided to remain for a while.

The view from the west veranda was excellent, but as it was a somewhat narrow veranda that was on the original building before it had swollen into a summer hotel, the guests preferred the wider ones, where there were card tables, hammocks, steamer chairs and tables for afternoon tea.

Prof. Horace Swazey soon learned that he could enjoy a fair amount of solitude, by far the best view and avoid the chatter of women, laughter of young men and wailings and squealings of youngsters, on what was known as the "old veranda."

The dancing did not lure him—he didn't care for it. Now and then during his first week he played bridge, but the players put in more time discussing new arrivals and gushing what is known in gossip-land as "dirt" than in attending to the game, so he gave it up.

Prof. Swazey tried to read, but his mind was too tired. One afternoon he took a card table out to the old veranda and proceeded to play solitaire. He knew a great many games, including the poker solitaire, the "clock" and the "convict," but he liked "Canfield" best of all of them.

Well Satisfied

That afternoon he started to enjoy himself, the game rested him, the view pleased him and the fair amount of quiet was just what he wanted.

It was exactly 4 p. m. when a young lady found him there and rushed up to greet him.

It was Catherine Gethart, who had recommended the place. Catherine's recommendation was due to the fact that she had decided to marry Prof. Horace Swazey.

Catherine was 30 and admitted being 24. She had known a great many college students, but did not yearn for youth in a husband, only in a playmate. She was so close to the "College Widow" stage that it was no fun. Hence her decision to marry Prof. Swazey.

Being ultra modern, Catherine figured that if she wanted to marry an eligible young man it would be a very easy matter. Recommending Prof. Swazey to Maple Ridge Farms was part of her plan. Arriving a week later was another part of her plan. To lure him on to a proposal while they were at this place was the third and important portion of her plan.

Prof. said, politely, that he was glad to see her and remarked that the place wasn't as quiet and restful as he had hoped.

"Oh, now, Horace, the sort of rest you need is life, vivacity—fun—I shall see to it that you forget classes and students and even text books and thoroughly enjoy yourself."

He thanked her rather mildly.

Because Catherine begged so insistently and prettily, he went in to the "ballroom with her that night and danced for a while. He didn't sleep well. And Catherine was a trifle disappointed.

But Prof. Swazey didn't seem to care to snap out of anything that was quiet and restful into anything that was giddy and gay and active.

Catherine had gone up Mount Royal with a party, rather chagrined because the professor told her he did not think climbing mountains was going to rest him much.

When he went out to the old west veranda after luncheon to enjoy himself with 20 or so games of Canfield, he found a new arrival there. He dimly recollected having seen her in the dining room the night before.

She was playing solitaire. It was Canfield, he noticed as he walked past her and set up his tables in his favorite angle.

Talks With Woman

He played for a while and caught himself watching the young woman — or was she young? He couldn't tell. But she rather amazed him — she had so much hair and it was put up in a way that made him think of his mother. She played for a while and then started off over the intervale to the distant hills.

The second day as he came out, she was there, playing Canfield again. He saw her put a red jack on a red queen.

"Er—isn't that a red queen?" he asked, and then he realized that he shouldn't be a kibitzer. "I beg your pardon. I spoke without thinking," he added.

She removed the jack and then looked up.

"I was playing more at 'Wishing' than Canfield," she said, brightly. "I was wishing I had a little bungalow over there on top of Blue Hill."

Professor shook his head at her. "Someone would put in radios and orchestras and things," he said, and, bowing, he walked on.

Catherine had returned from the pond determined to cheer up the professor. She stepped out on the old veranda in time to see him speaking to the young woman.

"Were you trying to cheer up Mrs. Ledley's servant?" she asked him, when they had gone inside.

"Servant?" he asked.

"Of course you wouldn't know—she sits about as though she were one of the guests instead of a paid menial."

"It is my understanding of 'menial.'"

"She is a sort of maid to Mrs. Ledley. Aren't you going to go in the bridge tournament tonight? It will be quite jolly—nice prizes."

"I'll try it once more—but the game as played here seems to be mostly conversation of a gossipy nature."

They played bridge that evening. After that Prof. Swazey walked up and down the terrace a few times with Catherine and then excused himself. Catherine had started to talk about how lonely life was and what better work one could do if there was some sort of companionship to fall back on—providing the people who marry are congenial—hit it off so perfectly the way you and I have done, Horace," she explained.

Next forenoon, at the old butternut tree on the field road where Horace occasionally walked, he came across the young woman and Mrs. Ledley. They didn't see him.

Horace Bored

The young woman was reading in French, and Mrs. Ledley was trying to translate.

"I don't see why you make so little progress with me," Mrs. Ledley said querulously. "Sally Hazlett took lessons only a month and got along beautifully when she went to Paris."

"You are doing quite well, Mrs. Ledley," she said softly.

But she wasn't. The profesor realized that she couldn't understand half that the young woman read.

Catherine tried to "rush" Horace into dances and all sorts of active social life and he became more and more bored.

He played his Canfield afternoons when he could, but Catherine often came out and insisted on playing Honeymoon bridge.

He found the young woman one afternoon trying to play Canfield, and at first he thought she had a severe cold, then he saw that she was crying and trying to forget whatever it was that made her cry, and concentrate on the solitaire.

She was saying that she did, but it was all chance and she preferred Canfield.

"Horace, dear, we're going to the village and I'd like you to come along with us," Catherine cried.

Horace went, but he didn't enjoy it. Young Mrs. Turner was a poor driver and they nearly came to grief several times.

It was after this, down at the butternut tree, that Horace came across Mrs. Ledley berating the young woman.

"It's outrageous, Helen, the way you act—you ought to be grateful that I am giving you this vacation and paying all expenses, just for the little French you try to teach me—and you could help me out now that Jane is gone—"

"I'm sorry, but I am not qualified to do a maid's work, Mrs. Ledley."

"Beggars should not be choosers," Mrs. Ledley said, rather sneeringly.

"I had sufficient funds, but Uncle David got me to invest it in his stocks—it all went."

"My husband didn't intend it that way—everyone lost in the market—and here I am giving you this nice vacation—"

Catherine Desperate

Prof. Swazey moved away, rather guilty at listening in. And that afternoon the young lady was at her solitaire table on the veranda, but she wasn't touching the cards, just staring off across the hills with rather damp eyes.

Prof. Swazey felt badly.

"Did you ever play double Canfield?" he asked her.

She had not. He showed her how. To his surprise she began to laugh. She was mighty pretty when she laughed. He learned that her name was Anne Ledley and that she taught school. She knew who he was and knew about some of his text books.

They played the next day and the next.

Catherine began to get desperate.

Finally she came to Prof. Swazey after dinner.

"Horace, I'm going to take you to task—you mustn't let that servant impose on you—you must not associate with her—it looks as though you were having an affair with Mrs. Ledley's maid—you certainly need me with you every minute," Catherine said.

"Kind of you, Catherine, but—"

"Oh, Horace, dear, don't say 'but,' and do come along with me to the pavilion for some dancing."

"Can't very well, I'm playing double Canfield with Helen."

"But don't you see—"

"We expect to play a lot of double Canfield—as we are going to be married tomorrow. We are building a bungalow on Blue Hill. How can I ever thank you for advising me to come here?"

"Marry that servant—marry that—"

"Excuse me."

Helen Ledley was coming along. Prof. Swazey joined her and then went out on the veranda to play double Canfield.

Do Not Be Fooled by Idle Gossip and Organized Scorn

Thank heaven the camera does not exaggerate. Consequently this little snap shot, taken at Random, New Jersey, makes critics of prohibition enforcement look rather foolish. The picture shows the effective work of a government agent who has quietly slipped into a motion picture theater where he has discovered a beautiful young Junior Leaguer about to break the law. By simply looking her straight in the eye, he has convinced the beauty that the best thing to do is pour the vile stuff into his hat. Such quiet effective work is going on all the time—but you never hear of it because the selfish wet interests influence theater owners to keep their cinema sinks dark.

Perhaps we could like berets more if we disliked boudoir caps less.

A beret is probably all right in the right place—it would probably make a very good home brew strainer.

Some people dislike berets merely because they are worn by song writers. But a song writer is a song writer even if he doesn't wear a beret.

Management of Airport Calls for Consideration

With two millions of dollars about spent, a third million pledged, and possibly a fourth or even a fifth million necessary, for a municipal airport of the kind we have set out to get, Allegheny County citizens, already overloaded with taxes, have assumed another heavy burden. They will carry it cheerfully if they receive full value for their money. If they do not receive full value—if there is waste and inefficiency in the expenditure of the remaining millions—there is likely to be a political upheaval which will make it necessary for the responsible officials to retire from public office.

One of the first things to be done to insure efficiency is to see that the field is adequately equipped and properly managed. The engineers have about finished their work of laying out the terrain. Now comes the job of the aviation experts, the men who will designate where the runways are to lie and the hangars to stand and the beacons to flash, the men who, familiar with the needs of air line operators, will give them the kind of port and service that they want.

There are to be jobs, permanent jobs, in connection with the municipal airport, and it can be depended upon that the political powers are already giving some thought to the question of filling these positions. It is important that they shall not be filled, as public offices so often are, with political henchmen with no special fitness for the job. These airport positions call, emphatically, for men thoroughly conversant with aviation, and political considerations should not enter into the matter at all.

Norman F. Brown, county director of public works, promises the airport will be ready for use by commercial aviation operators in five months. It is not too soon, then, to take up the subject of the management of the port.

Good management is vital to the success of the enterprise. If we are to get an A1A rating from the Department of Commerce, if we are to catch up with other cities now five years ahead of us in their facilities for flying, if we are to be made a station on the Nation's great aerial routes, it is imperative that the job of directing the port shall be given to the most competent man that can be found.

Coal Is Weak Spot in Our Industrial Armor

Coal was discussed in widely differing ways by Secretary of Labor James J. Davis the other day.

In a conference with President Hoover he said the anthracite outlook was rosy—that with peace between operators and miners assured by the five-and-one-half-year agreement recently signed, operators were preparing to open mines long closed, have embarked on a $25,000,000 improvement program, and have excellent business in prospect.

Then Secretary Davis went to Spangler, Pa., to address a meeting of bituminous operators. He told them the soft coal industry of Pennsylvania is in a bad way. It is being strangled by railroad rate differentials and by the difference between the wages paid by Pennsylvania operators and their Southern competitors. Southern miners are working, he said, for as little as $2 a day.

What a painful contrast the bituminous industry presents to the anthracite! Secretary Davis was not exaggerating the seriousness of the soft coal situation. It is the weakest spot in our industrial armor. He said he would regard it as the crowning achievement of his career if he could find some way of putting this industry back on its feet. It is a problem for a business genius.

Over-production is the principal difficulty. According to Secretary Davis, Pennsylvania operators have a capacity of a billion tons and a market for only half that amount. It is a pity the operators cannot get together and agree to curtail production as the oil men have done, and so raise the price of coal and eliminate cut-throat competition. There will be general agreement with Secretary Davis' remark that if the Sherman anti-trust law stands in the way of co-operation, some way must be found to overcome the difficulty.

Pending the solution of that problem, let us hope the Interstate Commerce Commission will act favorably on the Pittsburgh operators' petition for fairer railroad rates.

Growing Appreciation of The Witchery of Archery

The astonishing feat of Mrs. J. Milner Roberts, of Bewickley, in shooting an arrow the record-breaking distance of 306 yards at the annual tournament of the National Archery Association in Chicago directs attention to an ancient sport which seems to be steadily increasing in popularity. Here in the Pittsburgh district it is specially thriving. Mrs. Roberts is not the only local archer to achieve distinction. James S. Jiles, of Pittsburgh, was national champion for several years.

The interest in this healthful outdoor pastime merits encouragement. For persons whose tone has been lowered by too strenuous participation in the feverish activities of the age there is genuine refreshment in archery. It possesses advantages over golf and tennis in requiring no fixed playground; it is not an expensive sport, and neither sex nor age is a barrier to attaining great skill. A 16-year-old boy, Rudolph Lagal, of Rome, N. Y., was Eastern champion a few years ago.

Primitive pastimes like hunting and fishing never lose their appeal. It is interesting to note that not a few hunters, in whom the spirit of sportsmanship is strong, are turning to the use of the bow and arrow in preference to firearms. In angling for trout, Gifford Pinchot uses hooks without barbs, that the fish may have a better chance to escape and the combat be less one-sided. The same motive lies behind the use of bows and arrows. But in the hands of such archers as Mr. Jiles and Mrs. Roberts, the primitive weapons might prove as deadly as rifles.

THE STUDY OF GENIUS

By Archibald Henderson

For those who hold the faith of a divine origin for man, much support may be found in the contemplation of genius. It is unnecessary to say "human" genius, for, so far as we know, there is no other kind. The genius is a sort of unestablished proof of man's godlike origin. Genius is a constant reminder of the vast, towering possibilities of the human mentality; and therefore the human genius should be celebrated and heralded. For it serves as an incentive to man, spurring him to effort, demonstrating what he can accomplish, and showing him how inadequately and ineffectively he exerts the power at his disposal.

Although the individual genius has been consistently studied, and abnormal aspects of genius have attracted the attention of many writers and scientists, comparatively little has been done to formulate the laws of genius, determine the principles which govern it, and arrive at valid generalizations regarding its origin, appearance and manifestations. The recent work of the distinguished neurologist, Beverly R. Tucker, is an attractive study, delightfully readable and at the same time solidly based on scientific knowledge. The title of the book, "The Gift of Genius," indicates the view of the author that genius comes, settling upon the brow like the Biblical tongue of flame.

It is well to have clearly indicated at the outset that there are four things which chiefly affect a man's career: Heredity, environment, circumstance and inner urge. Tucker, who raises the question whether so-called "learned authorities" are really learned, is unwilling to accept without qualification the dictum that acquired traits or characters cannot be transmitted. How, then, shall we account for the Grecian or Roman nose, the Hapsburg lip, for example? Perhaps certain traits or characters are definitely transmissible; within a certain range—taking a longer or shorter time, as the case may be, for their exhibition through inheritance.

The ordinary individual is profoundly responsive to the form, pressure and complex of his environment. The genius might almost be defined as he who dominates his environment, triumphs over it, and finds his release as genius through such triumph. Yet man cannot wholly escape his environment, which exerts its influence whether man is conscious of it or not. Environment is molding but not creative in its effect. It may color the expression of man's traits without being able to create them.

An ancient Greek philosopher said that character is destiny, and that view has been echoed by one of the latest and most fashionable mystics. But we cannot rephrase this classic aphorism into the form "genius is circumstance." According to Gray in his famous elegy, the graveyard of a country churchyard might be filled with the remains of "mute, inglorious Miltons." The world, however, concerns itself about the suppressive character of circumstance. The genius makes his own circumstance; he does not permit existent circumstance to crush or suppress him. It is only the poet's fancy that "full many a flower is born to blush unseen." It is a fancy which is not susceptible of scientific proof.

It is scarcely open to question that genius never lacks a certain latent creative trust, which may be called the inner urge. But unfortunately we can draw little value from this conclusion. The inner urge, speaking mathematically, may be a necessary, but not a sufficient condition for genius. Countless men and women have harbored this inner urge; but through the lack of certain other qualities, through misdirection or imperfection, the inner urge failed to flower into genius.

Geniuses have told me, on more than one occasion, that they felt themselves to be agents of some higher power, instruments for the expression of some mysterious life force. As Tucker says: Genius knows not time nor order, nor circumstance. Genius burns its candle at both ends. Genius, in order to create, creates itself; it subjugates, crushes, consumes other faculties. The only reward of genius is genius alone, indestructible, without heredity, without convention, inexplicable. Like radium, genius feeds upon itself interminably and emanates from itself unendingly, and, withal, it is so luminous, that we must dim our eyes to behold it, or else we lose our sight.

LISTEN, WORLD .

By Elsie Robinson

Once he was known only as Number 30,666. Just another prisoner in a cell.

Ever been in a cell? Ever see the bars closing on you—ever hear the silence thudding 'round you—ever feel all that had made you a man, instead of a number, oozing away? How can a man live on, walled like that? Only God knows—God who gave us the makin's.

But Number 30,666 lived on—and lived OUT. And presently there was a great stirring and thrilling in the free world. Someone was writing short stories as they never had been written before—with such fire and dash that they took one by storm. Writing as though no bars of convention could hold him—as indeed they couldn't. For Number 30,666 was O. Henry, and every word that he wrote broke through the bars of his cell.

Now, another prisoner, Ollie Meloay, Number 52,607 of the Ohio Penitentiary, tells the sequel in The Writer. O. Henry's battling spirit broke down more than his own bars. It broke a trail for other men—a trail by which spirits might go free even though their bodies stayed in cells. Today, in the same prison where he spent terrible years, 30 other men are seeking the release he found in writing. They may never be free men—in the flesh. But they have found the secret of all liberty—they have learned how to live above the body and the things that harass the body. Though they are numbered criminals, they are really as free as any men on earth.

Now in memory of the man who taught them the way, they wish to do a strange and moving thing.

"It is urged," says Ollie Meloay, "that the cell O. Henry once occupied be removed from this prison, taken out body and soul, garbed in its gray paint and flattened bars, its cold gray flagging and low frowning roof, and placed where men may see and pause and wonder at the amazing courage of 'the Prince in Gray.'"

O. Henry in the Ohio Penitentiary—you and I on Main street—not such a great difference after all. For each man lives in a cell. No two cells are alike. One man is caged in fear—and another in hate—and another in greed—and another in conceit—and another in lies—and another in stupidity—and another in pain—and another in poverty—and another in grief—there is no end to the cells which bar men in. But each man knows the shadow of some bars across his soul.

The goal of a great life is not to be free from shackles—for no man can hope for that—BUT TO BEAR SHACKLES GALLANTLY. To bear our cells as O. Henry bore his. The bars were always there—but through them he sent romance and adventure, laughter and bright impudence, into the world. O. Henry was celled in a penitentiary—Stevenson celled in tuberculosis—Milton celled in blindness—yet nothing could keep them down. And the greatest thing they gave to other men was not the written word—but the exhibition of courage which wrought those words, in spite of the darkness of a tomb.

For that's what your sad and shackled fellow man needs most—not your song, nor your story, nor your spectacular stunt.....BUT JUST THE HEARTENING PROOF THAT A HUMAN CAN GET THE BEST OF HIS CELL.

Text For Today Ye yourselves are taught of God to love one another.—I. Thessalonians, iv: 9.

(The text for today is suggested by the Rev. O. H. Tyler, pastor, Trinity Lutheran Church, Avalon.)

"Bugs" Baer Says:

The Liquor Question

While a welfare worker has suggested that all lawmakers take a recess to sober up, it is interesting to know what England is doing with the liquor problem.

"Bugs" Baer

The London Express complains that a commission of 21 cranks, brewers and investigators has spent £6,000 asking experi witnesses over 1,000,000 questions about the English workingman and his beer.

A pound is $5. As one of our Pullman porters said when he discovered a shilling tip was only a quarter, "No wonder that man was ashamed to call it by its right name."

There is no necessity to ask the English workingman 1,000,000 questions about his beer. One question is enough and a nod is corroboration.

The commission has discovered that doctors drink more than coal miners. Also that steeplechase riders drink more than ski jumpers.

English heavyweights drink more than pedestrians. But, then, an English heavyweight is on the ground more.

Tall men can stand a lot more liquor than short men. Archery has suffered a slump at Carlisle, where the public houses are controlled by the crown. In case of a fainting spell by a volunteer fireman, the commish found out that smelling salts or a burned feather held under the beezer is more efficacious than alcohol.

We hope that somebody holds a burned feather under the nose of that commission until it thinks it is a stuffed ostrich fried in cracker crumbs.

If you give an English workingman his choice of a burned feather or a bottle of Scotch you know he ain't going to choose strawberries with cream.

One member of the selfishly-appointed committee desired to apprehend the amount of alcohol contained in good old cough mixture. If he had taken one teaspoonful of real cough mixture we guarantee that his cough would have backfired through his ears.

The investigators gave much evidence about the number of bottles of Welsh Boiler Compound given away in Wales at Christmas time. None was given away in Scotland during the same period.

The ingredients of the highball and the American cocktail were also diagnosed and tabulated for reference in case of a future tie game.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

By H. G. WELLS
In Collaboration With
Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

There is a literature and discussion of this subject too abundant to ignore; it is associated with queer little cults and practices upon which we offer no comment, and so it may be well to point out that the facts we are here recording fly right in the face of such assumptions that there are ladies sadly misplaced in whiskered bodies or vice versa.

Clearly, in all that we have told, disposition follows structure. The hormones keep body and disposition consistent.

H. G. Wells

Homo sapiens, however, is extraordinarily curious, plastic and suggestible in sexual matters, and through bad influence or unfortunate accidents he may develop the strangest, most pitiful perversions of desire—matters for the parent guardian, friendly doctor or mental home rather than for publication and sympathy.

The importance of these unfortunate eccentricities is enormously overrated, both by their adversaries and themselves, and more than half of the evil of their misfortune is due to such exaggeration. On the one side a little abnormal thought and behavior is represented as a terrible crime; on the other hand, it is elevated to the dignity of a marvelous distinction.

Sexual fuss is rather characteristic of the primates, as any cage of baboons will testify. There is no reason, however, why biology should be invoked to bolster up perverted ideas or why it should tacitly allow its facts to be misapplied.

The true intersex is physically malformed, a thwarted being in that respect, but not a perverted one.

The organisms which adrenals or pituitaries or some other bit of vital chemistry disorganized are in another case. They are not full intersexes, in so far as their reproductive organs themselves are definitely of one sex.

It is such combinations that give us the masculine women and feminine men of whom we have spoken. Very possibly such organisms are more readily suggestible in the matter of sex abnormality. That we shall only know when the analysis of motives has been pushed farther than its present elementary stage.

Meanwhile let us beware of this grotesque mythology of purely female souls in purely male bodies and all that it implies.

CHAPTER VII.
Variation of Speech.
Section 1—The Questions of Variation.

Our preceding chapters have, we hope, cleared up the general facts of individual development with a sufficiency of detail and explanation for us to resume now those broader questions we had to leave open at the beginning of this Fourth Book.

Our alternatives—or rather our group of possible origins of hereditable variation—were firstly, what we may call mechanical or chance changes of the germ-plasm, in which the Neo-Darwinians (Weismannists) find a sufficient cause; secondly, heritable variations due to striving and the acquisitions of the struggling individual (asserted by the Lamarckians and denied by the Weismannists); thirdly, variations sustained in a definite direction, due to an innate drive in the germ-plasm of a group of species (Orthogenesis), and, fourthly, variations through some mystically conceived force within or without the substance of the species in a "creative" or "upward" direction (Bergson and Shaw).

We did not note in that section, but we may note here how easily this latter belief may relapse from evolution to the older conception of transformism by accepting every favorable upward movement as a relapse into creative activity—and by ignoring the frequent degenerative processes that occur.

We shall deal first of all with the fortuitous mechanical changes of the germ-plasm. We shall show that such changes certainly do occur. But we shall not go all the way with the Neo-Darwinians.

We shall proceed to discuss in a far more open spirit but without absolute rejection the Neo-Lamarckian claim for the inheritance of acquired characteristics (somatic changes). Then we will take up Orthogenesis (on which we have already thrown the shadow of doubt), and conclude with an examination of the creative evolution idea.

In that way we hope to make this book of our work a complete summary, from our point of view be it remembered, of the state of evolutionary discussion at the present time.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—Elderly ladies in New York refuse stubbornly to grow old. In other years there was a conviction among women past 60 that nothing mattered. Their lives seemed to congeal and they were seldom seen in public.

They were shunted into inactivity through a general belief they had their day. This frustration was encouraged by the majority who thought venerable women looked utterly foolish if not sitting complacently in corners with hands folded in their laps.

Today at the theater and opera women past 60 and 70 and even 80 are seen in evening dress enjoying themselves. They learned all of a sudden that stagnation was largely psychological instead of physiological.

They attend bridge parties in the afternoon, dinners in bright cafes at night, and every supper club has a sprinkling of silver-haired matrons who would have gasped at such didoes 20 years ago. These do not include foolish old ladies squired about by gigolos.

Instead, the escorts are sons or grandsons who take a deal of pride in the companionship. Save in tenement districts of the lower East Side, one seldom finds elderly women conforming to that decorum, molded by tradition—black bonnets, black gloves and peau de soie gowns.

They dress as smartly as women in their 40s. One dressmaking atelier caters especially to women past middle age, and while there is a becoming austerity in the general effect there is nothing to suggest chimney corner and slippers.

For many years old people were mentally gangrened by being made to feel inferior. Last years became a crucifixion—the martyrdom of being tolerated. This was never so with New York's old boys who are always inclined to caper like colts, the rascals.

A New York dentist is able to refresh himself by dropping to sleep for two and three minute periods. He excuses himself from patients to visit his workroom, has his cat-nap and—this came to me with practically no thinking up—returns to the grind.

I am not a socialist, yet it strikes me the clearest political thinker in New York is Norman Thomas, recent socialist candidate for Mayor. He has patience, culture, vision. There are few men in whose hands the metropolis would be so safe. And there is no one into whose hands it is less likely to trust itself.

Tinting finger nails to match the frock goes a step further. Fashionables appear with jewels and nails colored to match. Green nails to match an emerald necklace were spied in a cafe last evening. The wearer was in white satin and if it wasn't Julia Hoyt I need glasses.

Most men like to recall early hardships—cracking ice in water jugs for morning ablutions and sleeping on corn-husk mattresses. I've white-fibbed so much about my own, I wonder, too, if others are largely exaggerations.

A spruce gentleman at breakfast was recounting early days of slopping hogs, following the corn planter and pitching hay. A listening cynic observing his horse-blanket suit, dinky mustache and noisy shirt, remarked: "Well, one farm got relief anyway."

There is excitement in the street below. A lady, well dressed, is shaking her fist at some one in a motor car at the curb. A stenographer in a window across the way saves me the trouble of rushing down. On a big piece of cardboard she has written: "Husband caught cheating."

We have lots of fun on our block.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

Are you one of the class entirely out of sympathy with the man in straitened circumstances?

You think he must be a poor manager, devoid of good sense, unambitious, and lacking in judgment and self control.

In many instances these charges are true, but in scores of cases, not so.

All men are not constituted so that they can command large salaries.

Try as hard as they may, working as many hours as you do, and just as earnest in their desire for advancement, they cannot find the job which pays big.

Perhaps they have not the necessary requirements to make the advancement and through no fault of their own.

It is a misfortune they cannot overcome.

You think of the obstacles you have surmounted, the self denial you have exercised and the thought you have put into things to gain headway.

You think they should reap as well as you have if they have sown as you have.

But they can't get out of themselves something that is not there.

They may not have the capacity and they are not to blame for that.

Before you censure the other fellow, you should be fair enough to consider the drawbacks he has met.
